Adams Has Argument With Kaye

Parties at Odds On Sunday Parley

Criticism of Sunday night's "emergency" Common Council session dealing with the city's bus problem continued at Tuesday night's regular meeting and introduction of what appears to be a taxi problem drew a heated exchange between Alderman Frank A. Adams (D) Fifth Ward and Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye.

Minority Leader Joseph F. Carroll Jr., (R) 11th Ward, charged that majority party aldermen have mishandled the bus problem dating back to July while as of Tuesday morning Mayor John J. Schwenk gained restoration of some service curtailed by the Kingston City Transportation Corp.

Democrats held that the Sunday meeting was in the best interest of the people of the city and Council President Kaye revealed knowledge of a threatened strike of bus drivers had been received before the Sunday session.

Wants Details

Kaye became involved in argument with Adams through verbal and gavel efforts to restrain the latter in his insistance for specific detail as to a report from the police department on what was reported as an apparent violation of a city taxi ordinance.

Alderman Clark W. Myers (R) Second Ward, citing a proposed raise in taxi rates as mentioned in an advertisement and from a report on fares he had heard, felt that an ordinance dealing with the local taxi business as adopted April 6, 1960, was being violated.

Adams asked if this were not a violation of franchise. He was told that, if a violation, it would instead be one affecting an ordinance.

A Pressing Request

"If it is a violation this council should know about it," said Adams. Myers indicated he would be unable to decide that fact until he obtained more information. The Myers complaint was referred to the police department, and Adams asked Council President Kaye when he would have a reply.

Kaye said Adams would be notified of a reply when it was received, and Adams pressed for something more definite, and Kaye finally banged the gavel and called the dispute to a halt. The two became involved in the heated exchange after Adams, at the outset, had apparently noticed motion in the chair and said, "Don't throw your hands up . . . I want to know."

Argument on the bus problem began after Alderman Arthur

100 Housing Units Are Desired for the Aged

Democrats Favor Uptown Project Now But May Question Costs Later On

A Tuesday night Common Council session marked with party-line flareups brought approval of a $109,913 expenditure for surveys and planning for an uptown urban renewal project, and a report revealing that a 100-unit housing project for the aged is recommended.

Democrats went along with approval of this first phase of the uptown project as requested by Mayor John J. Schwenk, but said their approval of later phases would depend on costs involved as they might be related to other necessary city expenditures.

Designation of a fund depository and signers and a countersigner of checks, as required by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, was approved. The Kingston Trust Company was named the depository and Mayor Schwenk, Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye were authorized to sign the checks and they are to be countersigned by City Treasurer M. G. Richardson.

Long Recess on $109,913

A long recess resulted of the apparent belief by Democrats that the $109,913 was too high as compared to the $94,350 allowed for the same purpose on the downtown project, but after explanations by planning officials and others, the majority party members agreed to vote for the sum. It was noted that personal salary involvement, as required by the HHFA, contributed to the higher cost for the uptown project's surveys and plans.

The uptown project, in part, is aimed at solving the off-street parking problem in the area.

The letter on housing for the aged noted that an additional 100-unit project could be considered at a later date. The letter to George E. Yerry Jr., Kingston Housing Authority chairman from James William Gaynor, commissioner of the State Division of Housing and Community Renewal, was read by Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, chairman of the council's special committee on housing for the aged.

Going by Survey

The letter noted that at the request of the local authority the DHCR had conducted a survey as to the need and demand for housing for senior citizens in the city.

On the basis of the survey, it said, "It is recommended that a development, not to exceed 100 units be constructed for senior citizens and that an additional 100 units be constructed at a later date based on experience of the first project.

A full survey report is being printed and will be forwarded in about two weeks.

"Our estimates," said the letter, which was left with the council's special committee, "is based on a summary of estimates of available housing supply of low-income, aging householders in substandard structures, and a special survey of senior citizen housing demand conducted by members of various public, private and religious organizations in Kingston.

The letter emphasized that the DHCR "stands ready to assist the Kingston Housing Authority

Garment Co. Damaged by Tuesday Fire

A fire which badly damaged the Exquisite Form Brassiere Company plant on 9W at Barclay Heights early Tuesday night is under investigation to determine the origin of the blaze. Michael Mauro, chairman of the Glasco Board of Fire Commissioners, stated today that when Glasco firemen arrived there were serveral "hot spots" in the cement block portions of the building.

A portion of the frame structure of the plant was the former Blackstone Inn.

Firemen were hampered in fighting the fire by lack of water and it was not until some 45 minutes after responding that firemen were able to get water from the fire hydrant system, Mauro reported. Meanwhile, firemen battled the blaze from tankers.

Hydrant Damaged

Trooper David Wachtel, who was on traffic duty at the scene, reported a fire truck had backed into one of the hydrants, damaging it and causing water to run over the highway. Sanding trucks were summoned to sand the area.

The alarm, sounded about 7:30 p. m., brought Glasco firemen to the scene where they immediately faced the lack of water problem. Before the fire had been brought under control the plant was gutted.

Storm Claims Lives Of 11, Losses High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The remnants of a killer storm, shorn of snow and freezing rain but strong in battering winds and inundating tides, continued to lash the populous Northeast today.

The storm, by far the area's worst of a waning winter, was born of systems that converged from the west and south and hurtled up the Eastern seaboard Tuesday, piling up to three feet of snow in some inland areas and flooding vast coastal areas.

Many Are Missing

At least 11 deaths were attributed to the storm. At least that many more were missing and hundreds had been evacuated. Damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars.

Winds at 40-50 m.p.h. with higher gusts were expected to pound the area north from Virginia into central New England through most of the day.

Tides running 3 to 5 feet above normal promised little relief for the coastal areas flooded at the height of the storm. Tides accounted for a lion's share of the deaths.

At Dover, Del., five children—members of the John A. Waters family—drowned as they started to flee the flooded shoreline of Delaware Bay. A sixth child was missing and presumed drowned.

Jersey Couples Washed Away

Two New Jersey couples were washed away and declared missing Tuesday night when a Coast Guard amphibious vessel evacuating them was smothered by a 10-foot wave near Beach Haven Inlet. Three other evacuees and two Coast Guard men managed to hang on.

There were other known storm dead in New Jersey, Maryland, New York and North Carolina—through drownings, electrocutions from fallen wires, highway accidents and heart failures.

Schools were closed in many places. Thousands of homes were without power for hours.

Atlantic City, N.J., and Ocean City, N.J., two famed shore resorts, were completely cut off from the mainland at the height of the storm when winds reached 75 m.p.h. and 20-foot waves poured ashore.

Asbury 'Walk Hit Hard

Part of the famed Steel Pier at Atlantic City was torn away and 2,000 feet of boardwalk was destroyed at New Jersey's Asbury Park.

Waves cut completely across Fire Island, a summer vacation mecca off Long Island's south shore.

Monmouth County, N.J., with much of its eastern section blitzed, in the word of one official, was declared a disaster areas. A state of emergency was declared at Brick Township in New Jersey, and police used school buses, garbage trucks and other vehicles to evacuate 22 people and three dogs along submerged Route 35.

Chamber Leaders Act on Reports About Legislation

Consideration of recommended action on pending legislation occupied much of the time at the special meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at which president Sam Pepper presided.

Reports on a variety of pending legislation, on both the state and national levels, were heard and acted upon.

On the national level, the Chamber of Commerce favored loans in place of out-right grants to aid education. The stand opposing pending revisions to the income tax laws, requiring the withholding of 20 per cent of all interest and dividends at the source, was reaffirmed. It was also voted to direct a letter to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States expressing opposition to their views on these provisions.

On the state level, opposition was voted to the proposed legislation as written prohibiting advertising signs within 660 feet of limited access highways, although agreeing that some controls would be in the best public interest. Two bills, A. I. 4242 and S. I. 3106, which would provide for possible restraining relief to employers confronted with strikes under certain conditions

Windup Seen for Algerian Peace Talks, New Toll 24

EVIAN, France (AP)— French and Algerian rebel officials sat down at the conference table again today for what may be the final round of talks in their long search for an agreement to end the Algerian rebellion.

Three Swiss army helicopters flew the Algerian delegation across Lake Geneva from their hotel headquarters on the Swiss side. Rebel Vice Premier Belkacem Krim led the Algerian team.

Louis Joxe, French minister for Algerian affairs, headed the French negotiators waiting in Evian's Hotel du Marc to hammer out final details of an accord providing for a cease-fire and referendum to give independence to strife-torn Algeria.

Amid widespread expectations that a peace agreement would be reached in a matter of days, violence and bloodshed continued unabated in Algeria. Tuesday's toll there was 24 killed and 32 wounded as the rightiest European Secret Army Organization bent on keeping French control of the territory, kept up terror raids, and the Moslems retaliated.

Krim predicted "a lasting, satisfactory and happy solution" as he arrived in nearby Geneva.

Carrying on from recent secret negotiations, the two sides will try to fill the gaps in their tentative accord. They already have agreed on general provisions of the accord calling for Algerian self-determination and eventual independence for Algeria's 10 million people—90 per cent of them North Africans.

A cease-fire proclamation may end the war between the rebels and the French army. But the peace agreement is expected to intensify the terrorist campaign by European settlers who bitterly

Powers Tells Vivid Story of U2 Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Praise from several senators has capped Francis Gary Powers' story of his U2 flight over the Soviet Union, his capture and imprisonment in one of the cold war's hottest episodes.

It was an exciting story the soft-spoken pilot told Tuesday in a 90-minute appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee—of a mystery explosion 12 miles up, a spinning plane and long hours of questioning.

Then as secretly as he came, the high altitude flier slipped away for a vacation.

Staying With CIA

CIA Director John A. McCone told reporters Powers will continue to be employed by the CIA.

"We have additional work for him to do," McCone said. "I hope today's hearing has cleared up any cloud that may have been hanging over him."

After the hearing Powers linked his arms with two sisters and went off for what he said will be a vacation at an unannounced place. He indicated he plans no news conference such as President Kennedy said the pilot would be free to hold.

In the faint country twang of southwest Virginia Powers told the committee in a packed hearing room, where spectators often broke into applause, that he doesn't really know what caused the explosion that downed his plane.

He said the blast, which fired the sky with orange, "sounded like a 'shump.'" He conceded it might have come from a near-miss by a Soviet rocket.

Makes Impression

Powers' recital of his efforts to destroy the secret equipment in his stricken craft, his agonizing fight to get out of the U2 and his disposal of a map while riding his parachute down obviously impressed senators and spectators.

Senators nodded approval as he testified that when his efforts to invent a cover story failed he decided to tell the Russians he was linked with the CIA—as he said he had been instructed to do if he was captured—but withheld some vital information.

The biggest outburst of applause came when Powers raised his voice to say that during his ordeal of capture, imprisonment,

By STANLEY JOHNSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis Gary Powers sank back into cloak and dagger obscurity today.

He slipped out of the limelight after telling his story to the Senate Armed Services Committee—adding that he was still working for the Central Intelligence Agency.

This was a far cry indeed from what he said at his last public appearance — in Moscow's huge Hall of Columns Aug. 20, 1960, when he was sentenced to 10 years for espionage after his U2 plane was downed in the Soviet Union.

At that time, in soft and hesitant tones, Powers told the three-man Soviet military court that, if he ever got out of Soviet jails, he

Knew Where He Was Going, Teacher Says of Slayton

SPARTA, Wis. (AP)—"Don was a determined boy, who knew where he was going."

That's how his one-time science instructor remembers Donald Kent Slayton who is scheduled to become his country's second man in orbit next month.

There are many other recollections of the astronaut by family and friends.

He played a trombone for four years in the high school band, and was proud of the uniform; he raised a prize sheep and won a blue ribbon, and sometimes he ran the five miles from school to his farm home to keep in shape for the track team; he has 3,600 hours in the air, and he told his mother the wildest ride of his life was in a taxi cab taking him from one Chicago airport to another.

For Don Slayton—he did not become Deke until Air Force buddies made a nickname of his initials—the urge for wings came early. The Sparta High School yearbook said of him in his junior year that his theme song was "keep 'em flying."

Walter Pribnow, who was Slayton's science instructor and now is superintendent of schools at Appleton, Wis., remembered that during Don's senior year he took a special interest in an aeronautical text.

"We made black airplane models for identification," Pribnow said. "Don was a determined boy, who knew where he was going."

Slayton was born, 38 years ago last week, in the Sparta hospital to Charles Slayton and his second wife, Victoria, both of Norwegian stock, and spent his boyhood on the family farm near the town of Leon.

He was graduated from Leon Elementary School at the head of his class and entered Sparta High School in a class of 180. A new

Ellenville Is Assured Action Soon

Details of the proposed Federal control project for Ellenville are outlined in a communication received by Mayor Eugene Glusker from Charles A. Buckley, chairman of the House of Representatives Committee on Public Works, Washington, D. C.

Chairman Buckley assured Mayor Glusker that he is going to urge the Army Engineers to expedite handling of the Ellenville project so that it will be sure to reach the Committee on Public Works in Washington before the omnibus bill is reported.

Buckley stated that he will keep Mayor Glusker's "strong support" of the project in mind and he promised his full cooperation to expedite handling of the Ellenville project.

Project Plans

Buckley noted that the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors of the Army Engineers has recommended the plan for Rondout Creek and Wallkill River, New York and New Jersey, which includes flood control works at Ellenville.

These works, Buckley said, consist of the improvement of Beer Kill and Fantine Kill by construction of floodwalls and levees with appurtenant ponding areas, drainage structures, utility changes and bridge construction, at an estimated Federal cost of $1,584,000.

The project also includes improvement of North Gully by channel enlargement, a paved concrete chute, levees, an upstream debris dam, bridge reconstruction, utility changes and drainage structures at an estimated Federal construction cost of $1,118,000.

Action of Aldermen Aimed At Referendum on Fluoride

A session which verged on extending to daylight, this date, stirred heated argument, and resulted in action by the aldermen Tuesday night (and early today) aimed at mandating a referendum on such projects as fluoridation and a new petition for two-way traffic on North Front Street.

They also legislated to permit the sale of $404,700 in bonds authorized in 1960 and 1961, received a bid to resume night court sessions, renewed argument over present hiring of clerical and executive assistance in the mayor's office, and heard comment on the condition of city streets and on a recent appointment by the mayor.

Minority party members thought a resolution by Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward dealing with fluoridation lacked specific detail, but it was finally adopted by a party vote after much discussion and a late recess aimed at gaining a legal opinion.

Hastings held that because of conflict in procedure on matters pertaining to public health and medication and the lack of fixing responsibility, that some action should be taken to mandate a referendum.

His resolution, in effect, provides that such projects as fluoridation of the city's water supply not be permitted until "steps are taken by those interested to insure a public referendum" by petition as required under a home rule regulation which requires in the petitioning of a referendum signatures of 10 per cent of local voters as recorded in the last gubernatorial election.

Chester Blum, proprietor of the Yacht Club Restaurant, 332 Abeel Street, was granted privilege of the floor to oppose fluoridation, and a letter from Eugene E. DeDea, of 110 Madison Avenue, cited opposition.

Blum held a legal question appeared to be involved and he proposed that the aldermen look into the legal aspects involved in the fluoridation of city water. Proponets, he said, claim fluoridation is helpful in the preventing of dental caries, but, he said, there is no way of gaining such benefit without swallowing the water involved.

Tooth paste companies, he said, were now applying their own treatment, and he held that if this means is used, "at least we'll know there'll be no overdose." Putting it in the water, he felt, was "like doing things backwards."

Quotes Views

The DeDea Letter, addressed to Alderman-at-Large Kaye, cited views of Arthur C. Ford, and Dr. Benjamin C. Nesin, of New York City's water department.

The former, he quoted as saying in part: "We are aware that fluorides are completely toxic substances and evidence exists to show that even at the recommended level of one part per million of fluoridation in drinking water, people in fluoridated communities have been harmed. A very small percentage among a

Winds at 40-50 m.p.h. with higher gusts were expected to pound the area north from Virginia into central New England through most of the day.

Tides running 3 to 5 feet above normal promised little relief for the coastal areas flooded at the height of the storm. Tides accounted for a lion's share of the deaths.

At Dover, Del., five children—members of the John A. Waters family—drowned as they started to flee the flooded shoreline of Delaware Bay. A sixth child was missing and presumed drowned.

Jersey Couples Washed Away

Two New Jersey couples were washed away and declared missing Tuesday night when a Coast Guard amphibious vessel evacuating them was smothered by a 10-foot wave near Beach Haven Inlet. Three other evacuees and two Coast Guard men managed to hang on.

There were other known storm dead in New Jersey, Maryland, New York and North Carolina—through drownings, electrocutions from fallen wires, highway accidents and heart failures.

Schools were closed in many places. Thousands of homes were without power for hours.

Atlantic City, N.J., and Ocean City, N.J., two famed shore resorts, were completely cut off from the mainland at the height of the storm when winds reached 75 m.p.h. and 20-foot waves poured ashore.

Asbury 'Walk Hit Hard

Part of the famed Steel Pier at Atlantic City was torn away and 2,000 feet of boardwalk was destroyed at New Jersey's Asbury Park.

Waves cut completely across Fire Island, a summer vacation mecca off Long Island's south shore.

Monmouth County, N.J., with much of its eastern section blitzed, in the word of one official, was declared a disaster areas. A state of emergency was declared at Brick Township in New Jersey, and police used school buses, garbage trucks and other vehicles to evacuate 22 people and three dogs along submerged Route 35.

Writer Compares Moscow Trial to One Held Tuesday

EDITORS NOTE: Stanley Johnson covered the Moscow trial of Francis Gary Powers as a member of The Associated Press bureau in the Moscow capital. Now home on leave he was on hand for Powers' appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

By STANLEY JOHNSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis Gary Powers sank back into cloak and dagger obscurity today.

He slipped out of the limelight after telling his story to the Senate Armed Services Committee—adding that he was still working for the Central Intelligence Agency.

This was a far cry indeed from what he said at his last public appearance — in Moscow's huge Hall of Columns Aug. 20, 1960, when he was sentenced to 10 years for espionage after his U2 plane was downed in the Soviet Union.

At that time, in soft and hesitant tones, Powers told the three-man Soviet military court that, if he ever got out of Soviet jails, he

Chamber Leaders Act on Reports About Legislation

Consideration of recommended action on pending legislation occupied much of the time at the special meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at which president Sam Pepper presided.

Reports on a variety of pending legislation, on both the state and national levels, were heard and acted upon.

On the national level, the Chamber of Commerce favored loans in place of out-right grants to aid education. The stand opposing pending revisions to the income tax laws, requiring the withholding of 20 per cent of all interest and dividends at the source, was reaffirmed. It was also voted to direct a letter to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States expressing opposition to their views on these provisions.

On the state level, opposition was voted to the proposed legislation as written prohibiting advertising signs within 660 feet of limited access highways, although agreeing that some controls would be in the best public interest. Two bills, A. I. 4242 and S. I. 3106, which would provide for possible restraining relief to employers confronted with strikes under certain conditions

A session which verged on extending to daylight, this date, stirred heated argument, and resulted in action by the aldermen Tuesday night (and early today) aimed at mandating a referendum on such projects as fluoridation and a new petition for two-way traffic on North Front Street.

They also legislated to permit the sale of $404,700 in bonds authorized in 1960 and 1961, received a bid to resume night court sessions, renewed argument over present hiring of clerical and executive assistance in the mayor's office, and heard comment on the condition of city streets and on a recent appointment by the mayor.

Minority party members thought a resolution by Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward dealing with fluoridation lacked specific detail, but it was finally adopted by a party vote after much discussion and a late recess aimed at gaining a legal opinion.

Hastings held that because of conflict in procedure on matters pertaining to public health and medication and the lack of fixing responsibility, that some action should be taken to mandate a referendum.

His resolution, in effect, provides that such projects as fluoridation of the city's water supply not be permitted until "steps are taken by those interested to insure a public referendum" by petition as required under a home rule regulation which requires in the petitioning of a referendum signatures of 10 per cent of local voters as recorded in the last gubernatorial election.

Chester Blum, proprietor of the Yacht Club Restaurant, 332 Abeel Street, was granted privilege of the floor to oppose fluoridation, and a letter from Eugene E. DeDea, of 110 Madison Avenue, cited opposition.

Blum held a legal question appeared to be involved and he proposed that the aldermen look into the legal aspects involved in the fluoridation of city water. Proponets, he said, claim fluoridation is helpful in the preventing of dental caries, but, he said, there is no way of gaining such benefit without swallowing the water involved.

Tooth paste companies, he said, were now applying their own treatment, and he held that if this means is used, "at least we'll know there'll be no overdose." Putting it in the water, he felt, was "like doing things backwards."

Quotes Views

The DeDea Letter, addressed to Alderman-at-Large Kaye, cited views of Arthur C. Ford, and Dr. Benjamin C. Nesin, of New York City's water department.

The former, he quoted as saying in part: "We are aware that fluorides are completely toxic substances and evidence exists to show that even at the recommended level of one part per million of fluoridation in drinking water, people in fluoridated communities have been harmed. A very small percentage among a

Windup Seen for Algerian Peace Talks, New Toll 24

EVIAN, France (AP)— French and Algerian rebel officials sat down at the conference table again today for what may be the final round of talks in their long search for an agreement to end the Algerian rebellion.

Three Swiss army helicopters flew the Algerian delegation across Lake Geneva from their hotel headquarters on the Swiss side. Rebel Vice Premier Belkacem Krim led the Algerian team.

that a peace agreement would b

Amid widespread expectations that a peace agreement would be reached in a matter of days, violence and bloodshed continued unabated in Algeria. Tuesday's toll there was 24 killed and 32 wounded as the rightiest European Secret Army Organization bent on keeping French control of the territory, kept up terror raids, and the Moslems retaliated.

Krim predicted "a lasting, satisfactory and happy solution" as he arrived in nearby Geneva.

Carrying on from recent secret negotiations, the two sides will try to fill the gaps in their tentative accord. They already have agreed on general provisions of the accord calling for Algerian self-determination and eventual independence for Algeria's 10 million people—90 per cent of them North Africans.

A cease-fire proclamation may end the war between the rebels and the French army. But the peace agreement is expected to intensify the terrorist campaign by European settlers who bitterly

Knew Where He Was Going, Teacher Says of Slayton

SPARTA, Wis. (AP)—"Don was a determined boy, who knew where he was going."

That's how his one-time science instructor remembers Donald Kent Slayton who is scheduled to become his country's second man in orbit next month.

There are many other recollections of the astronaut by family and friends.

He played a trombone for four years in the high school band, and was proud of the uniform; he raised a prize sheep and won a blue ribbon, and sometimes he ran the five miles from school to his farm home to keep in shape for the track team; he has 3,600 hours in the air, and he told his mother the wildest ride of his life was in a taxi cab taking him from one Chicago airport to another.

For Don Slayton—he did not become Deke until Air Force buddies made a nickname of his initials—the urge for wings came early. The Sparta High School yearbook said of him in his junior year that his theme song was "keep 'em flying."

Walter Pribnow, who was Slayton's science instructor and now is superintendent of schools at Appleton, Wis., remembered that during Don's senior year he took a special interest in an aeronautical text.

"We made black airplane models for identification," Pribnow said. "Don was a determined boy, who knew where he was going."

Slayton was born, 38 years ago last week, in the Sparta hospital to Charles Slayton and his second wife, Victoria, both of Norwegian stock, and spent his boyhood on the family farm near the town of Leon.

He was graduated from Leon Elementary School at the head of his class and entered Sparta High School in a class of 180. A new

Board Repudiates Reappraisal Pact Added to Budget

A contract to reappraise properties in the Town of Plattekill was rejected by the Town Board at its meeting held last week, Supervisor Joseph Martorana reported.

The contract in the amount of $19,200 had been entered into by the previous town board in November of last year. The present board has received opinions from the Department of Audit and Control that the budget appropriation for the reappraisal item included in the budget by the previous board is illegal because the item was added to the budget after the public hearing.

Also, since no legal provision had been made in the annual budget, the contract itself is illegal. Upon these opinions and the advice of Attorney Frederick H. Stang of Kingston, the majority of the Town Board as now constituted repudiated the contract.

Rules for Constables

In other action, the Town Board adopted a set of rules and regulations for the Constable Force. The purpose of these rules, the board stated, is not only to increase the efficiency and good conduct of its members, but also to have the Constable Force accepted as an agency of authority and service to the people of the town.

The Plattekill governing body also made several Civil Defense appointments. Upon recommendation of Town Civil Defense Director Lawrence Capozzi of Clintondale, Raymond Garcia of Plattekill was named Assistant town CD director. Roy Pauli of Clintondale was named auxiliary police chief and Russell Carpenter of Plattekill was named assistant auxiliary police chief. Raul Correa was named assistant medical aid training program administrator to the town administrator, the Rev. Ralph Narvaez. The Town Board also named three Town Deputy Civil Defense directors: Richard Marquard, Modena District; Thomas Dawes, Plattekill District; and Vincent D. Porcelli, Clintondale District.

The town dump and town planning were also items of discussion at the meeting. A town dump custodian is to be appointed in the near future and the superintendent of highways was authorized to place the dump site in a clean and level condition.

The Town Planning Board was directed to prepare a present land use map which would be of value not only to the planning board but also to the board of assessors and other town officials.

Installment Payment

Supervisor Martorana offered a resolution petitioning the Ulster County Board of Supervisors to obtain pertinent data relating to the installment payment of real estate and school taxes. This resolution was unanimously adopted.

Town Clerk Edith Wager read a letter from the Department of Public Works informing Supervisor Martorana of the progress of the work on the reconstruction of Route 32 from Plattekill to Modena. The district engineer stated in his letter that the letting of contracts would be made at an early date.

Supervisor Martorama was was advised by letter from he Public Service Commission that the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co. has agreed to install flashing signals at the Hurd Road crossing in Clintondale. At its January meeting the board unanimously supported the supervisor in his motion petitioning the Public Service Commission to request the railroad company to remedy the hazardous condition at the crossing.

Members of the Town Board present at the meeting, in addition to Supervisor Martorana, included Justices Palen and Parcelli, and Councilman Sisti.

New Yorkers In D.C. News

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gee Lai Ting operates a Chinese restaurant in Glens Falls, N.Y.

He's been in the United States illegally since 1940. Because of this it may take an act of Congress to prevent his deportation.

Gee's, however, is only one of the thousands of human interest stories that could be told by persons seeking congressional relief from this country's immigration laws.

Gee's One of Many

The House Judiciary Subcommittee, which handles immigration matters, says more than 2,000 bills to waive provisions of immigration law have come before it since the 87th Congress convened in January, 1961.

Gee's case is one of these. A bill introduced by Rep. Carleton J. King, Saratoga Springs Republican is pending before the subcommittee.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., has introduced six private bills during this Congress, all immigration cases. Of 20 private bills introduced by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., 14 are immigration cases.

Two of the private bills introduced by New Yorkers involve citizens of Iron Curtain countries who sought and were granted political asylum in New York City. Both persons seek permanent residence in the United States—a status that would permit them to apply for citizenship in five years.

One bill, introduced by Javits, involves Victor Jaanimets, an Estonian seaman who defected from the Russian ship, Baltika, which carried Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to the 1960 U.N. General Assembly.

Unusual Case

The other, introduced by Keating, involves Aninela Wojtowicz, a maid for the Polish ambassador to the United Nations, who sought asylum after she overheard Polish officials say they would return her to Poland for fraternizing with Americans.

Gee's case is unusual in that the Glens Falls Common Council has protested the deportation proceedings against him, and King said he has been flooded with letters urging quick passage of his bill.

Gee fled his native Canton, China, when the Japanese invasion seemed imminent.

Efforts by Gee to bring his wife and three children—now in Hong Kong—to this country resulted in action against him. When Gee's application was being processed, the American consul in Hong Kong noticed that Gee had used the name of Louis G. Hong and forged papers to enter the United States in 1940.

Other New York cases include: Filomena Coccia, 19 - year - old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Darmi of Rochester. A bill introduced by Rep. Harold C. Ostertag, Attica Republican, would permit her to enter the United States from Italy without regard to an oversubscribed immigration quota. She was adopted by Darmi, her uncle, and his wife, on Sept. 22, 1955.

An immigration cases involving 11-year-old Pietro Tirri and Mr. and Mrs. Giovanni Tirri of Endicott, N.Y., who adopted him, had a happy ending before a bill to permit the lad's entry into the United States were acted upon by Congress.

The Endicott couple, childless, had difficulty meeting the English-language requirement for citizenship. A bill was introduced by Rep. Howard W. Robison, R-N.Y., and Keating to permit the lad to enter the country outside the immigration quota.

But the Tirris qualified to become citizens before Congress acted on the bills and Pietro joined his adoptive parents without the need for special legislation.

Governor's $2.6-Billion Budget is Before Legislature for Vote Today

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's record $2.6-billion budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1 was before the Assembly for final approval today.

The Senate endorsed it Tuesday. The fiscal plan calls for spending of $230 million in excess of this year's budget.

After clearing the budget today, Republican majority leaders planned to join with Gov. Rockefeller to make final revisions in the Diefendorf Committee plan for increasing state aid to education and changing the method under which it is distributed.

They reportedly plan to alter the basic Diefendorf plan slightly to provide additional aid to large cities, principally New York and Buffalo.

Call for More School Aid

At present, the committee recommendations call for an increase of $102.5 million a year in school aid, to a total of more than $900 million a year.

The revised plan will be submitted to the Legislature within a week or two.

The current legislative session is expected to adjourn sometime during the last week of March—between the 26th and the 31st.

The Senate approved the governor's budget Tuesday after more than four hours of debate. Democrats called unsuccessfully for higher spending for the City University of New York, school transportation in cities, per capita state aid to local governments, mental health and programs to combat juvenile delinquency.

More than half the increased spending is earmarked for education.

Other Matters

In other state-government developments:

Investigation — The Assembly approved and sent to the Senate a bill to extend the life of the State Investigation Commission two years beyond its presently scheduled expiration date of April 963. The coverage would be allowed at hearings in which the presiding officer and a majority of committee or commission members approved and witnesses had appeared voluntarily, not under subpoena.

Airman Maxwell lists among his hobbies skin diving, water skiing, and sports in general.

Quite a few prizes will be awarded to Maxwell for winning the Airman of the Month honor. He was picked from among nine candidates, representing outstanding airmen from most units on this Air Defense Command base. The board consisted of three officers on the staff of base commander Col. Robert F. Fackler.

Foremost among the prizes coming Maxwell's way is one week as guest at Grossinger's Hotel and Country Club, near Liberty. He will also receive a check for $25; a three-day pass; relief from all squadron details for one month; credit at any Stewart AFB Hobby Shop; a free haircut and tonic at SAFB Barber Shop; credit at the Base Exchange Cafeteria; 12 lines of bowling at the SAFB Alleys, and credit at the Base Laundry and Dry Cleaner.

New Yorkers In D.C. News

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gee Lai Ting operates a Chinese restaurant in Glens Falls, N.Y.

He's been in the United States illegally since 1940. Because of this it may take an act of Congress to prevent his deportation.

Gee's One of Many

The House Judiciary Subcommittee, which handles immigration matters, says more than 2,000 bills to waive provisions of immigration law have come before it since the 87th Congress convened in January, 1961.

Gee's case is one of these. A bill introduced by Rep. Carleton J. King, Saratoga Springs Republican is pending before the subcommittee.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., has introduced six private bills during this Congress, all immigration cases. Of 20 private bills introduced by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., 14 are immigration cases.

Two of the private bills introduced by New Yorkers involve citizens of Iron Curtain countries who sought and were granted political asylum in New York City. Both persons seek permanent residence in the United States—a status that would permit them to apply for citizenship in five years.

One bill, introduced by Javits, involves Victor Jaanimets, an Estonian seaman who defected from the Russian ship, Baltika, which carried Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to the 1960 U.N. General Assembly.

Unusual Case

The other, introduced by Keating, involves Aninela Wojtowicz, a maid for the Polish ambassador to the United Nations, who sought asylum after she overheard Polish officials say they would return her to Poland for fraternizing with Americans.

Gee's case is unusual in that the Glens Falls Common Council has protested the deportation proceedings against him, and King said he has been flooded with letters urging quick passage of his bill.

Gee fled his native Canton, China, when the Japanese invasion seemed imminent.

Efforts by Gee to bring his wife and three children—now in Hong Kong—to this country resulted in action against him. When Gee's application was being processed, the American consul in Hong Kong noticed that Gee had used the name of Louis G. Hong and forged papers to enter the United States in 1940.

Other New York cases include: Filomena Coccia, 19 - year - old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Darmi of Rochester. A bill introduced by Rep. Harold C. Ostertag, Attica Republican, would permit her to enter the United States from Italy without regard to an oversubscribed immigration quota. She was adopted by Darmi, her uncle, and his wife, on Sept. 22, 1955.

An immigration cases involving 11-year-old Pietro Tirri and Mr. and Mrs. Giovanni Tirri of Endicott, N.Y., who adopted him, had a happy ending before a bill to permit the lad's entry into the United States were acted upon by Congress.

The Endicott couple, childless, had difficulty meeting the English-language requirement for citizenship. A bill was introduced by Rep. Howard W. Robison, R-N.Y., and Keating to permit the lad to enter the country outside the immigration quota.

But the Tirris qualified to become citizens before Congress acted on the bills and Pietro joined his adoptive parents without the need for special legislation.

Governor's $2.6-Billion Budget is Before Legislature for Vote Today

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's record $2.6-billion budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1 was before the Assembly for final approval today.

The Senate endorsed it Tuesday. The fiscal plan calls for spending of $230 million in excess of this year's budget.

After clearing the budget today, Republican majority leaders planned to join with Gov. Rockefeller to make final revisions in the Diefendorf Committee plan for increasing state aid to education and changing the method under which it is distributed.

They reportedly plan to alter the basic Diefendorf plan slightly to provide additional aid to large cities, principally New York and Buffalo.

Call for More School Aid

At present, the committee recommendations call for an increase of $102.5 million a year in school aid, to a total of more than $900 million a year.

The revised plan will be submitted to the Legislature within a week or two.

The current legislative session is expected to adjourn sometime during the last week of March—between the 26th and the 31st.

The Senate approved the governor's budget Tuesday after more than four hours of debate. Democrats called unsuccessfully for higher spending for the City University of New York, school transportation in cities, per capita state aid to local governments, mental health and programs to combat juvenile delinquency.

More than half the increased spending is earmarked for education.

WARNING TO DOG OWNERS

Five dogs of a pack reported to be responsible for the deaths of more than 30 deer in the Town of Esopus during the past week have been destroyed by a posse formed by the West Esopus Land Owners Association. The dogs were shot while in the pursuit of deer in the Ulster Park area.

Dog owners have been warned that it is illegal to permit dogs to run at large in areas inhabited by deer. Owners also have been urged repeatedly to keep their dogs tied during this time of year when a hard crust on the snow traps deer.

Those who profess to love "man's best friend" should safeguard him from being shot down by either placing him on a leash or exercising control that will keep him out of the woods.

HIDDEN IN THE STARS

The unforeseen general scientific benefits of our great and steadily enlarging space efforts may prove to be the most important thing in the end.

Talking to Congress, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. touched this crucial point:

"The real benefits are probably not known to man today. But exploration and the pursuit of knowledge have always paid dividends in the long run — usually far greater than anything expected at the outset."

It is not the first time men have suggested the importance of what seem in one sense to be by-product effects of great events.

After World War I and again after World War II, historians, economists, scientists and others pointed out that these massive conflicts, for all their ruin and terror and human misery, ironically produced benefits for mankind.

They came, of course, in the shape of vastly speeded scientific, technological and industrial advances, some of which might never have been made otherwise, and many of which would not have occurred for long years.

The men who take note of this are not glorifiers of war, nor advocates of it. They are simply observing a fact. The intense concentration of a war effort yields results totally unrelated to war's purposes.

Many say that America's vaunted mass production techniques really came of age in World War I. In World War II, the most obvious gains were in electronics, rocketry, nuclear science. But perhaps of more subtle significance was the big step-up in the use of scientific inquiries and techniques in almost every endeavor, and the practice of group thinking and effort, as illustrated in the celebrated Manhattan Project which led to the atomic bomb.

That very development of group thinking is now at work for us again in the space program, and no one who has looked at the history of the past five decades would dare hazard that the gains from this intensive enterprise will be limited to space itself.

Says one scientist in comment on our space achievements:

"The input of scientific information is so great there must be a backlog for society as a whole, which will be developed when we are not so preoccupied with immediate challenges."

COSMIC PARTY LINE

Japanese joined the world in hailing John Glenn's orbital trip. Yet some Tokyo radio researchers, eager to monitor him were unhappy when U. S. officials refused to tell them what frequencies would carry his voice.

Space officials chose to discourage direct monitoring. They wanted Glenn free to express himself without worrying how he would sound to a world-wide audience.

The Japanese radio men argued that Russia announced the frequencies where Cosmonaut Titov's voice could be heard on his 17-orbit spin last August.

They overlooked one thing: The Russians took no risks. They knew Titov would utter little more than the stilted "greetings from the Soviet Union."

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

GOLDBERG'S REMEDY

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg comes out of labor and has had a vast experience with labor-management problems. As Secretary of Labor, one of his tasks is to avert work stoppages, particularly at this time when the government is directly or indirectly the largest employer of labor in relation to the defense.

There are several approaches to the problem of employer-management relationships. These may roughly be stated as follows:

1. Permitting the law of supply and demand to apply to the utilization of labor which would mean the free disposal of the time of the worker as the needs of management appear;

2. Collective bargaining between a more or less powerful management with a more or less powerful labor bureaucracy — the tendency being that both bureaucracies, management and labor tend 'to together" to keep the shop going, as long as a selling price can be maintained;

3. Arbitration, either by professional arbitrators or by agreed upon groups;

4. Mediation, in which the government appears as a third party, representing the public;

5. Strikes for political reasons as for instance the "sit-down" strikes for organizational purposes.

All these relationships are tried from time to time in this country and none has succeeded altogether. The largest part of the work force remains outside the unions; the unions in some industries are more powerful than management which may, at times, and under special circumstances, even become dependent upon them, as, for instance, when management borrows from unions to keep going or when the unions use surplus funds to buy into industry.

Government mediation is constant either through the National Labor Relations Board or similar federal and state agencies. As a matter of fact big labor grew protected by federal mediation (it has been called interference and worse names by management) just as big business grew protected by the tariff and other acts of Congress.

There is then really nothing new or startling in Secretary Goldberg's proposal concerning mediation, except that he states his program as one of national policy, proposing to use it not as the Wagner Act was used to protect unions but as a medium for the protection of the interests of the American government and people. In a word, he seats the government at collective bargaining tables as a third interested party. The fiction has been, up to now, that the government is disinterested, impartial, unbiased even when a strike occurs at Cape Canaveral.

For instance, in a speech at the Executive's Club in Chicago, Secretary Goldberg said:

"It is a universally shared and obvious truth that we cannot this year afford a repetition of the 1959 steel strike."

Actually, we could not afford such a strike in 1959 either. There are strikes which only affect the strikers and the particular industries involved. There are other industries in which the national interest is the dominant factor and in which a strike may so imperil the nation as to be equal to a defeat in a battle, or bring on a destructive inflation of the currency. It is the latter type of labor-management fracas that Secretary Goldberg was obviously discussing, in which the public interest becomes a party at issue.

But when unemployment is still our leading social problem, is it possible to say that the public interest is not always involved? Do we have to wait until unemployment becomes acute to attempt to solve our problems by the artifices of the New Deal, which almost destroyed free endeavors in this country? May we not employ foresight, at least to the degree that we stave off acute unemployment?

Fault-finding with either management or labor does not serve much purpose at this moment. We are caught in a vise of prolonged international and domestic errors which cannot be corrected short of war, but can be accommodated by various devices until a new plateau is reached. The fear of most of the opponents to a positive government policy in too many aspects of our lives is that such a process could ultimately lead to fascism or to some other form of socialism. The danger is real.

However, those who fear the consequences of concentrated government power cannot advocate anarchy without bringing on the danger that is feared. As I read Secretary Goldberg's effort the task he has set himself is to avert that danger.

Early Treatment Against Rabies Virus Is 'Must'

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Although the virus that causes rabies (hydrophobia) has been found in the saliva of cats, skunks, foxes, wolves, coyotes, mongooses, bats and even cows, it is transmitted to humans most often through the medium of a dog bite. And because the disease is not responsive to even the most powerful of the miracle drugs and almost invariably ends fatally, we must direct our attention to prevention.

For, in contrast to curative treatment, preventive treatment is almost invariably successful.

However, the success of preventive treatment depends on great part on the manner in which the situation is handled, whether the bite is inflicted by a dog or any other of the known animal carriers.

Here are some suggestions that may avert panic if the biting animal is nonrabid. And that may save life if the animal is suffering from hydrophobia (fear of water):

If possible, capture the biting animal, but do not destroy it unless it threatens to attack others.

If it becomes necessary to kill the animal, turn the body over to a local health officer or to the nearest veterinarian. If neither is at hand, remove the head, pack it in ice, and deliver or send it to the nearest public health station.

The importance of these measures rests in the fact that only by brain examination can the disease be recognized with speed and certainty.

If evidences of the disease are lacking, then peace of mind is restored and the discomforts of immunization may be avoided. And, if evidences of the disease are discovered, then immunizations can be carried out with an almost certain guarantee that active disease will be prevented.

If the biting animal can be captured, take it to the local health officer or veterinarian for observation. Since signs of the disease will appear in a rabid animal at least a week or 10 days before they appear in the victim of the bite, the period of observation may make it possible to spare the life of a pet pooch.

If, for whatever reason, you decide to observe a pet pooch at home, look for signs of the active disease that include restlessness; sensitivity to touch when handled; shaking of muscles; and, of course, inability to drink (hydrophophia). When these signs appear, take the sick animal to the local health officer or vet and go yourself to your doctor since immunizations, started at this time may also be depended on to provide maximum protection.

As to the bite itself, hold it as wide open as possible and flush it with running water. Use the strongest possible stream and keep flushing for at least a quarter hour. When you've done this, you may apply to the wound strong iodine or whatever household disinfectant is available, for time is of the essence.

The decision to cauterize the wound with carbolic or nitric acid had best be made by a physician since application of these powerful agents may be immediately shocking and may later lead to ugly scarring.

When the Office Becomes Really Lonely

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Changing industrial conditions in the United States are causing American labor union leaders to make some startling new demands in negotiations with major employers.

AIRCRAFT AND MISSILE WORKERS of the International Assn. of Machinists and United Auto Workers, in their second biennial joint conference just ended here, have decided to ask for new employment security guarantees for their half-million members in renewing contracts which expire in 1962.

One of the key demands is a proposal that the government reimburse every contractor for supplementary unemployment benefits and separation payments to laid-off workers.

An alternative proposal is that an industry-wide fund be established by contributions from employers, this fund being insured by the U. S. government to pay for loss of jobs in a new and rapidly changing industry.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR-Congress of Iudustrial Organizations has initiated a move for legislation to establish a government-operated insurance system to pay retired workers their pensions when former employers fail in business.

The contention is that thousands of retired workers lose their pensions every year because hundreds of employers—most of them with the best intentions in the world to stay solvent—go broke. In other instances, inadequately financed pension trust funds find they cannot meet commitments.

Either way, the retired worker stands to lose. Being over 65, he may have trouble finding a new job. If he has to fall back on his government old age insurance payments as his sole source of income, his living standard goes down.

UNITED AUTO WORKERS HAVE ASKED the automobile manufacturers to abandon "excessive and unnecessary overtime" in the interests of reducing unemployment and spreading employment. UAW claims this practice by the auto makers deprives 25,000 workers of jobs, in an industry where automation has hit hard.

The issue is simply that every time a new employe is added to the payroll, the employer must pay additional social security and unemployment insurance taxes. The employer must also pay supplementary unemployment benefits if the new worker is laid off.

From management's standpoint, it is more efficient to keep the work force as small as possible and pay a little overtime now and then when the orders pile up.

RAILWAY LABOR CONDITIONS are now so confused that, in the opinion of some observers, the best solution would be to wipe the slate clean and begin all over again with a new transportation policy for both management and the employe brotherhoods.

Management contends that there must be mergers and freer competition between all forms of transportation. Rail management also contends that the so-called "featherbedding" practices must be eliminated for more economical operations.

Railway labor replies that mergers can only mean a reduction in the number of jobs. It is therefore asked that no mergers be approved unless they include employment security.

The presidential commission of five employer, five management and five public members—trying for a year to find some solution to the work rule issue—has finally come up with recommendations so adverse to brotherhood interests that a strike is threatened.

IN COMPARISON TO DEMANDS SUCH as these, the new steel industry contract negatiations now going on appear relatively simple. This is in spite of the fact that the steeel talks have been made a key issue of stabilization by the Kennedy administration.

To people who hate organized labor and all its works, these new demands will be viewed as more evidence of the unions' growing power and the insatiability of their demands.

To others, the overriding issue is the reduction of unemployment, still far too high. The AFL-CIO Executive Council, at its winter meeting in Florida, criticized the Kennedy administration for being overly timid in fighting unemployment.

Another way of expressing the same idea is to say that the president and his advisers are trying to let management and labor solve their new problems in collective bargaining. If they don't, then demands will grow for the government to step in and try to do something about it.

Nuclear Disarmament Talk Seen Raising False Hopes

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Exchanges of messages between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev are serving only to confuse more and more the issue involved in trying to abolish nuclear war by international agreement.

For the tragic truth about the utter impossibility of assuring safety through so-called disarmament agreements has not been revealed to the world. President Kennedy's statement, for instance, that he will offer at the forthcoming Geneva conference "a series of concrete plans for a major 'breakthrough to peace'" is in itself likely to raise false hopes.

The President says he will include "specific proposals for fair and enforceable agreements to halt the production of fissionable materials and nuclear weapons and their transfer to other nations." This in itself can be done. Halting further production, however, is meaningless because the stockpiles are already massive in quantity.

Mr. Kennedy also proposes "to destroy the warheads and the delivery systems that threaten man's existence." This cannot really be accomplished because fissionable materials cannot be destroyed. Some scientists a few years ago proposed that the materials could be "denatured" by mixing it with another element to make it unsuitable for use in weapons, but subsequently it was discovered that any such impurities could be removed.

Destruction Not Feasible

As to the destruction of "delivery systems," this, too, raises false hopes. As a matter of fact, atomic weapons today are so light and so small that they can be carried by almost any kind of plane. Even passenger planes can carry them.

To say, therefore, that all delivery systems would be destroyed goes beyond what is reasonable or feasible.

President Kennedy's proposal that "warheads" be "destroyed" is a sequel to the recommendation made by President Eisenhower in 1953 that eventually all weapons should be "cannibalized" so as to extract from them all the fissionable material that might be useful for peaceful purposes. But in the intervening nine years so much fissionable material has been accumulated by both the United States and the Soviet Union—so much more than is currently required for peaceful uses—that the commodity itself cannot be readily and permanently disposed of. Even if it were sunk in the ocean, it could be secretly recovered.

Indeed, if the fissionable materials were kept in a form that is not immediately usable for weapons, they could be converted back to full weapon use within a period of only a few weeks.

This all adds up to the fact that the power to destroy by means of nuclear weapons cannot be nullified merely by non-use or by destroying warheads or weapons systems or by converting fissionable materials to peaceful uses.

It seems to have been overlooked, also, that if any major nation like the United States accepted restrictions that would for a little while render it weak, the nation with the largest conventional forces could suddenly attack and capture the stockpiles of fissionable materials.

To turn over to the United Nations all nuclear weapons or materials wouldn't solve the problem either. For the UN is itself subject to the whims of a majority which can be dominated by one or another of the major powers.

Periodic Inspection

The President's whole case is based on the assumption that an agreement can be made with the Soviets which would permit periodic inspection by the other side, and that there is some way to keep watch inside Russia by some international system of constant observation. In times like the present, when minutes count, the prospect is not bright that quick action by an inspection group could be depended upon, especially since the Soviets have managed to entangle every written agreement they have ever made with a cumbersome mechanism of so-called "enforcement."

It is not possible today to deprive peoples everywhere of the ingredients of gunpowder or dynamite. Nor is crime prevented in American cities by limiting the sale of guns, large or small, to persons of peaceful purpose, including those engaged in hunting game. The key to preventing war lies not in the destruction of weapons, but in the controls placed upon those human beings who might be likely to pull the trigger.

This means that democracy and freedom must be established wherever autocracy or dictatorship exists today. Ways and mean of concerting the will of peoples need far more attention than international conferences which pursue with the dictators themselves a fruitless purpose—agreements that are not worth the paper on which they are written.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

It seems but yesterday that the corridors of the Lawrence Park West Country Day School in Westchester County, N. Y., and the academic groves of that stately institution vibrated with the fierce clash of political conflict in a debate which, with the passage of years, now ranks with the clang of righteous conscience or moral conviction on the front stoop of Old Main at Knox College. At Knox College, nowadays known as Old Siwash, at Galesburg, Illinois, Abraham Lincoln debated Stephen A. Douglas on the fateful issue of slavery.

It was more than 21 years ago that Teddy Kennedy and Westbrook Pegler II, both of Bronxville, met in a formal dispute of classical ambiguity on the candidacies of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie.

The Yonkers Herald-Statesman of Nov. 5, 1940 reported that Mr. Kennedy's candidate for president was badly beaten in the balloting that afternoon. A four-column photograph shows Mr. Kennedy standing at midpicture just behind the Stars and Stripes. Mr. Pegler sat at the left wearing an indefinite expression, possibly tolerant but possibly a slight sneer. The same dubiety attends the expression of Teddy Kennedy. He wore a striped T-shirt and his opponent a gray V-neck sweater. The chairman of the debate, Patrick Gormley, of New Rochelle, wore a rather formal tweed jacket. Mr. Gormley's remarks are not recorded, but David Jones, the son of the noted bandleader of that day, Isham Jones, was quoted in favor of sandwiches.

The story said: "Teddy Kennedy, 8-year-old son of Joseph Kennedy, ambassador to Britain, made his debut as a political orator yesterday when he steumped for President Roosevelt in a short but vigorous campaign at the Lawrence Park West Country Day School, but suffered a set-back when his 'man' went down to defeat at the hands of the teen-age student electorate. Taking the stand in defense of the Third Term candidate, the youngster of the Kennedys engaged Westbrook Pegler, nephew of the columnist, in a verbal duel before the school's student body at the morning assembly.

"'Today we are facing a crisis,' Teddy told his fellow students. 'Across the seas, nation after nation whose belief in Democracy has been as strong as ours, have gone down before the Nazi war machine. At a time like this, we must get things done whether it is good for private business or not. We must borrow a little from the Nazi method. For this task, we must step on the toes of some people and institutions which Mr. Willkie favors'."

Westbrook Pegler accused the President of arming the nation's military machine with "toy guns" and disdaining the warning of military experts to prepare this country's defense.

"Under the direction of George Collen, headmaster of the school, the day was given over to the election theme," the Herald-ered with state banners to pick delegates. Both the acceptance Statesman said. "In the morning the students assembled for a 'national convention' and gathspeech of President Roosevelt, delivered by young Kennedy, and that of Mr. Willkie, presented by Westbrook Pegler, were enthusiastically received. In the afternoon, students assembled to hear campaign speeches by David Jones, Patrick Gormley, Richard Williams, Louis Livingston Mitchell, Joseph Renton, Charles Tolman and William Reagler.

"At the close of the program, an election was held at which the Kennedy candidate, President Roosevelt, was snowed under by an overwhelming majority."

Mr. Pegler thereupon retired from politics. Mr. Kennedy is now a candidate for the Senate in Massachusetts and for president in 1976, presuming two terms each for his brother, the incumbent Jack, then Bobby and finally Teddy. That would carry the Kennedy Reign to the Dawn of 1984 and the Big Brother Era.

The Kennedy family left an impression on Bronxville which Hollywood would describe as "terrific." The police for a long time maintained a stand-by riot formation which many times rushed to the Kennedy home to quell fights between the girls and the boys.

WARNING TO DOG OWNERS

Five dogs of a pack reported to be responsible for the deaths of more than 30 deer in the Town of Esopus during the past week have been destroyed by a posse formed by the West Esopus Land Owners Association. The dogs were shot while in the pursuit of deer in the Ulster Park area.

Dog owners have been warned that it is illegal to permit dogs to run at large in areas inhabited by deer. Owners also have been urged repeatedly to keep their dogs tied during this time of year when a hard crust on the snow traps deer.

Those who profess to love "man's best friend" should safeguard him from being shot down by either placing him on a leash or exercising control that will keep him out of the woods.

HIDDEN IN THE STARS

The unforeseen general scientific benefits of our great and steadily enlarging space efforts may prove to be the most important thing in the end.

Talking to Congress, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. touched this crucial point:

"The real benefits are probably not known to man today. But exploration and the pursuit of knowledge have always paid dividends in the long run — usually far greater than anything expected at the outset."

It is not the first time men have suggested the importance of what seem in one sense to be by-product effects of great events.

After World War I and again after World War II, historians, economists, scientists and others pointed out that these massive conflicts, for all their ruin and terror and human misery, ironically produced benefits for mankind.

They came, of course, in the shape of vastly speeded scientific, technological and industrial advances, some of which might never have been made otherwise, and many of which would not have occurred for long years.

The men who take note of this are not glorifiers of war, nor advocates of it. They are simply observing a fact. The intense concentration of a war effort yields results totally unrelated to war's purposes.

Many say that America's vaunted mass production techniques really came of age in World War I. In World War II, the most obvious gains were in electronics, rocketry, nuclear science. But perhaps of more subtle significance was the big step-up in the use of scientific inquiries and techniques in almost every endeavor, and the practice of group thinking and effort, as illustrated in the celebrated Manhattan Project which led to the atomic bomb.

That very development of group thinking is now at work for us again in the space program, and no one who has looked at the history of the past five decades would dare hazard that the gains from this intensive enterprise will be limited to space itself.

Says one scientist in comment on our space achievements:

"The input of scientific information is so great there must be a backlog for society as a whole, which will be developed when we are not so preoccupied with immediate challenges."

COSMIC PARTY LINE

Japanese joined the world in hailing John Glenn's orbital trip. Yet some Tokyo radio researchers, eager to monitor him were unhappy when U. S. officials refused to tell them what frequencies would carry his voice.

Space officials chose to discourage direct monitoring. They wanted Glenn free to express himself without worrying how he would sound to a world-wide audience.

The Japanese radio men argued that Russia announced the frequencies where Cosmonaut Titov's voice could be heard on his 17-orbit spin last August.

They overlooked one thing: The Russians took no risks. They knew Titov would utter little more than the stilted "greetings from the Soviet Union."

'These Days'

GOLDBERG'S REMEDY

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg comes out of labor and has had a vast experience with labor-management problems. As Secretary of Labor, one of his tasks is to avert work stoppages, particularly at this time when the government is directly or indirectly the largest employer of labor in relation to the defense.

There are several approaches to the problem of employer-management relationships. These may roughly be stated as follows:

1. Permitting the law of supply and demand to apply to the utilization of labor which would mean the free disposal of the time of the worker as the needs of management appear;

2. Collective bargaining between a more or less powerful management with a more or less powerful labor bureaucracy — the tendency being that both bureaucracies, management and labor tend 'to together" to keep the shop going, as long as a selling price can be maintained;

3. Arbitration, either by professional arbitrators or by agreed upon groups;

4. Mediation, in which the government appears as a third party, representing the public;

5. Strikes for political reasons as for instance the "sit-down" strikes for organizational purposes.

All these relationships are tried from time to time in this country and none has succeeded altogether. The largest part of the work force remains outside the unions; the unions in some industries are more powerful than management which may, at times, and under special circumstances, even become dependent upon them, as, for instance, when management borrows from unions to keep going or when the unions use surplus funds to buy into industry.

Government mediation is constant either through the National Labor Relations Board or similar federal and state agencies. As a matter of fact big labor grew protected by federal mediation (it has been called interference and worse names by management) just as big business grew protected by the tariff and other acts of Congress.

There is then really nothing new or startling in Secretary Goldberg's proposal concerning mediation, except that he states his program as one of national policy, proposing to use it not as the Wagner Act was used to protect unions but as a medium for the protection of the interests of the American government and people. In a word, he seats the government at collective bargaining tables as a third interested party. The fiction has been, up to now, that the government is disinterested, impartial, unbiased even when a strike occurs at Cape Canaveral.

For instance, in a speech at the Executive's Club in Chicago, Secretary Goldberg said:

"It is a universally shared and obvious truth that we cannot this year afford a repetition of the 1959 steel strike."

Actually, we could not afford such a strike in 1959 either. There are strikes which only affect the strikers and the particular industries involved. There are other industries in which the national interest is the dominant factor and in which a strike may so imperil the nation as to be equal to a defeat in a battle, or bring on a destructive inflation of the currency. It is the latter type of labor-management fracas that Secretary Goldberg was obviously discussing, in which the public interest becomes a party at issue.

But when unemployment is still our leading social problem, is it possible to say that the public interest is not always involved? Do we have to wait until unemployment becomes acute to attempt to solve our problems by the artifices of the New Deal, which almost destroyed free endeavors in this country? May we not employ foresight, at least to the degree that we stave off acute unemployment?

Fault-finding with either management or labor does not serve much purpose at this moment. We are caught in a vise of prolonged international and domestic errors which cannot be corrected short of war, but can be accommodated by various devices until a new plateau is reached. The fear of most of the opponents to a positive government policy in too many aspects of our lives is that such a process could ultimately lead to fascism or to some other form of socialism. The danger is real.

However, those who fear the consequences of concentrated government power cannot advocate anarchy without bringing on the danger that is feared. As I read Secretary Goldberg's effort the task he has set himself is to avert that danger.

Early Treatment Against Rabies Virus Is 'Must'

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Although the virus that causes rabies (hydrophobia) has been found in the saliva of cats, skunks, foxes, wolves, coyotes, mongooses, bats and even cows, it is transmitted to humans most often through the medium of a dog bite. And because the disease is not responsive to even the most powerful of the miracle drugs and almost invariably ends fatally, we must direct our attention to prevention.

For, in contrast to curative treatment, preventive treatment is almost invariably successful.

However, the success of preventive treatment depends on great part on the manner in which the situation is handled, whether the bite is inflicted by a dog or any other of the known animal carriers.

Here are some suggestions that may avert panic if the biting animal is nonrabid. And that may save life if the animal is suffering from hydrophobia (fear of water):

If possible, capture the biting animal, but do not destroy it unless it threatens to attack others.

If it becomes necessary to kill the animal, turn the body over to a local health officer or to the nearest veterinarian. If neither is at hand, remove the head, pack it in ice, and deliver or send it to the nearest public health station.

The importance of these measures rests in the fact that only by brain examination can the disease be recognized with speed and certainty.

If evidences of the disease are lacking, then peace of mind is restored and the discomforts of immunization may be avoided. And, if evidences of the disease are discovered, then immunizations can be carried out with an almost certain guarantee that active disease will be prevented.

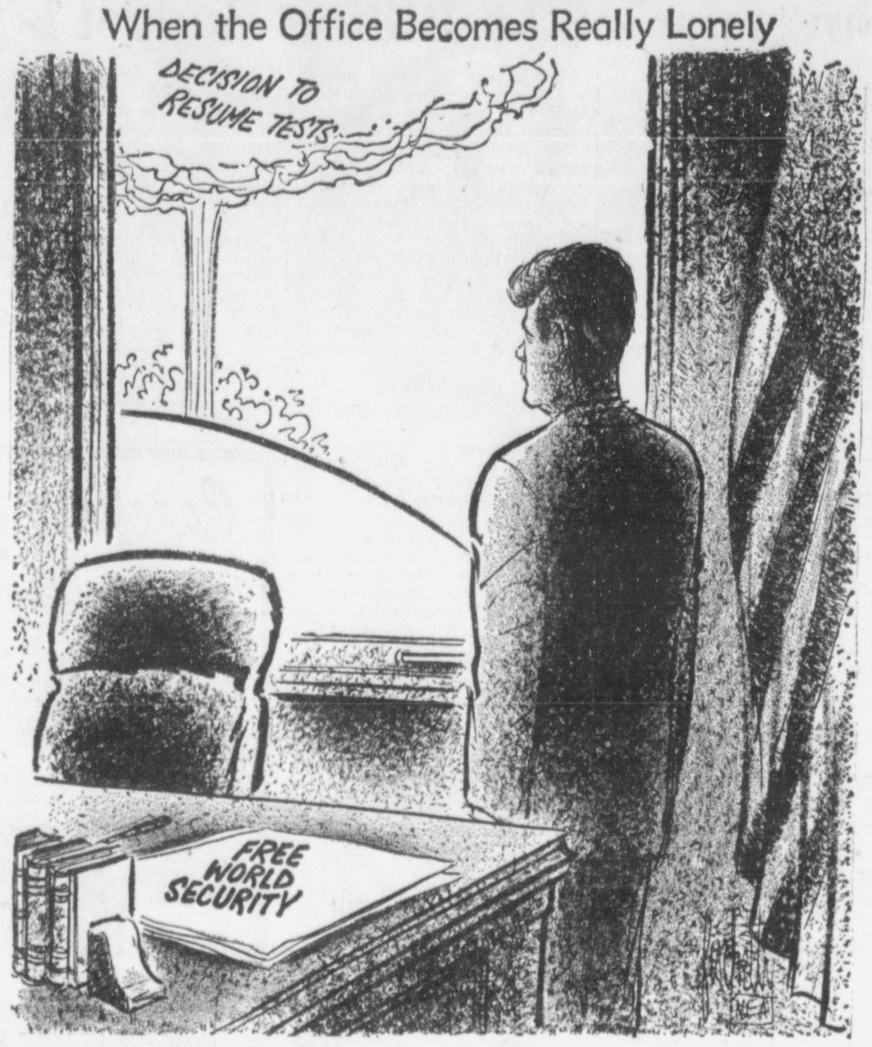

If the biting animal can be captured, take it to the local health officer or veterinarian for observation. Since signs of the disease will appear in a rabid animal at least a week or 10 days before they appear in the victim of the bite, the period of observation may make it possible to spare the life of a pet pooch.

If, for whatever reason, you decide to observe a pet pooch at home, look for signs of the active disease that include restlessness; sensitivity to touch when handled; shaking of muscles; and, of course, inability to drink (hydrophophia). When these signs appear, take the sick animal to the local health officer or vet and go yourself to your doctor since immunizations, started at this time may also be depended on to provide maximum protection.

As to the bite itself, hold it as wide open as possible and flush it with running water. Use the strongest possible stream and keep flushing for at least a quarter hour. When you've done this, you may apply to the wound strong iodine or whatever household disinfectant is available, for time is of the essence.

The decision to cauterize the wound with carbolic or nitric acid had best be made by a physician since application of these powerful agents may be immediately shocking and may later lead to ugly scarring.

When the Office Becomes Really Lonely

Washington News

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Changing industrial conditions in the United States are causing American labor union leaders to make some startling new demands in negotiations with major employers.

AIRCRAFT AND MISSILE WORKERS of the International Assn. of Machinists and United Auto Workers, in their second biennial joint conference just ended here, have decided to ask for new employment security guarantees for their half-million members in renewing contracts which expire in 1962.

One of the key demands is a proposal that the government reimburse every contractor for supplementary unemployment benefits and separation payments to laid-off workers.

An alternative proposal is that an industry-wide fund be established by contributions from employers, this fund being insured by the U. S. government to pay for loss of jobs in a new and rapidly changing industry.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR-Congress of Industrial Organizations has initiated a move for legislation to establish a government-operated insurance system to pay retired workers their pensions when former employers fail in business.

The contention is that thousands of retired workers lose their pensions every year because hundreds of employers—most of them with the best intentions in the world to stay solvent—go broke. In other instances, inadequately financed pension trust funds find they cannot meet commitments.

Either way, the retired worker stands to lose. Being over 65, he may have trouble finding a new job. If he has to fall back on his government old age insurance payments as his sole source of income, his living standard goes down.

UNITED AUTO WORKERS HAVE ASKED the automobile manufacturers to abandon "excessive and unnecessary overtime" in the interests of reducing unemployment and spreading employment. UAW claims this practice by the auto makers deprives 25,000 workers of jobs, in an industry where automation has hit hard.

The issue is simply that every time a new employe is added to the payroll, the employer must pay additional social security and unemployment insurance taxes. The employer must also pay supplementary unemployment benefits if the new worker is laid off.

From management's standpoint, it is more efficient to keep the work force as small as possible and pay a little overtime now and then when the orders pile up.

RAILWAY LABOR CONDITIONS are now so confused that, in the opinion of some observers, the best solution would be to wipe the slate clean and begin all over again with a new transportation policy for both management and the employe brotherhoods.

Management contends that there must be mergers and freer competition between all forms of transportation. Rail management also contends that the so-called "featherbedding" practices must be eliminated for more economical operations.

Y., and the academic groves of that stately institution vibrated with the fierce clash of political conflict in a debate which, with the passage of years, now ranks with the clang of righteous conscience or moral conviction on the front stoop of Old Main at Knox College. At Knox College, nowadays known as Old Siwash, at Galesburg, Illinois, Abraham Lincoln debated Stephen A. Douglas on the fateful issue of slavery.

It was more than 21 years ago that Teddy Kennedy and Westbrook Pegler II, both of Bronxville, met in a formal dispute of classical ambiguity on the candidacies of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie.

The Yonkers Herald-Statesman of Nov. 5, 1940 reported that Mr. Kennedy's candidate for president was badly beaten in the balloting that afternoon. A four-column photograph shows Mr. Kennedy standing at midpicture just behind the Stars and Stripes. Mr. Pegler sat at the left wearing an indefinite expression, possibly tolerant but possibly a slight sneer. The same dubiety attends the expression of Teddy Kennedy. He wore a striped T-shirt and his opponent a gray V-neck sweater. The chairman of the debate, Patrick Gormley, of New Rochelle, wore a rather formal tweed jacket. Mr. Gormley's remarks are not recorded, but David Jones, the son of the noted bandleader of that day, Isham Jones, was quoted in favor of sandwiches.

The story said: "Teddy Kennedy, 8-year-old son of Joseph Kennedy, ambassador to Britain, made his debut as a political orator yesterday when he steumped for President Roosevelt in a short but vigorous campaign at the Lawrence Park West Country Day School, but suffered a set-back when his 'man' went down to defeat at the hands of the teen-age student electorate. Taking the stand in defense of the Third Term candidate, the youngster of the Kennedys engaged Westbrook Pegler, nephew of the columnist, in a verbal duel before the school's student body at the morning assembly.

"'Today we are facing a crisis,' Teddy told his fellow students. 'Across the seas, nation after nation whose belief in Democracy has been as strong as ours, have gone down before the Nazi war machine. At a time like this, we must get things done whether it is good for private business or not. We must borrow a little from the Nazi method. For this task, we must step on the toes of some people and institutions which Mr. Willkie favors'."

Westbrook Pegler accused the President of arming the nation's military machine with "toy guns" and disdaining the warning of military experts to prepare this country's defense.

"Under the direction of George Collen, headmaster of the school, the day was given over to the election theme," the Herald-ered with state banners to pick delegates. Both the acceptance Statesman said. "In the morning the students assembled for a 'national convention' and gathspeech of President Roosevelt, delivered by young Kennedy, and that of Mr. Willkie, presented by Westbrook Pegler, were enthusiastically received. In the afternoon, students assembled to hear campaign speeches by David Jones, Patrick Gormley, Richard Williams, Louis Livingston Mitchell, Joseph Renton, Charles Tolman and William Reagler.

"At the close of the program, an election was held at which the Kennedy candidate, President Roosevelt, was snowed under by an overwhelming majority."

Mr. Pegler thereupon retired from politics. Mr. Kennedy is now a candidate for the Senate in Massachusetts and for president in 1976, presuming two terms each for his brother, the incumbent Jack, then Bobby and finally Teddy. That would carry the Kennedy Reign to the Dawn of 1984 and the Big Brother Era.

GWS Paper Gets National Press Honor Citation

George Washington's School's student paper The Cherry Tree, has been awarded a Certificate of Honor by the National School Press Project. This honor has been awarded for the December 1961 issue entered in the 25th annual school press project, sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the National Tuberculosis Association, and locally by the Ulster County TB and Health Association.

George Washington School's paper is unique in that it is the only paper from New York State in the National contest that is issued by an elementary school's staff. When the citation is received it will be presented to The Cherry Tree staff at a school assembly.

The faculty advisor to the student staff of the George Washington School paper was praised briefly by officers of the local TB Association. Mrs. Maude M. Bunting has been the advisor for student staffs that have had state and national honors for their entries in the press project on three other occasions. They received National Honor Citations in 1953, 1956 and 1959.

The School Press Project asks school journalists to produce news stories, features, editorials, cartoons and other artwork on events and people important to their readers. Three areas are assigned within which material can be developed.

The project aims to alert young people to their responsibility for their own and their neighbor's health, to encourage responsible citizenship, and to raise the standards of school journalism.

The topics assigned this year were: "Our School Helps Our Community Fight TB," "Health Work, Health Science and Our Futures," "Our Health and the Air We Breathe."

In 1961 The Highland Fling, the paper created by Highland School students, was awarded a national citation for their 1960 December issue entered in this contest. They had also received an award the previouss year.

Other schools that have received citations in this project have been School 7's Chatterbox" in 1954 and 1956 and Kerhonkson's Flying Goose in 1959.

Pipe Smoker, 97, Dies Nursing Home Fire

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — Erwin Nelson, 97, a patient in a nursing home, died Tuesday in a fire apparently started by his pipe.

None of the 16 other patients at the Donovan Nursing Home had to be evacuated as firemen confined the flames to Nelson's room in the two-story frame home in East Fifth St.

Firemen said Mrs. Patricia Wanska, a nurse, reported she had thrown a blanket on Nelson in an effort to smother flames in his clothing and bed.

Nelson had finished dinner and apparently had attempted to light his pipe, the nurse said.

Stevenson Defends Asian-African Majority in U.N.

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says misconceptions, at best, are behind charges that the Asian-African majority of the United Nations is destroying its value as a mediator.

Western critics, he said, have attacked the U.N. on the ground the Africans and Asians are obsessed with ending colonialism.

These charges, Stevenson said, are based on misconceptions at best and are a product of malice and pique at worst. They do not stand up to close examination, he said.

Defends U.N. in Congo

Stevenson, chief of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations, also defended the U.N. operation in the Congo as the type of peacemaking function that should be expanded.

He made the defense in a guest lecture Tuesday night at Colgate University. Stevenson was invited by Dr. Everett Case, Colgate president. Case and Stevenson had been classmates at Princeton.

On the Congo operation, Stevenson told an audience of students and faculty:

"Far from representing a usurpation of power by an arrogant secretariat, the Congo operation is precisely the type of operation which the United Nations should dare to undertake and in which we must pray to see it succeed."

In defending the Asian-African group, Stevenson said:

"For Africans to care profoundly about colonialism in Africa is not unadult, it is simply and directly human.

"We do not blame a man for being obsessed with a toothache. We can rise above his discomfort. We don't feel it. But for him it is a dark, angry fact. So it still is in many parts of africa... it cannot but color african thinking about general international events.

"Before we lump all the 'anti-colonialists' together, let us try to be more precise. Loudest of all are the Communists — and least entitled to respect. When Eastern Europe enjoys self-determination, we will listen to them, and not before."

Schwenk Praised In AT&T Article For His Service

Mayor John J. Schwenk is given a deserving ovation in an article entitled His Honor—The Mayor in the February issue of Long Lines, official publication of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., Long Lines Department.

The mayor is a retired Long Lines Plant man, who, the article notes "for the greater part of his adult life has been a 'doer' in public affairs." The article states the mayor's career in politics and service to his community extends from 1932, when he served his first term as an alderman, through November, 1961, when he was elected mayor of Kingston.

"As a fledgling alderman in the depths of the great depression, he introduced legislation that put unemployed men to work on civic projects," the article reads.

During the years the incumbent mayor presided as president of the Common Council, accomplishments included construction of a city laboratory, stadium, a public works building, a sewage disposal plant and many other projects that improved the operation and enhanced the beauty of the city, the article noted.

"In keeping with his campaign pledge," the article in Long Lines reads," John is in the process of setting up an industrial commission to attract new industry to Kingston. He also is following through on a six-million-dollar urban renewal program for the city's downtown area and proposing a two-million-dollar urban renewal project for Kingston's uptown business district."

The article concludes with the following: "Mayor Schwenk admits that he has no further political ambitions other than being the best mayor Kingston ever had. Since his program is so broad and his term of office is only two years, he may have to seek reelection. But John has served his community for 30 years and if it takes another two years he feels it is worth the effort."

Advice to Lutherans

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) —The president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, the Rev. Dr. John W. Behnken of St. Louis, urged an "even greater eagerness and determination to reach true unity" of the churches at a recent meeting of the National Lutheran Council here. He stressed the importance, however, of "agreement in doctrine."

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—How much it will cost you to borrow and how much you'll be paid to save may change come spring.

Interest rates already are being juggled. Up till now it has been largely the saver who has been affected, as competing institutions raised the rates of what they'll pay him.

Their aim is to get more money to lend. And competition was the cause of the increase starting in January, in what they'll pay for savings. The changes so far have been largely to bring the rewards of various forms of saving more in line with each other.

But to pay the increased rates to savers, some lenders may be raising lending rates. This could come along with spring if that brings the hoped for increase in business activity and home building.

This is one of the ticklish situations facing the Kennedy administration. It wants to keep short-term interest rates high—to hold money in this country and prevent another run on our gold supply as in late 1960, when interest rates were very low here compared with European money centers.

Washington also would like to keep long-term interest rates from rising much. This is to make it easier for business to borrow to extend its activities and enlarge its plant, and to encourage home builders.

News that California savings and loan associations are set to raise their rates of payments to savers will be watched closely in Washington. West Coast interest rates already are higher than in most sections of the country. The great demand for funds there has led the West to offer higher rates to lure funds from other money centers.

What Washington fears is that if these associations pay out still more for funds, they'll start charging more on mortgages to be able to meet the outgoing payments.

That is a form of dear money the administration hopes to avoid as an obstacle in its quest for a greater rate of economic growth.

Higher mortgage costs could cool the ardor of many would-be home owners in the spring. And just how big the home building will be is already doubtful enough.

Many bankers say the threat of higher mortgage costs is quite small. They say that in most parts of the nation there are ample funds for mortgage needs and that interest rates have been soft, if anything.

They tend to regard any increased payments on savings on the West Coast as a sectional thing.

Property Owner Can Collect on Planes: Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has decided a property owner forced to move from his home because of low-flying airplanes from a nearby airport is entitled to compensation.

The decision was in the case of Thomas N. Griggs, who sought compensation from Allegheny County, owner and operator of the Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

Justice Douglas delivered the 7-2 decision. Justice Black wrote a dissent in which Justice Frankfurter joined.

Griggs said planes zoomed over his house as low as 11.36 feet above the roof, shook plaster from ceilings and walls, and made conversation in the house impossible. He said occupants were unable to sleep "even with ear plugs and sleeping pills," and in fear for their lives, finally moved away.

A Board of Viewers, set up under Pennsylvania law, awarded Griggs $12,690 against the county. That was set aside, however, by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. It ruled there had not been an unconstitutional taking by the county of the airspace above the Griggs property. It suggested Griggs press trespass suits against owners or operators of aircraft. Griggs appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, asking that the county be held liable for compensation.

Schwenk Praised In AT&T Article For His Service

Mayor John J. Schwenk is given a deserving ovation in an article entitled His Honor—The Mayor in the February issue of Long Lines, official publication of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., Long Lines Department.

The mayor is a retired Long Lines Plant man, who, the article notes "for the greater part of his adult life has been a 'doer' in public affairs." The article states the mayor's career in politics and service to his community extends from 1932, when he served his first term as an alderman, through November, 1961, when he was elected mayor of Kingston.

"As a fledgling alderman in the depths of the great depression, he introduced legislation that put unemployed men to work on civic projects," the article reads.

During the years the incumbent mayor presided as president of the Common Council, accomplishments included construction of a city laboratory, stadium, a public works building, a sewage disposal plant and many other projects that improved the operation and enhanced the beauty of the city, the article noted.

"In keeping with his campaign pledge," the article in Long Lines reads," John is in the process of setting up an industrial commission to attract new industry to Kingston. He also is following through on a six-million-dollar urban renewal program for the city's downtown area and proposing a two-million-dollar urban renewal project for Kingston's uptown business district."

The article concludes with the following: "Mayor Schwenk admits that he has no further political ambitions other than being the best mayor Kingston ever had. Since his program is so broad and his term of office is only two years, he may have to seek reelection. But John has served his community for 30 years and if it takes another two years he feels it is worth the effort."

Benedictine Reviews 60th Year of Operation

At the February meeting of the Board of Directors of the Benedictine Hospital, the following activity report for 1961, the 60th year of the hospital's service to the Kingston area, was presented by Edwin B. Bolz, associate administrator of the hospital.

Bolz stated that the statistics for the year 1961 have again indicated that the Benedictine Hospital has rendered another record-breaking year of service to the community.

The number of in-patients treated in 1961 was 8,585, an increase of 189 patients over the year 1960. The number of out-patients treated at the hospital totalled 5,538, an increase of 800 over 1960. Overall, the total number of in and out patients treated at the Benedictine Hospital for the year 1961 was 14,123, this is an increase of 989 patients over 1960.

The total in-patient care days rendered during 1961 was 59,731, an increase of 1,933 over the year 1960. During the year 1961 the Benedictine Hospital maintained an average daily census of 163 patients per day compared with 158 last year.

Service Statistics

The following is a breakdown of other service statistics for 1961:

Operations, 3,343; deliveries (births), 1,300; emergency room treatments, 2,344; x-ray examinations, 10,737; laboratory examinations, 74,389; laboratory specimens, 27,584; electro-cardiograms, 1,733; ultra-sonic treatments, 336; basal metabolism tests; 49.

The financial statistics also indicate a dramatic increase in expenses for 1961. The net operating income after a deduction of $164,264.80 for free work, allowances and bad debts, was $1,547,005.77. The total operating expenses for the year 1960 amounted to $1,604,218.72. Of this figure $986,294.34 was for payroll and $617,924.38 for supplies, repairs and other miscellaneous expenses. The operating deficit for 1961 amounted to $57,212.95.

Past Operative Unit

The year 1961 witnessed the building and the completion of the seven bed Post-Operative Recovery Unit. In the establishment of this post-operative recovery room the Benedictine Hospital is keeping pace with progress in the care of the surgical patients in the immediate post-operative period. This new room encompasses all the latest physical aids necessary for patients, including the latest type of oxygen-therapy, various types of suction, intravenous fluids, etc. The cost of this unit was $40,000.

The maintenance program for all areas continued during 1961. The brickwork of the exterior of the North and Center Wings was repointed during the Fall of 1961. The corridor of North I was redecorated and wall covering replaced, and the entire basement corridor of the North Wing was renovated and redecorated.

During the latter part of 1961 the Pharmacy was completely renovated and modernized by members of the Hospital Maintenance Department. The results were professional in nature and the members of the Hospital's Maintainance Team are to be congratulated for a job very well done.

New patient room lights were installed in the North Wing during the latter part of 1961 and will continue to be installed so that all patients in the North Wing will have the added comfort of proper lighting. The wall-mounted lights have two separate lights, one for general illumination and the other for the patient's reading comfort or for use by doctors for examinations.

Consistent with the administrative policy of concern for patient safety as well as employe safety, the Hospital has provided bed rails for every patient bed during 1961

Personnel Department

"The year 1961 witnessed the establishment of a personnel department and the employment of a qualified personnel director to head this departmment. This is another step in the administrative program for establishment of a proper policy consistent with the needs of our hospital employes. It is our constant concern to meet as far as possible, the employes' need for recognition, belonging, security, and for participation. During 1961 we have established an employe service award program, establishment of a testing program to help select future supervisors from our present employe group, periodic wage increases and the establishment of a monthly employe newspaper."

"The administration would be remiss if we did not mention the fine fund-raising work performed for the hospital by the Benedictine Women's Auxiliary. Some of their major programs are newborn baby photo service, TV rental service, gift shop, auxiliary gift cart, patient mail and flower delivery, information desk, direction of the Junior Valunteer or "Candy Striper" activities, decoration of hospital for the Christmas season, sponsorship of social activities for the benefit of the hospital such as: dances, card parties, sales, etc."

Bolz concluded his remarks with this statement: "The hospital's progress during 1961 was an outstanding example of a mutual understanding and combined effort on the part of the Governing Board, Medical Staff, hospital employes, Women's Auxiliary and the administration of the hospital. For good measure, add to the above combined effort the wonderful outside help received during the year from individual donors, the City Administration, Departments of Public Works, Fire and Police, the local newspapers and radio stations, and you have a joint effort in which each party has assumed an obligation to each other and the community which we all serve."

Plans for Expansion

The Board of Directors accepted the Activity Report and reviewed the plans for future expansion for the hospital. The following expansion program was then approved for initiation and execution:

Relocation and enlargement of the Emergency Room Facility.

The complete air-conditioning of the X-ray Suite.

The replacement of our present emergency power generator to accommodate an enlarged electrical load.

The implementation of an Intensive Care Unit in our present facility.

The relocation of the present incinerator plant.

The employment of a qualified Hospital Consultant to work with Governing Board, Lay Advisory Board, Medical Staff and Administration to adequately set down the future of our Hospital in regard to the replacement and enlargement of the Center Wing area.

The initiation of fund-raising efforts upon the completion of the above planning stage.

Bolz summarized the remarks and views concerning the contemplated expansion, "As can be readily seen, our future will be a busy one. The responsibility of our Hospital activity is great. We are in an age of unparalleled scientific progress, with occasional technological spectaculars. Our community wants the benefits of medical research. They want care as a right, not as a special privilege. The big question before us is how to achieve a suitable balance between the quantity and quality of medical care within the available resources of personnel, facilities, organization and money."

"Why do I heat with Oil—you ask?"

"Economy's the big reason, I guess. My home is always warm and I enjoy all the features of any other fuel, but with oil—I pay less for them. I've compared with some of my friends who use other fuels and I'm convinced Oil is far and away the most economical."

Benedictine Reviews 60th Year of Operation

At the February meeting of the Board of Directors of the Benedictine Hospital, the following activity report for 1961, the 60th year of the hospital's service to the Kingston area, was presented by Edwin B. Bolz, associate administrator of the hospital.

Bolz stated that the statistics for the year 1961 have again indicated that the Benedictine Hospital has rendered another record-breaking year of service to the community.

The number of in-patients treated in 1961 was 8,585, an increase of 189 patients over the year 1960. The number of out-patients treated at the hospital totalled 5,538, an increase of 800 over 1960. Overall, the total number of in and out patients treated at the Benedictine Hospital for the year 1961 was 14,123, this is an increase of 989 patients over 1960.

The total in-patient care days rendered during 1961 was 59,731, an increase of 1,933 over the year 1960. During the year 1961 the Benedictine Hospital maintained an average daily census of 163 patients per day compared with 158 last year.

Service Statistics

The following is a breakdown of other service statistics for 1961:

Operations, 3,343; deliveries (births), 1,300; emergency room treatments, 2,344; x-ray examinations, 10,737; laboratory examinations, 74,389; laboratory specimens, 27,584; electro-cardiograms, 1,733; ultra-sonic treatments, 336; basal metabolism tests; 49.

The financial statistics also indicate a dramatic increase in expenses for 1961. The net operating income after a deduction of $164,264.80 for free work, allowances and bad debts, was $1,547,005.77. The total operating expenses for the year 1960 amounted to $1,604,218.72. Of this figure $986,294.34 was for payroll and $617,924.38 for supplies, repairs and other miscellaneous expenses. The operating deficit for 1961 amounted to $57,212.95.

Past Operative Unit

The year 1961 witnessed the building and the completion of the seven bed Post-Operative Recovery Unit. In the establishment of this post-operative recovery room the Benedictine Hospital is keeping pace with progress in the care of the surgical patients in the immediate post-operative period. This new room encompasses all the latest physical aids necessary for patients, including the latest type of oxygen-therapy, various types of suction, intravenous fluids, etc. The cost of this unit was $40,000.

The maintenance program for all areas continued during 1961. The brickwork of the exterior of the North and Center Wings was repointed during the Fall of 1961. The corridor of North I was redecorated and wall covering replaced, and the entire basement corridor of the North Wing was renovated and redecorated.

During the latter part of 1961 the Pharmacy was completely renovated and modernized by members of the Hospital Maintenance Department. The results were professional in nature and the members of the Hospital's Maintainance Team are to be congratulated for a job very well done.

New patient room lights were installed in the North Wing during the latter part of 1961 and will continue to be installed so that all patients in the North Wing will have the added comfort of proper lighting. The wall-mounted lights have two separate lights, one for general illumination and the other for the patient's reading comfort or for use by doctors for examinations.

Consistent with the administrative policy of concern for patient safety as well as employe safety, the Hospital has provided bed rails for every patient bed during 1961

Personnel Department

"The year 1961 witnessed the establishment of a personnel department and the employment of a qualified personnel director to head this departmment. This is another step in the administrative program for establishment of a proper policy consistent with the needs of our hospital employes. It is our constant concern to meet as far as possible, the employes' need for recognition, belonging, security, and for participation. During 1961 we have established an employe service award program, establishment of a testing program to help select future supervisors from our present employe group, periodic wage increases and the establishment of a monthly employe newspaper."

"The administration would be remiss if we did not mention the fine fund-raising work performed for the hospital by the Benedictine Women's Auxiliary. Some of their major programs are newborn baby photo service, TV rental service, gift shop, auxiliary gift cart, patient mail and flower delivery, information desk, direction of the Junior Valunteer or "Candy Striper" activities, decoration of hospital for the Christmas season, sponsorship of social activities for the benefit of the hospital such as: dances, card parties, sales, etc."

Bolz concluded his remarks with this statement: "The hospital's progress during 1961 was an outstanding example of a mutual understanding and combined effort on the part of the Governing Board, Medical Staff, hospital employes, Women's Auxiliary and the administration of the hospital. For good measure, add to the above combined effort the wonderful outside help received during the year from individual donors, the City Administration, Departments of Public Works, Fire and Police, the local newspapers and radio stations, and you have a joint effort in which each party has assumed an obligation to each other and the community which we all serve."

Plans for Expansion

The Board of Directors accepted the Activity Report and reviewed the plans for future expansion for the hospital. The following expansion program was then approved for initiation and execution:

Relocation and enlargement of the Emergency Room Facility.

The complete air-conditioning of the X-ray Suite.

The replacement of our present emergency power generator to accommodate an enlarged electrical load.

The implementation of an Intensive Care Unit in our present facility.

The relocation of the present incinerator plant.

The employment of a qualified Hospital Consultant to work with Governing Board, Lay Advisory Board, Medical Staff and Administration to adequately set down the future of our Hospital in regard to the replacement and enlargement of the Center Wing area.

The initiation of fund-raising efforts upon the completion of the above planning stage.

Bolz summarized the remarks and views concerning the contemplated expansion, "As can be readily seen, our future will be a busy one. The responsibility of our Hospital activity is great. We are in an age of unparalleled scientific progress, with occasional technological spectaculars. Our community wants the benefits of medical research. They want care as a right, not as a special privilege. The big question before us is how to achieve a suitable balance between the quantity and quality of medical care within the available resources of personnel, facilities, organization and money."

U.S. Solar Lab Sent Into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A solar observatory satellite was fired into orbit today to learn how solar radiation influences the weather and other conditions on earth and how great a threat it is to manned space flight.

The satellite, nicknamed OSO for orbiting solar observatory, was packed with instruments to give scientists their first clear look at basic mysteries of the sun.

The 458-pound OSO payload roared away from this spaceport at 11:06 a.m. (EST) aboard a Thor-Delta rocket. All three stages ignited as planned and propelled the craft into orbit about 350 miles above the earth at 17,000 miles an hour.

Less than an hour later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that radio signals received by ground stations indicated the satellite was in orbit.

Trailer Destroyed By New Paltz Fire

New Paltz firmen under the direction of Chief Raymond Morris Jr., battled a fire early Tuesday night in a trailer owned by James London on Jansen Road, New Paltz. High winds at the time gave a stiff battle to firemen from New Paltz, aided by Clintondale firemen who responded with two pieces of apparatus.

Fire in the trailer, which also had an attached room, was discovered about 8:30 p. m. while the Lodon family was absent. They arrived home just as the fire had been extinguished.

There was no determination as to how the fire started. The trailer was described as a complete loss.

None of the effects of the London family was saved and the Red Cross provided for the family overnight and also sent clothing.

Plea of Innocent Given to Charge Of Tax Evasion

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Truman Bidwell, resigned chairman of the New York Stock Exchange board of governors, pleaded innocent today to federal income tax evasion charges.

U.S. Dist. Judge John M. Cashin set bail at $2,500.

Bidwell, 58, heard the reading of a two-count indictment and replied "Not guilty" in a firm voice.

The indictment handed up last week, charged that he evaded $55,908 in taxes for 1956 and 1957.

Paul W. Williams, Bidwell's attorney, contended that the charges were false and that the case had been blown up out of all proportion.

Judge to Review Beating Evidence

Harry O. Morrison, Greene County dishwasher who is seeking $100,000 damages for an alleged beating which he claims State Police at Leeds gave him, will have to wait some time to find out whether he will collect. Testimony was closed Tuesday in the Court of Claims. Judge Sidney Squires, said he would give a decision after he had reviewed the evidence and received briefs from Morrison's attorney, Francis Martocci and Assistant State Attorney General Lawrence Wayne.

Morrison claims he was beaten by troopers after he had been picked up for questioning. Three troopers have testified they never struck claimant.

Morrison was picked up July 7, 1958, during investigation of a tavern fire. He alleged he was taken to Leeds barracks and assaulted. One of the troopers who testified he saw no one strike Morrison, was Trooper Richard Roe, who picked Morrison up. Trooper Roe testified Morrison had told him he was beaten while he was walking to his home in Purling from the Acra tavern. He said a car stopped on Route 23 in Greene County and two men got out and beat him up. Later he claimed he was "clubbed" by troopers and handcuffed to a post in the Leeds barracks basement and clubbed and kicked.

Bids on 209, Span Due on April 12th

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson announced today that the New York State Department of Public Works will receive bids at Albany, April 12 for the reconstruction of Route 209 from just north of Route 213 in the Town of Marbletown southwesterly 2.74 miles.

The project calls for a 24-foot wide asphalt concrete pavement, generally on new location near existing highway to provide better alignment and grade, plus widening and resurfacing an existing portion near the southwestern end of the project.

Also included is construction of a twin-span, concrete box bridge, 25.4 feet long, at Kripplebush Creek and relocation of the creek channel at this point.

The state's estimate for the work is $715,000.

Chamber Leaders

were approved. The legislation, which would make it possible for towns and school districts to collect taxes on an installment basis the same as cities, introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, was also supported.

A financial report indicated that all of the 1961-62 membership dues unpaid to date would be required to complete the fiscal year ending April 30 without a deficit. The budget for 1961-62 was based on the renewal of those memberships. The list was reviewed and individual directors will contact those who have not paid their dues to date.

A progress report was given by Chris Larios, chairman of the Community Development Committee. This important committee, of which W. J. C. Buddenhagen, Thomas Liguore, Howard A. Lewis and Harold W. O'Connor are members, is making an objective study of problems facing the Kingston area and will make recommendations for priority consideration of the problems.

To Meet Planning Board

President Sam Pepper also announced that a committee consisting of William E. Rylance, as chairman, Clare H. Buddenhagen and Richard Riseley, will meet with the Planning Board on March 15 to consider methods of promoting the industrial and commercial development of the city.

It was also announced that Joseph Benjamin will serve as chairman of a special committee to plan for a Chamber of Commerce membership breakfast early in April. Detailed plans for this new project will be announced later. All members will be invited and it is planned to have a membership breakfast at least once a month except during the summer months.

400 Letters Sent

Chamber Manager Albert Kurdt reported that over 400 individual letters have been written, during the past 10 weeks, assisting the Kingston Women's Bowling Association in arranging for accommodations for some of the over 2,500 bowling teams which will visit Kingston between March 23 and May 26. It was also reported that Kurdt will meet with the group of Peruvian visitors to Kingston Friday morning at 10 a. m. to discuss the function and activities of voluntary business organizations in a typical small American City.

Because of the fact that a special meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce was held last night, the regular meeting usually held on the second Tuesday, will be canceled. The next regular meeting will take place on April 10.

Bids Negro Be Part of Future Astronaut Field

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — When more U.S. astronauts are selected, a Montgomery Negro leader says, a Negro should be among them.

The Rev. Uriah J. Fields, president of the Montgomery Amelioration and Restoration Society, said Tuesday he had made that request to Director James B. Webb of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Buses, Taxis

Smith (D) Eighth Ward, as chairman of the railroad and bus committee, asked the City Clerk Walter S. Foster contact the mayor and arrange a meeting with the committee, city officials and all concerned, so that definite action could be taken toward arriving at a solution.

Dispute Over Mailing

Smith noted that, as bus committee chairman, he did not have a copy of the mayor's recommendations which figured in the Sunday meeting, although a copy had been obtained by Carroll and forwarded to the meeting. This led to a disput as to the time the letters were mailed and William Klein, the mayor's executive secretary, said they had been mailed uptown Friday at 8:30 p. m.

Carroll reported obtaining a copy of the letter after learning that one was being mailed.

Calls Ordinance Ineffectual

The alderman said he doubted that anything was accomplished at the Sunday meeting other than "the passage of a hastily drawn and ineffectual ordinance, which will accomplish nothing more than to make it more difficult to reach a satisfactory and lasting solution to this city's transportation problem."

Carroll noted that the original curtailment of the downtown service in question last summer drew no protest from the bus committee. This situation, he said, continued until January "when Alderman Adams unknowingly touched off a three-ring circus by attacking the bus company" in the council. "instead of referring his complaint" to the bus committee "in accordance with standing operating procedure."

Nothing Logical, He Says

Since the move by Adams ,he said, "there has not been a calm or logical word said on this subject on the council floor, and for some reason which I fail to comprehend," the bus committee "has yet to meet face-to-face" with the bus company "to seek a solution to our transportation problem."

Carroll held that the result of Adams' procedure was that the whole city has curtailment of service. That of last Sunday, he held was the "most shoddy display of all the circus performances" since the first of the year.

Carroll contended that the reason for the Sunday session was "to get Mr. Adams off the hook, and to try to make everybody think that you really care about their bus problem." If they really cared, he held, the committee would have met with the company eight months ago and they would have waited out recommendations from the mayor and would not have rushed through an "emergency ordinance" without teeth and which can worsen the situation.

Mayor Schwenk, he said, was able to avoid a strike by talking "sense and logic in a calm approach to the problem." He also noted that the mayor yesterday morning in a brief exploratory meeting with the bus company spokesmen, gained restoration of Sunday morning service on a 30-day trial basis. This, he said, is to start Sunday on the Broadway line, which serves 90 per cent of the city's churches. He also noted that starting at 6:40 a. m. and continuing to 1 p. m., two buses will be put back into Sunday operation providing 20 minute service along the Broadway route.

The alderman proposed that the council's majority members consider Alderman Smith's request for the mayor's recommendations. If they work with the mayor, he said, they'll get "satisfactory results."

After Carroll's mention of the mayor's role in avoiding a strike of bus drivers, Council President Kaye said he had been asked by John Sahloff, representing the drivers, to meet Monday with his group and a union representative.

Kaye said he asked why the mayor had not been asked to meet with the group and Sahloff told him, he said, that the mayor was due to be out of town and advised that the corporation counsel be asked to attend. Sahloff told the mayor Kaye said, that he did not think that would be necessary if the alderman-at-large were available.

Not Asked, Says Kaye

Kaye indicated he would be willing to attend the meeting if requested by the mayor to do so, but the mayor had not asked him to attend.

Hastings held that the lack of effort to get the mayor's recommendations on the bus problem in Smith's hands before the Sunday meeting, was another indication of the lack of cooperation of the minority party.

Smith said he would not have called the Sunday meeting, if he felt there was no emergency involved. Carroll said he thought Smith was trying to do his job, but he wished "outsiders would stop interfering." Carroll said the first time Corporation Counsel Harry Gold had seen the ordinance voted on Sunday was at a recess during the meeting.

Refers to Gadd Statement

Alderman Adams said that all he sought in dealing originally with the bus question was an answer to his inquiry as to whether or not the bus line was within its legal rights in curtailing service downtown. He said he was not concerned with himself but with getting service for the people in his ward. He made mention of a reported statement by Mrs. Gadd of the bus company to the effect that she was "fed up paying political debts," and wondered if there were "other political debts" involved.

Adams Blames Mayor

Adams contended that the mayor appears to have no regard for the people and in his opinion has a "steel mind." The mayor reacted on Jan. 7, he said, to the report that the bus company was losing money, and he wondered if it was. He indicated he had been told that the education board pays the line $18,000 a year, which he felt was not included in the bookkeeping as dealing with losses, and he felt that Mr. and Mrs. Gadd have been drawing "a sizable income" along with others outside the local company.

"Why don't the mayor take the situation into his own hands?" asked Adams, "He's being paid $10,000 a year with an assistant receiving $4,750. I think the reason we called the emergency meeting was because of lack of action by the mayor."

Alderman John Machione, (R), 12th Ward, recalling the decision by the Public Service Commission to the effect that the bus line was not in violation of its franchise, advised that if Adams "don't like the decision why doesn't he take the issue to court." The argument, he thought, should not be "prolonged from here to eternity." The answer to Adams' inquiry on the bus company's position, he said, was in writing from the corporation counsel.

School 3 P-TA Approves Fluoridation of Water

Approval of the fluoridation of the Kingston city water supply was unanimously voted by parents attending a special meeting of School 3 Parent-Teacher Association and a request was forwarded to the Kingston Board of Water Commissioners to take action.

Before the business session, a film was shown and a panel of local physicians and dentists participated in a discussion on fluoridation. Dr. Franklin Hall, Ulster County Health Commissioner, was unable to attend because of an emergency.

Dr. Stephen McGrath explained the main points of the development, purpose and practicability of fluoridation. In reply to questions concerning the cost of the project, he stated he felt it was more expensive for Kingston not to fluoridate than to fluoridate the water.

Points to Welfare Costs

"The amount spent in Kingston on welfare dental care alone amounts to more than it would cost to fluoridate the water supply," Dr. McGrath said. "Dental welfare costs were $17,000 for the county in 1960. Kingston would have used approximately half of that amount.

"Two thirds of these defects and subsequent costs would have been prevented by fluoridation," Dr. McGrath said "Fluoridation would be an economy measure for every family by reducing their dental bills by two thirds. The initial cost of installing equipment for fluoridation would cost about $14,000." Divided roughly by the 28,000 residents of Kingston," the speaker said, "results in an estimated cost of less than 15 cents a person and all children would benefit. Children in this manner derive health benefits that last them through life."

Dr. McGrath said that individual fluoride pills cost about eight dollars a year. He stated that it seems that obstructionist opposition stems from the now defunct false economy party. "This paradox is typical of the inconsistency of their arguments," the speaker said.

Other Doctors Talk

Also participating in the discussions on fluoridation were Dr. Jeremiah Sachs, Dr. Morton Cohen and Dr. David Gerbarg.

In answer to a question, "Has the Ulster County Medical Society Gone on Record Approving Fluoridation?" Dr. Gerbarg said they did in 1956 and have reaffirmed it. He read from the May 1956 issue of the Bulletin of the medical society the following statement:

"Whereas a fluoridation committee was appointed by Dr. John Olivet, president of the Ulster County Medical Society and

"Whereas the recent study and investigation by the fluoridation committee has resulted in the following conclusions:

"1—The study has failed to reveal any harmful side reactions or injurious processes resulting from the controlled fluoridation of drinking water as recommended by the Health Department of the State of New York and,

"2—Studies have definitely proven that the incidence of dental decay is diminished in those communities in which proper concentration of fluorine is present whether naturaly occurring or artificially added and,

"Whereas the approximately 9,000 citizens of Ulster County are anticipating an impartial opinion from the Medical society concerning this proposal,

"Therefore be it resolved that the Medical Society of the County of Ulster approve the findings of the fluoridation committee."

Endorsed by AMA

The following statement of the American Medical Association was read:

"Whereas carefully controlled studies have demonstrated that fluoridation of water supplies has been definitely beneficial in the reduction of dental caries in the younger age group and,

"Whereas the council on pharmacy and chemistry has reported that fluoride is non-toxic in community water supplies up to one part per million, and

"Whereas the addition of fluoride to community water supplies seem to have merit, therefore be it

"Resolved that the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association endorse the principle of fluoridation of community water supplies."

Council Votes

in planning for this development."

Yerry said he will keep the aldermen informed as to developments.

Hastings, in dealing with uptown urban renewal, said he felt the "objective was wonderful" but the aldermen must also realize that the city is about to start Project No. 1 (Broadway East) downtown. Also, he said the water board is faced with heavy expenditures over the next five years, and he advised that the aldermen ask seriously "are we over expending." They should look ahead for some 10 years, he advised in dealing with the possibility of over-expending.

Asks About Parking

He felt that in a sense, the uptown project, was intended to "cover up" Mayor Schwenk's campaign promises concerning off-street parking. He noted it was March 6, and "almost March 7" and the aldermen have not received plans for the off-street parking proposal. If the plan by the previous administration had been pursued, he held, there would have been a parking project by Easter.

Alderman Adams also felt more than anticipated might become involved in the project, and he said his vote last night was not necessarily one for the entire project.

The project, Carroll said, will be one of major improvements uptown, of which parking will be only a phase, "we'll be getting a parking lot and much more for our tax dollar."

Alderman John Machione (R) 12th Ward, noted that the uptown project also calls for development of an uptown business center.

Ike Going to Mexico For Delayed Fishing

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will fly to Mexico Thursday on a fishing trip that was delayed by a close friend's death.

Among those who planned to make the trip was W. Alton Jones, who was killed last week when a jet airliner crashed near New York's Idlewild Airport. Eisenhower returned to his vacation home here Monday after attending Jones' funeral in New York.

Action of...

population of 8,00,000, sensative to the chemical, and adversely affected would constitute a seriously significant number of persons harmed."

The DeDea letter on fluoridation also cites a statement by Dr. Benjamin C. Nesin, of the New York department, in which he says that data submitted by proponents of fluoridation is unreliable and the claim of dental propyhylaxis is questionable. Public water supplies, he held, are not suitable for administering, and it cannot be done "without entertaining hazard." There are safer methods he held, and considered should be communities which have started and discontinued fluoridation. DeDea also submitted an editorial on the subject.

Alderman Adams, in complaining of local street conditions, said he had been told that one insurance company reported some 300 claims resulting of people falling on streets. He said he hoped someone would get the mayor to do something about the streets.

Minority Leader Carroll agreed that something should be done about the city streets, but he felt the initiative rests with the public works superintendent. He said he had complained to the mayor and the latter was to confer with the public works head on street conditions.

Hastings held that the mayor, as had been past mayors, is most directly responsible, and he felt he should be with a $10,000 salary plus another of $4,750 for an executive assistant, a point which was made by Adams. Hastings held that in effect the mayor has two secretaries.

Machione commenting on the status of the mayor's office employes held that the attack on the position of Mrs. VanEtten (stenographer) was an excuse to "get at Mr. Klein" and their real complaint" against the latter is "that it makes them uncomfortable to know that Mayor Schwenk has as his executive assistant a trained public relations counsel."

Called Efficient Way

The majority party, he held, "cares nothing that Mayor Schwenk is trying to run his operation as should an efficient, modern chief executive of a municipality of this size." He held that an executive secretary who attempts to be a stenographer, typist, filing clerk, and receptionist, cannot possibly fulfill the responsibilities of an administrative or executive assistant."

Machione felt that if the majority party were in control of the mayor's office they would favor such a post. Mrs. Van Etten, it was noted, serves both the mayor's and city engineer's office.

Adams said it appeared as though members of the minority party were not versed in speaking extemporaneously and were given to prepared statements. This followed the reading of one by Machione. Adams said, he personally had made no mention of the mayor's steographer, but she was mentioned in a reply read by Machione.

Would Restore Night Court

Alderman Donald E. Quick, (D) 10th Ward, in making a bid for return of night court sessions, said they avoided the loss of time from jobs, business and schools, and enabled persons to see the working of a court without losing time from daytime pursuits. Not having the sessions, he held, handicaps the handling of traffic summonses and small claims. The court was discontinued recently on a temporary basis because of light dockets for the Tuesday night sessions, to date, this year.

A petition with some 35 signatures asked for return of two-way traffic on North Front Street "in order to save our businesses from failure."

It and a letter from Seymour E. Blas, of 54 North Front Street, were submitted by Alderman Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward.

A lot of merchants, wrote Blas, are under the impression that they cannot do anything about the traffic situation because they feel that what City Hall wants, City Hall gets. Is this true or are we citizens?" he asks.

Blas said he obtained names from all merchants on both sides from Crown Street up and only two were opposed. One, he said, wanted "to play the middle of the road" and the other was not for it.

"This is our life," he wrote, "we must have a say on this issue. We on North Front Street feel we will die here sooner or later because of no decent parking, but we still wish to hold on as long as possible."

It was indicated last night that a special Common Council meeting is likely to be called when the North Front Street traffic flow problem is due for consideration. Alderman Hastings, as traffic chairman said a committee meeting would be held soon.

Majority Leader Frank C. Sass, commenting on the recent appointment of Frank Bourke, of 140 Wall Street to the planning board said he felt he would be a valuable addition, but he said he was surprised and disappointed when John Shults was not appointed. The latter he said had devoted much time to study and research. He felt that Shults was as surprised and as disappointed as himself in not being reappointed.

U.S. Solar Lab Sent Into Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A solar observatory satellite was fired into orbit today to learn how solar radiation influences the weather and other conditions on earth and how great a threat it is to manned space flight.

The satellite, nicknamed OSO for orbiting solar observatory, was packed with instruments to give scientists their first clear look at basic mysteries of the sun.

The 458-pound OSO payload roared away from this spaceport at 11:06 a.m. (EST) aboard a Thor-Delta rocket. All three stages ignited as planned and propelled the craft into orbit about 350 miles above the earth at 17,000 miles an hour.

Less than an hour later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that radio signals received by ground stations indicated the satellite was in orbit.

Trailer Destroyed By New Paltz Fire

New Paltz firmen under the direction of Chief Raymond Morris Jr., battled a fire early Tuesday night in a trailer owned by James London on Jansen Road, New Paltz. High winds at the time gave a stiff battle to firemen from New Paltz, aided by Clintondale firemen who responded with two pieces of apparatus.

Fire in the trailer, which also had an attached room, was discovered about 8:30 p. m. while the Lodon family was absent. They arrived home just as the fire had been extinguished.

There was no determination as to how the fire started. The trailer was described as a complete loss.

None of the effects of the London family was saved and the Red Cross provided for the family overnight and also sent clothing.

Plea of Innocent Given to Charge Of Tax Evasion

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Truman Bidwell, resigned chairman of the New York Stock Exchange board of governors, pleaded innocent today to federal income tax evasion charges.

U.S. Dist. Judge John M. Cashin set bail at $2,500.

Bidwell, 58, heard the reading of a two-count indictment and replied "Not guilty" in a firm voice.

The indictment handed up last week, charged that he evaded $55,908 in taxes for 1956 and 1957.

Paul W. Williams, Bidwell's attorney, contended that the charges were false and that the case had been blown up out of all proportion.

Judge to Review Beating Evidence

Harry O. Morrison, Greene County dishwasher who is seeking $100,000 damages for an alleged beating which he claims State Police at Leeds gave him, will have to wait some time to find out whether he will collect. Testimony was closed Tuesday in the Court of Claims, Judge Sidney Squires, said he would give a decision after he had reviewed the evidence and received briefs from Morrison's attorney, Francis Martocci and Assistant State Attorney General Lawrence Wayne.

Morrison claims he was beaten by troopers after he had been picked up for questioning. Three troopers have testified they never struck claimant.

Morrison was picked up July 7, 1958, during investigation of a tavern fire. He alleged he was taken to Leeds barracks and assaulted. One of the troopers who testified he saw no one strike Morrison, was Trooper Richard Roe, who picked Morrison up. Trooper Roe testified Morrison had told him he was beaten while he was walking to his home in Purling from the Acra tavern. He said a car stopped on Route 23 in Greene County and two men got out and beat him up. Later he claimed he was "clubbed" by troopers and handcuffed to a post in the Leeds barracks basement and clubbed and kicked.

Bids on 209, Span Due on April 12th

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson announced today that the New York State Department of Public Works will receive bids at Albany, April 12 for the reconstruction of Route 209 from just north of Route 213 in the Town of Marbletown southwesterly 2.74 miles.

The project calls for a 24-foot wide asphalt concrete pavement, generally on new location near existing highway to provide better alignment and grade, plus widening and resurfacing an existing portion near the southwestern end of the project.

Also included is construction of a twin-span, concrete box bridge, 25.4 feet long, at Kripplebush Creek and relocation of the creek channel at this point.

The state's estimate for the work is $715,000.

Chamber Leaders

were approved. The legislation, which would make it possible for towns and school districts to collect taxes on an installment basis the same as cities, introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, was also supported.

A financial report indicated that all of the 1961-62 membership dues unpaid to date would be required to complete the fiscal year ending April 30 without a deficit. The budget for 1961-62 was based on the renewal of those memberships. The list was reviewed and individual directors will contact those who have not paid their dues to date.

A progress report was given by Chris Larios, chairman of the Community Development Committee. This important committee, of which W. J. C. Buddenhagen, Thomas Liguore, Howard A. Lewis and Harold W. O'Connor are members, is making an objective study of problems facing the Kingston area and will make recommendations for priority consideration of the problems.

To Meet Planning Board

President Sam Pepper also announced that a committee consisting of William E. Rylance, as chairman, Clare H. Buddenhagen and Richard Riseley, will meet with the Planning Board on March 15 to consider methods of promoting the industrial and commercial development of the city.

It was also announced that Joseph Benjamin will serve as chairman of a special committee to plan for a Chamber of Commerce membership breakfast early in April. Detailed plans for this new project will be announced later. All members will be invited and it is planned to have a membership breakfast at least once a month except during the summer months.

400 Letters Sent

Chamber Manager Albert Kurdt reported that over 400 individual letters have been written, during the past 10 weeks, assisting the Kingston Women's Bowling Association in arranging for accommodations for some of the over 2,500 bowling teams which will visit Kingston between March 23 and May 26. It was also reported that Kurdt will meet with the group of Peruvian visitors to Kingston Friday morning at 10 a. m. to discuss the function and activities of voluntary business organizations in a typical small American City.

Because of the fact that a special meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce was held last night, the regular meeting usually held on the second Tuesday, will be canceled. The next regular meeting will take place on April 10.

Bids Negro Be Part of Future Astronaut Field

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — When more U.S. astronauts are selected, a Montgomery Negro leader says, a Negro should be among them.

The Rev. Uriah J. Fields, president of the Montgomery Amelioration and Restoration Society, said Tuesday he had made that request to Director James B. Webb of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Buses, Taxis

Smith (D) Eighth Ward, as chairman of the railroad and bus committee, asked the City Clerk Walter S. Foster contact the mayor and arrange a meeting with the committee, city officials and all concerned, so that definite action could be taken toward arriving at a solution.

Dispute Over Mailing

Smith noted that, as bus committee chairman, he did not have a copy of the mayor's recommendations which figured in the Sunday meeting, although a copy had been obtained by Carroll and forwarded to the meeting. This led to a disput as to the time the letters were mailed and William Klein, the mayor's executive secretary, said they had been mailed upton Friday at 8:30 p. m.

Carroll reported obtaining a copy of the letter after learning that one was being mailed.

Calls Ordinance Ineffectual

The alderman said he doubted that anything was accomplished at the Sunday meeting other than "the passage of a hastily drawn and ineffectual ordinance, which will accomplish nothing more than to make it more difficult to reach a satisfactory and lasting solution to this city's transportation problem."

Carroll noted that the original curtailment of the downtown service in question last summer drew no protest from the bus committee. This situation, he said, continued until January "when Alderman Adams unknowingly touched off a threering circus by attacking the bus company" in the council. "instead of referring his complaint" to the bus committee "in accordance with standing operating procedure."

Nothing Logical, He Says

Since the move by Adams ,he said, "there has not been a calm or logical word said on this subject on the council floor, and for some reason which I fail to comprehend," the bus committee "has yet to meet face-to-face" with the bus company "to seek a solution to our transportation problem."

Carroll held that the result of Adams' procedure was that the whole city has curtailment of service, That of last Sunday, he held was the "most shoddy display of all the circus performances" since the first of the year.

Carroll contended that the reason for the Sunday session was "to get Mr. Adams off the hook, and to try to make everybody think that you really care about their bus problem." If they really cared, he held, the committee would have met with the company eight months ago and they would have waited out recommendations from the mayor and would not have rushed through an "emergency ordinance" without teeth and which can worsen the situation.

Mayor Schwenk, he said, was able to avoid a strike by talking "sense and logic in a calm approach to the problem." He also noted that the mayor yesterday morning in a brief exploratory meeting with the bus company spokesmen, gained restoration of Sunday morning service on a 30-day trial basis. This, he said, is to start Sunday on the Broadway line, which serves 90 per cent of the city's churches. He also noted that starting at 6:40 a. m. and continuing to 1 p. m., two buses will be put back into Sunday operation providing 20 minute service along the Broadway route.

The alderman proposed that the council's majority members consider Alderman Smith's request for the mayor's recommendations. If they work with the mayor, he said, they'll get "satisfactory results."

After Carroll's mention of the mayor's role in avoiding a strike of bus drivers, Council President Kaye said he had been asked by John Sahloff, representing the drivers, to meet Monday with his group and a union representative.

Kaye said he asked why the mayor had not been asked to meet with the group and Sahloff told him, he said, that the mayor was due to be out of town and advised that the corporation counsel be asked to attend. Sahloff told the mayor Kaye said, that he did not think that would be necessary if the alderman-at-large were available.

Not Asked, Says Kaye

Kaye indicated he would be willing to attend the meeting if requested by the mayor to do so, but the mayor had not asked him to attend.

Hastings held that the lack of effort to get the mayor's recommendations on the bus problem in Smith's hands before the Sunday meeting, was another indication of the lack of cooperation of the minority party.

Smith said he would not have called the Sunday meeting, if he felt there was no emergency involved. Carroll said he thought Smith was trying to do his job, but he wished "outsiders would stop interfering." Carroll said the first time Corporation Counsel Harry Gold had seen the ordinance voted on Sunday was at a recess during the meeting.

Refers to Gadd Statement

Alderman Adams said that all he sought in dealing originally with the bus question was an answer to his inquiry as to whether or not the bus line was within its legal rights in curtailing service downtown. He said he was not concerned with himself but with getting service for the people in his ward. He made mention of a reported statement by Mrs. Gadd of the bus company to the effect that she was "fed up paying political debts," and wondered if there were "other political debts" involved.

Adams Blames Mayor

Adams contended that the mayor appears to have no regard for the people and in his opinion has a "steel mind." The mayor reacted on Jan. 7, he said, to the report that the bus company was losing money, and he wondered if it was. He indicated he had been told that the education board pays the line $18,000 a year, which he felt was not included in the bookkeeping as dealing with losses, and he felt that Mr. and Mrs. Gadd have been drawing "a sizable income" along with others outside the local company.

"Why don't the mayor take the situation into his own hands?" asked Adams, "He's being paid $10,000 a year with an assistant receiving $4,750. I think the reason we called the emergency meeting was because of lack of action by the mayor."

Alderman John Machione, (R), 12th Ward, recalling the decision by the Public Service Commission to the effect that the bus line was not in violation of its franchise, advised that if Adams "don't like the decision why doesn't he take the issue to court." The argument, he thought, should not be "prolonged from here to eternity." The answer to Adams' inquiry on the bus company's position, he said, was in writing from the corporation counsel.

School 3 P-TA Approves Fluoridation of Water

Approval of the fluoridation of the Kingston city water supply was unanimously voted by parents attending a special meeting of School 3 Parent-Teacher Association and a request was forwarded to the Kingston Board of Water Commissioners to take action.

Before the business session, a film was shown and a panel of local physicians and dentists participated in a discussion on fluoridation. Dr. Franklin Hall, Ulster County Health Commissioner, was unable to attend because of an emergency.

Dr. Stephen McGrath explained the main points of the development, purpose and practicability of fluoridation. In reply to questions concerning the cost of the project, he stated he felt it was more expensive for Kingston not to fluoridate than to fluoridate the water.

Points to Welfare Costs

"The amount spent in Kingston on welfare dental care alone amounts to more than it would cost to fluoridate the water supply," Dr. McGrath said. "Dental welfare costs were $17,000 for the county in 1960. Kingston would have used approximately half of that amount.

"Two thirds of these defects and subsequent costs would have been prevented by fluoridation," Dr. McGrath said "Fluoridation would be an economy measure for every family by reducing their dental bills by two thirds. The initial cost of installing equipment for fluoridation would cost about $14,000." Divided roughly by the 28,000 residents of Kingston," the speaker said, "results in an estimated cost of less than 15 cents a person and all children would benefit. Children in this manner derive health benefits that last them through life."

Dr. McGrath said that individual fluoride pills cost about eight dollars a year. He stated that it seems that obstructionist opposition stems from the now defunct false economy party. "This paradox is typical of the inconsistency of their arguments," the speaker said.

Other Doctors Talk

Also participating in the discussions on fluoridation were Dr. Jeremiah Sachs, Dr. Morton Cohen and Dr. David Gerbarg.

In answer to a question, "Has the Ulster County Medical Society Gone on Record Approving Fluoridation?" Dr. Gerbarg said they did in 1956 and have reaffirmed it. He read from the May 1956 issue of the Bulletin of the medical society the following statement:

"Whereas a fluoridation committee was appointed by Dr. John Olivet, president of the Ulster County Medical Society and

"Whereas the recent study and investigation by the fluoridation committee has resulted in the following conclusions:

"1—The study has failed to reveal any harmful side reactions or injurious processes resulting from the controlled fluoridation of drinking water as recommended by the Health Department of the State of New York and,

"2—Studies have definitely proven that the incidence of dental decay is diminished in those communities in which proper concentration of fluorine is present whether naturaly occurring or artificially added and,

"Whereas the approximately 9,000 citizens of Ulster County are anticipating an impartial opinion from the Medical society concerning this proposal,

"Therefore be it resolved that the Medical Society of the County of Ulster approve the findings of the fluoridation committee."

Endorsed by AMA

The following statement of the American Medical Association was read:

"Whereas carefully controlled studies have demonstrated that fluoridation of water supplies has been definitely beneficial in the reduction of dental caries in the younger age group and,

"Whereas the council on pharmacy and chemistry has reported that fluoride is non-toxic in community water supplies up to one part per million, and

"Whereas the addition of fluoride to community water supplies seem to have merit, therefore be it

"Resolved that the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association endorse the principle of fluoridation of community water supplies."

Council Votes

in planning for this development."

Yerry said he will keep the aldermen informed as to developments.

Hastings, in dealing with uptown urban renewal, said he felt the "objective was wonderful" but the aldermen must also realize that the city is about to start Project No. 1 (Broadway East) downtown. Also, he said the water board is faced with heavy expenditures over the next five years, and he advised that the aldermen ask seriously "are we over expending." They should look ahead for some 10 years, he advised in dealing with the possibility of over-expending.

Asks About Parking

He felt that in a sense, the uptown project, was intended to "cover up" Mayor Schwenk's campaign promises concerning off-street parking. He noted it was March 6, and "almost March 7" and the aldermen have not received plans for the off-street parking proposal. If the plan by the previous administration had been pursued, he held, there would have been a parking project by Easter.

Alderman Adams also felt more than anticipated might become involved in the project, and he said his vote last night was not necessarily one for the entire project.

The project, Carroll said, will be one of major improvements uptown, of which parking will be only a phase, "we'll be getting a parking lot and much more for our tax dollar."

Alderman John Machione (R) 12th Ward, noted that the uptown project also calls for development of an uptown business center.

Action of . . .

population of 8,00,000, sensative to the chemical, and adversely affected would constitute a seriously significant number of persons harmed."

The DeDea letter on fluoridation also cites a statement by Dr. Benjamin C. Nesin, of the New York department, in which he says that data submitted by proponents of fluoridation is unreliable and the claim of dental propyhylaxis is questionable. Public water supplies, he held, are not suitable for administering, and it cannot be done "without entertaining hazard." There are safer methods he held, and considered should be communities which have started and discontinued fluoridation. DeDea also submitted an editorial on the subject.

Alderman Adams, in complaining of local street conditions, said he had been told that one insurance company reported some 300 claims resulting of people falling on streets. He said he hoped someone would get the mayor to do something about the streets.

Minority Leader Carroll agreed that something should be done about the city streets, but he felt the initiative rests with the public works superintendent. He said he had complained to the mayor and the latter was to confer with the public works head on street conditions.

Hastings held that the mayor, as had been past mayors, is most directly responsible, and he felt he should be with a $10,000 salary plus another of $4,750 for an executive assistant, a point which was made by Adams. Hastings held that in effect the mayor has two secretaries.

Machione commenting on the status of the mayor's office employes held that the attack on the position of Mrs. VanEtten (stenographer) was an excuse to "get at Mr. Klein" and their real complaint" against the latter is "that it makes them uncomfortable to know that Mayor Schwenk has as his executive assistant a trained public relations counsel."

Called Efficient Way

The majority party, he held, "cares nothing that Mayor Schwenk is trying to run his operation as should an efficient, modern chief executive of a municipality of this size." He held that an executive secretary who attempts to be a stenographer, typist, filing clerk, and receptionist, cannot possibly fulfill the responsibilities of an administrative or executive assistant."

Machione felt that if the majority party were in control of the mayor's office they would favor such a post. Mrs. Van Etten, it was noted, serves both the mayor's and city engineer's office.

Adams said it appeared as though members of the minority party were not versed in speaking extemporaneously and were given to prepared statements. This followed the reading of one by Machione. Adams said, he personally had made no mention of the mayor's steographer, but she was mentioned in a reply read by Machione.

Would Restore Night Court

Alderman Donald E. Quick, (D) 10th Ward, in making a bid for return of night court sessions, said they avoided the loss of time from jobs, business and schools, and enabled persons to see the working of a court without losing time from daytime pursuits. Not having the sessions, he held, handicaps the handling of traffic summonses and small claims. The court was discontinued recently on a temporary basis because of light dockets for the Tuesday night sessions, to date, this year.

A petition with some 35 signatures asked for return of two-way traffic on North Front Street "in order to save our businesses from failure."

It and a letter from Seymour E. Blas, of 54 North Front Street, were submitted by Alderman Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward.

A lot of merchants, wrote Blas, are under the impression that they cannot do anything about the traffic situation because they feel that what City Hall wants, City Hall gets. Is this true or are we citizens?" he asks.

Blas said he obtained names from all merchants on both sides from Crown Street up and only two were opposed. One, he said, wanted "to play the middle of the road" and the other was not for it.

"This is our life," he wrote, "we must have a say on this issue. We on North Front Street feel we will die here sooner or later because of no decent parking, but we still wish to hold on as long as possible."

It was indicated last night that a special Common Council meeting is likely to be called when the North Front Street traffic flow problem is due for consideration. Alderman Hastings, as traffic chairman said a committee meeting would be held soon.

Majority Leader Frank C. Sass, commenting on the recent appointment of Frank Bourke, of 140 Wall Street to the planning board said he felt he would be a valuable addition, but he said he was surprised and disappointed when John Shults was not appointed. The latter he said had devoted much time to study and research. He felt that Shults was as surprised and as disappointed as himself in not being reappointed.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Bake Fish Steaks With Tasty Herbs

TASTE-WAKENING herb topping gives fish steaks extra flavor and interest. It's particularly welcome for Lent.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

During Lent, try new recipes for adding more interest and taste appeal to fish and sea food recipes. If you do this, you'll find that the family will really enjoy meatless dinners.

Toppings for fish steaks of any kind add that extra touch. Here is one very delicious example:

Herb-Baked Fish Steaks
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)

2 pounds fish steaks (cod, haddock or halibut)
½ cup butter or margarine
4 cloves garlic, sliced
⅓ cup minced onion
¼ teaspoon tarragon
¼ teaspoon parsley flakes
¼ teaspoon thyme
Dash nutmeg
Dash mace
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs

Arrange steaks on aluminum foil in a shallow baking dish. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add sliced garlic and cook until garlic is soft. Remove garlic. Add onion and saute until tender. Add remaining ingredients except bread crumbs; stir to blend. Spoon about half the mixture over fish steaks. Add crumbs to remaining herb mixture; stir to blend. Spread crumbs over steaks. Bake in a 400 degree F. (hot) oven 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Dead Senator Accused

Charges Bender Took Bribe to Quash Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal prosecutor has charged that the late Sen. George H. Bender, Ohio Republican, accepted a $100,000 bribe to quash a stock fraud investigation.

Made at Trial of 16

The accusation was made Tuesday by Asst. U.S. Atty. Gerald Walpin as he was finishing his opening statement in the trial of 12 men and four corporate defendants in the stock fraud case.

The defendants were indicted for allegedly selling 575,000 shares of unregistered stock of the United Dye and Chemical Corp., now known as Chemoil Industries Inc., in 1955 and 1956, costing the public $5 million.

Walpin said a defendant — oil promoter Samuel S. Garfield of Clare, Mich. — paid the money to Bender. Bender at the time was special assistant to the secretary of the interior in the Eisenhower administration.

"The government will show," Walpin said, "that when the investigation commenced the defendant Garfield paid $100,000 to former Sen. George Bender, then special assistant to the secretary of the interior of the United States government, in order to get this investigation quashed."

Defense lawyer jumped up to accuse Walpin of "a false and inflammatory reflection upon a man he knows is now dead."

Arguing that bribery was not an issue in the case, the lawyers called Walpin's statement "a deliberate attempt to prejudice the jury."

Mistrial Move Overruled

Judge William B. Herlands overruled defense motions for a mistrial. He noted that Walpin's statement was not evidence but merely an outline of what the government hopes to prove.

Bender, who had served several terms as a congressman from Ohio, was in the Senate from 1954 to 1956. He died last June 17 at the age of 64.

Walpin said two other defendants shared responsibility for the bribe attempt. He named them as Virgil D. Dardi of New York, president of Chemoil, and oil investor Irving Pasternak of Denver.

As outlined by the government, the case against the defendants involves intricate stock manipulations and the alleged misleading of the public on earnings and prospects of United Dye and Chemical.

If convicted, each of the defendants could face a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $10,000 in fines.

Glusker that the report of the Board of Engineers will be transmitted to the Chief of Engineers for the preparation of his report. These reports will then be transmitted to Governor Rockefeller and to the interested Federal agencies for their comments in accordance with existing law.

After receipt of these comments, for which a period of 90 days is allowed by law, Buckley stated, the Chief of Engineers will prepare his final report and submit it together with the letters of comment, to the Bureau of the Budget for determination of the relationship of the project to the program of the President.

Bureau Will Review

Chairman Buckley stated that after review by the Bureau of the Budget the report will be returned to the Chief of Engineers with the comments of the Bureau of the Budget and finally transmitted to the Congress where it will be referred to the Committee on Public Works of the House, of which Buckley is chairman, and the companion committee in the Senate.

"A project such as this," Chairman Buckley said, "is normally included in an omnibus river and harbor and flood control bill which is passed every several years. Such a bill will be up for consideration by the committee this session."

First Negro on Staff

ATLANTA (AP) — Dr. Asa G. Yancey, 45, is the first Negro doctor to be named to Grady Hospital's visiting staff.

Yancey, a graduate of the University of Michigan, was approved by the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority which operates the charity hospital.

Nine Stations Are

this monitoring task. Four training sessions were conducted during April and May of 1961 by Morris Nussbaum, John Schermerhorn, and Herbert Stork to qualify 14 American Legion Posts in Ulster County for receipt of radiological instruments.

Four American Legion Posts have qualified for instruments which are being temporarily stored in the Civil Defense office in the City Hall. These posts should contact the Civil Defense office to arrange for pickup of their equipment.

Firemen Taking Courses

Currently many of the county volunteer fire companies are in training to qualify for fixed station monitoring. Courses have been offered in Kingston and Highland. The following schedule will complete the training program:

Saugerties Elementary School —March 6 and 8.

New Paltz Central High—March 12 and 14.

Onteora High School—March 20 and 22.

Kerhonkson Elementary School —March 27 and 29.

Marbletown Elementary School —April 9 and 11.

All sessions are from 7 to 10 p. m.

Firemen should attend the course in their areas. American Legion personnel are invited to these courses to serve as a refresher for their monitoring responsibilities.

It is expected by late Spring 1962 to establish a total of 53 stations with at least two in each township. Such preparation will ensure the protection, survival and recovery from nuclear attack, or better still, on a nation scale, may be a strong deterrent against enemy attack.

Powers Tells

endless hours of questioning, trial and sentence he always remembered that "I am an American."

At another point he cried loudly, "Oh, no" when he was asked if he were under obligation to kill himself if captured.

Followed Instructions

Even before Powers testified the CIA said in a report the 32-year-old pilot had lived up to his instructions and "his obligations as an American." The report said he would get his back pay, amounting to about $50,000.

Not all the senators on the committee voiced praise of Powers. But Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., told the flier he wanted to commend him as "a courageous, fine young American citizen who lived up to his instructions and did the best you could under very difficult circumstances."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said he was "satisfied to learn you have been fully exonerated."

Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., commented he was satisfied Powers had "conducted himself in an exemplary fashion and in accordance with the highest traditions of the country."

Others commending Powers were Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and J. Glenn Beall, R-Md.

Gives Details

Powers filled in with vivid detail many of the hibhlights of his adventure May 1, 1960.

When he was winging high over the Ural Sea he saw two vapor trails far below him that might come from Soviet jets hunting for him. "I don't think they ever saw me," said Powers.

When he had landed by parachute he saw another parachute in the sky, not a part of his plane's equipment. At the time, he said he speculated it might be a parachute bringing back part of a fired Russian rocket.

The Soviets claim a rocket shot down the U2 Powers apparently was convinced it was a near miss, and no hit.

Powers said, "I feel that the explosion was external to the aircraft and behind me, but I really don't know."

He said his first reaction was to reach for what he called the "destruct switches." These were connected to a 2½-pound charge set to damage the photographic equipment.

While Powers never made it clear if this also would destroy the plane, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said such a charge would have been highly damaging to the plane itself. Goldwater is a reserve Air Force general.

Could Have Lost Legs

Powers said there was a good reason why he couldn't use the pilot ejection mechanism provided in the plane.

"In this particular aircraft," he said, "there isn't much clearance between the pilot's knees and the top of the windshield. If I had used the ejection seat at that time I would probably have lost both legs just above the knees."

Powers said he tried to invent a story that he was off course but the Soviets wouldn't buy it as they had found the poison needle, maps of the Soviet Union, Russian rubles and other equipment.

Not Mistreated

Powers said he was questioned as much as 10 or 12 hours daily for some time. He said he was not mistreated.

Although his orders gave him authority to cooperate and answer most questions, Powers said, he was a reluctant witness under pre-trial interrogation.

Did the Russians misquote him as having said he made a terrible mistake in flying a mission over Soviet soil and was sorry?

"No," he said, "that wasn't a misquotation. I made this statement on the advice of my defense counsel, and also because it was easy to say I was sorry. What I meant by saying that, and what I wanted them to think I meant was quite different.

"My main sorrow was that my mission failed, and I was sorry that I was there and it was causing a lot of adverse publicity to the States."

To Honor Stilwell

PALATKA, Fla. (AP) — An Army Reserve training center will be dedicated today in honor of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, World War II commander of the China, Burma and India Theater.

Stilwell, a 1904 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, was born at Palatka in 1883. Before his death in 1946 he commanded the U.S. 10th Army and the 6th Army.

Assessor in Saugerties

Hommel, a Town of Saugerties assessor for the past five years is a former insurance appraiser and self-employed as a licensed insurance and real estate broker. Prominent in county politics, he served as county GOP dinner chairman for the past four years.

He and his wife, the former Myla B. Lancaster reside in the Mt. Airy section of Saugerties.

Storm Claims

and in Wildwood, N.J., fire destroyed summer dwellings while firemen fought the blaze from rowboats afloat on flooded streets.

At Sea Isle City, N.J., five Roman Catholic nuns were evacuated from their flood-threatened convent by Coast Guard boats.

Hotels in downtown Philadelphia were filled with storm refugees. That city's suburban trolly line system was knocked out at the height of the storm. In metropolitan New York, ferry service was suspended for a time between New Jersey and New York, and Manhattan and Staten Island.

While New York City escaped the full force of the storm, it was lashed by winds of 60 m.p.h. that cloaked skyscrapers in rapidly melting coats of snow and ice. Some low-lying sections were flooded by the surging tides.

LIRR Knocked Out

A South Shore branch of the Long Island Rail Road was knocked out for two hours when high tides flooded the third rail. The flooding Passaic River marooned 494 rush hour commuters aboard a Hudson River tube train for 3½ hours.

The 40-foot yacht Guinevere out of New York was missing in stormy seas off the South Carolina coast with three persons aboard. Off the New Jersey coast, a destroyer in tow with no one aboard broke loose and ran aground.

Crews of two Texas Towers, totaling 132 men, rode out the storm off Provincetown, Mass., and Nantucket. In a 1961 storm, 28 persons died in the collapse of a similar tower off the New Jersey coast. The towers are part of the nation's offshore radar warning system.

City Hall Roof Torn Away

At Providence, R.I., winds tore away part of the copper roof of city hall, leaving big sections of metal flapping in the gusts. Rhode Island got winds of hurricane force, with a peak of 84 m.p.h. at Block Island.

For residents of the storm area's southern fringe, this was a day of digging out of monstrous snow drifts and trying to keep ahead in areas where snow continued to fall.

Virginia's Shenandoah Valley reported its deepest accumulation in history, with up to two feet in Winchester and Harrisonburg. It was still snowing heavily early today in the Richmond, Va., area where 12 inches already was on the ground.

Scores of Virginia highways were blocked by snow drifts and jackknifed trucks, and some motorists were stranded for almost 24 hours. There was a 70-mile traffic jam on heavily traveled U.S. 1 Tuesday.

Central Part Warms Up

There was a general warming trend in the central part of the nation but unseasonable cold weather was reported in most of the Southeast. Light snow fell in sections of North Carolina and temperatures dropped into the 30s in northern Florida and freezing in some Southeast sections.

Coldest spots were in sections of the Dakotas with temperatures ranging from zero to 10 above.

Foggy and cloudy weather prevailed in the Great Lakes region and upper Mississippi Valley. In the West, rains hit most of California and rain mixed with snow slicked highways throughout the Plateau region from eastern Oregon and southern Idaho across Nevada and Utah.

Trustees to Keep NHRR Going to December of '62

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The trustees of the New Haven Railroad have given the bankrupt carrier a brief new lease on life.

They promised Tuesday to continue operations until the end of the year.

They warned, however, that further service would depend entirely on the aid program offered by the four states in which the line operates. If no concrete proposals are presented by the states, the railroad will be forced to close down, they said.

Garment Co.

ert Desmond, responded. Also summoned was the Malden-West Camp Fire Company under the direction of Fire Commissioner Val Carpenter and Centerville-Cedar Grove Fire Company under Chief Robert Thein. Each of the fire companies were directed by their own officers and the over-all coordination of the firefighters was under the direction of Chief Charles J. Cafaldo of the Glasco department.

There was no estimate available as to the extent of the loss. The business was operated by Charles Secreto of Glasco.

Tank Trucks Used

When firemen arrived they found the fire had gained headway in the main portion of the one-story cement block building. When it was impossible to secure water from the hydrant system when the firemen first hooked up, a call for aid was sent out and attempts to control the fire from water hauled in tank trucks was resorted to. The fire spread to the frame portion of the factory, that part formerly the Blackstone Inn.

Commissioner Mauro stated today that a second attempt to connect up to the hydrant system, some 40 to 45 minutes later, was successful and water was then obtained. This is not the first time that hydrant supply has been lacking, Commissioner Mauro said. He recalled that this condition existed some time ago at the time the Anderson home was damaged. He said an investigation would be made as to the cause.

Mauro Praises Firemen

Commissioner Mauro was high in his praise for the assistance given by the departments which responded and he publicly thanked the fire chiefs and men under them for their assistance.

The factory building was approximately 100 by 150 feet and stood not far from several bungalows. Efforts to contain the fire from spreading to other structures was successful, despite the high wind which was blowing at the time. After water became available at approximately 8:15, the fire was quickly brought under control and at 10:15 was "out."

Windup Seen

oppose an independent Algeria which the Moslem majority will control.

Algerian spokesmen have complained that President Charles de Gaulle's government and the French army have not been as energetic as they could be in combating the European terrorists. They charge that many French officers sympathize with the secret army and some officers are actual accomplices.

100-Page Pact

One point still to be settled in the Evian talks is the future role of the French army in checking terrorism and preventing an uprising by the European population of Algeria.

The tentative accord reportedly runs to about 100 pages, to be issued as a joint statement of French and rebel intentions, once the cease-fire has been proclaimed.

Retiring Army Sergeant Trades E Bonds for Stock

Q) "I'm 53 years of age and am on the verge of forced Army retirement at $165 a month. I know that I'll have to supplement this with a part-time job. However, as a sergeant, I've had little chance to learn about business. My assets are $18,000 in E bonds and $17,000 in savings, and I imagine that some of this ought to be invested in some stocks providing me with a better return. I have a one-month-old baby and can't afford to speculate. Please advise. H. C.

A) I'm sorry that you have to take an early retirement. However, your experience in handling men should qualify you for a pretty good job somewhere, and this, plus interest and dividend income, ought to let you maintain your present standard of living.

Since your "E" bonds don't provide you with current income, I suggest that these be turned in and the proceeds put into five high-grade dividend-paying stocks. This move would place about one-half of your assets in stocks, which, under the circumstances, is about as far as you should go.

Specifically, I recommend five issues: General Motors, Liggett & Myers, Duquesne Light, National Biscuit, and Commercial Credit. The average yield from this package is 4 per cent — somewhat more than the deferred interest on your bonds. Furthermore, I believe these stocks have moderate appreciation potentials together with a low risk factor and, over a period of years, should prove excellent holdings.

Q) "I've heard people say that a stock is selling for 15 times earnings or 20 times earnings. Could you tell me how these figures are arrived at?" T. J.

A) Of course. You simply take the market price of a stock and divide by what the company earns on a per-share basis. Sometimes the earnings for the most recently completed year are used. However, since the market looks to the future, a price earnings figure based on expected results for the current year is usually the most accurate guide.

Knew Where...

$1.5 million high school, just completed, will be named for him if, the board said last week, he approves the move.

In high school, he played trombone for four years with the band, and there is a picture of him in the band uniform, looking proud, and a little shy. He was out for the track team all four years, and played on the school's Future Farmers of America basketball team for three years.

Don, his brother Howard, his sisters Beverly and Verna, and Russ and Lloyd Harris made the five-mile trip to school daily in a Model T Ford the Harris boys bought for $26.

During track season, Don sometimes ran the five miles to improve his wind and legs.

It was with the Future Farmers that he raised the prize Oxford sheep, and after winning classes at the Monroe County Fair in Tomah went on to the state fair.

Graduated 16th in his class, he enlisted in the Air Force on his 18th birthday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration biography of his Air Force career takes up most of a page: 56 combat missions over Germany, seven over Japan, time out to win an aeronautical engineering degree at the University of Minnesota, a brief tour as a civilian engineer.

"He quit a good paying job at Boeing," his mother says, "because he was grounded."

He went back into service with the Minnesota Air National Guard and then to a berth as an experimental jet test pilot at Edwards Air Force Base.

While in Germany, Slayton married a civilian secretary, Marjorie Lunney, whose home is in California. They have a 4-year-old son, Kent. In a brief visit home after Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. made the first orbital flight, the Slaytons were busy with plans for building a home near NASA's new headquarters at Houston, Tex.

At home, his parents—now 74 and 67 years old—hear little of the Mercury project. Charles Slayton is town treasurer of Leon.

"We share Don's confidence in this program," his mother says. "We know that God willing, Don's flight will be as successful as Glenn's.

"No parents have a right to interfere with their children's futures. If Don is happy in what he is doing, we are happy.

"And Don would not be happy unless he was flying."

Writer Compares

would have nothing to do with the profession that got him into his jam.

"It's back to the farm with me," the boy from the hills of southwestern Virginia said in effect.

Keeps Composure

But, judging from his testimony Tuesday, it's really back to the hills of northeastern Virginia where the CIA has its headquarters.

Powers never lost his self composure at the Moscow trial. He didn't lose it Tuesday, either. In the Soviet capital he came into the crystal chandelier-lit hall expecting the death sentence. He came into the Senate hearing room, also lit by crystal chandeliers, knowing his oft-criticized course of conduct had been vindicated by an official CIA review.

The crowds, the lights, the cameras, the tables of reporters recalled the Moscow trial.

Not Much Change

Both times he was soft spoken, shyly smiling, and with a nervous habit of twisting his hands together. He hadn't visibly lost weight during almost two years in Red prisons and his curly crew-cropped hair didn't seem any grayer.

Powers is the only Westerner who has been in solitary confinement in Moscow's dread Lubianka prison and lived to come out and tell about it. He didn't tell much—just a calmly told tale of a cell with one bench, bad meals, and interrogations lasting up to 12 hours a day.

Same Principle

At his Soviet trial Powers seemed a man bound by the principle "see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil." It was the same Tuesday.

For the first time he explained publicly what he meant to get across by his courtroom apology for his spy mission. However, he had already told his family in a tearful reunion and they had told the press. This explanation was, "My main sorrow was that the mission failed and I was causing unfavorable publicity for the States."

The handsome young pilot, a smile at the corner of his lips, left the old Senate Office Building with his two sisters as big an enigma as when led away to serve his Soviet jail term in 1960.

Could anyone ask any more of a secret agent — even one who plied the spy trade in the wild blue yonder?

Dead Senator Accused

Charges Bender Took Bribe to Quash Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal prosecutor has charged that the late Sen. George H. Bender, Ohio Republican, accepted a $100,000 bribe to quash a stock fraud investigation.

Made at Trial of 16

The accusation was made Tuesday by Asst. U.S. Atty. Gerald Walpin as he was finishing his opening statement in the trial of 12 men and four corporate defendants in the stock fraud case.

The defendants were indicted for allegedly selling 575,000 shares of unregistered stock of the United Dye and Chemical Corp., now known as Chemoil Industries Inc., in 1955 and 1956, costing the public $5 million.

Walpin said a defendant — oil promoter Samuel S. Garfield of Clare, Mich. — paid the money to Bender. Bender at the time was special assistant to the secretary of the interior in the Eisenhower administration.

"The government will show," Walpin said, "that when the investigation commenced the defendant Garfield paid $100,000 to former Sen. George Bender, then special assistant to the secretary of the interior of the United States government, in order to get this investigation quashed."

Defense lawyer jumped up to accuse Walpin of "a false and inflammatory reflection upon a man he knows is now dead."

Arguing that bribery was not an issue in the case, the lawyers called Walpin's statement "a deliberate attempt to prejudice the jury."

Mistrial Move Overruled

Judge William B. Herlands overruled defense motions for a mistrial. He noted that Walpin's statement was not evidence but merely an outline of what the government hopes to prove.

Bender, who had served several terms as a congressman from Ohio, was in the Senate from 1954 to 1956. He died last June 17 at the age of 64.

Walpin said two other defendants shared responsibility for the bribe attempt. He named them as Virgil D. Dardi of New York, president of Chemoil, and oil investor Irving Pasternak of Denver.

As outlined by the government, the case against the defendants involves intricate stock manipulations and the alleged misleading of the public on earnings and prospects of United Dye and Chemical.

If convicted, each of the defendants could face a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $10,000 in fines.

Ellenville Is

Glusker that the report of the Board of Engineers will be transmitted to the Chief of Engineers for the preparation of his report. These reports will then be transmitted to Governor Rockefeller and to the interested Federal agencies for their comments in accordance with existing law.

After receipt of these comments, for which a period of 90 days is allowed by law, Buckley stated, the Chief of Engineers will prepare his final report and submit it together with the letters of comment, to the Bureau of the Budget for determination of the relationship of the project to the program of the President.

Bureau Will Review

Chairman Buckley stated that after review by the Bureau of the Budget the report will be returned to the Chief of Engineers with the comments of the Bureau of the Budget and finally transmitted to the Congress where it will be referred to the Committee on Public Works of the House, of which Buckley is chairman, and the companion committee in the Senate.

"A project such as this," Chairman Buckley said, "is normally included in an omnibus river and harbor and flood control bill which is passed every several years. Such a bill will be up for consideration by the committee this session."

Nine Stations Are

this monitoring task. Four training sessions were conducted during April and May of 1961 by Morris Nussbaum, John Schermerhorn, and Herbert Stork to qualify 14 American Legion Posts in Ulster County for receipt of radiological instruments.

Four American Legion Posts have qualified for instruments which are being temporarily stored in the Civil Defense office in the City Hall. These posts should contact the Civil Defense office to arrange for pickup of their equipment.

Firemen Taking Courses

Currently many of the county volunteer fire companies are in training to qualify for fixed station monitoring. Courses have been offered in Kingston and Highland. The following schedule will complete the training program:

Saugerties Elementary School —March 6 and 8.

New Paltz Central High—March 12 and 14.

Onteora High School—March 20 and 22.

Kerhonkson Elementary School —March 27 and 29.

Marbletown Elementary School —April 9 and 11.

All sessions are from 7 to 10 p. m.

Firemen should attend the course in their areas. American Legion personnel are invited to these courses to serve as a refresher for their monitoring responsibilities.

It is expected by late Spring 1962 to establish a total of 53 stations with at least two in each township. Such preparation will ensure the protection, survival and recovery from nuclear attack, or better still, on a nation scale, may be a strong deterrent against enemy attack.

Powers Tells

endless hours of questioning, trial and sentence he always remembered that "I am an American."

At another point he cried loudly, "Oh, no" when he was asked if he were under obligation to kill himself if captured.

Followed Instructions

Even before Powers testified the CIA said in a report the 32-year-old pilot had lived up to his instructions and "his obligations as an American." The report said he would get his back pay, amounting to about $50,000.

Not all the senators on the committee voiced praise of Powers. But Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., told the flier he wanted to commend him as "a courageous, fine young American citizen who lived up to his instructions and did the best you could under very difficult circumstances."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said he was "satisfied to learn you have been fully exonerated."

Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., commented he was satisfied Powers had "conducted himself in an exemplary fashion and in accordance with the highest traditions of the country."

Others commending Powers were Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and J. Glenn Beall, R-Md.

Gives Details

Powers filled in with vivid detail many of the hibhlights of his adventure May 1, 1960.

When he was winging high over the Ural Sea he saw two vapor trails far below him that might come from Soviet jets hunting for him. "I don't think they ever saw me," said Powers.

When he had landed by parachute he saw another parachute in the sky, not a part of his plane's equipment. At the time, he said he speculated it might be a parachute bringing back part of a fired Russian rocket.

The Soviets claim a rocket shot down the U2 Powers apparently was convinced it was a near miss, and no hit.

Powers said, "I feel that the explosion was external to the aircraft and behind me, but I really don't know."

He said his first reaction was to reach for what he called the "destruct switches." These were connected to a 2½-pound charge set to damage the photographic equipment.

While Powers never made it clear if this also would destroy the plane, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said such a charge would have been highly damaging to the plane itself. Goldwater is a reserve Air Force general.

Could Have Lost Legs

Powers said there was a good reason why he couldn't use the pilot ejection mechanism provided in the plane.

"In this particular aircraft," he said, "there isn't much clearance between the pilot's knees and the top of the windshield. If I had used the ejection seat at that time I would probably have lost both legs just above the knees."

Powers said he tried to invent a story that he was off course but the Soviets wouldn't buy it as they had found the poison needle, maps of the Soviet Union, Russian rubles and other equipment.

Not Mistreated

Powers said he was questioned as much as 10 or 12 hours daily for some time. He said he was not mistreated.

Although his orders gave him authority to cooperate and answer most questions, Powers said, he was a reluctant witness under pre-trial interrogation.

Did the Russians misquote him as having said he made a terrible mistake in flying a mission over Soviet soil and was sorry?

"No," he said, "that wasn't a misquotation. I made this statement on the advice of my defense counsel, and also because it was easy to say I was sorry. What I meant by saying that, and what I wanted them to think I meant was quite different.

"My main sorrow was that my mission failed, and I was sorry that I was there and it was causing a lot of adverse publicity to the States."

At Sea Isle City, N.J., five Roman Catholic nuns were evacuated from their flood-threatened convent by Coast Guard boats.

Hotels in downtown Philadelphia were filled with storm refugees. That city's suburban trolly line system was knocked out at the height of the storm. In metropolitan New York, ferry service was suspended for a time between New Jersey and New York, and Manhattan and Staten Island.

While New York City escaped the full force of the storm, it was lashed by winds of 60 m.p.h. that cloaked skyscrapers in rapidly melting coats of snow and ice. Some low-lying sections were flooded by the surging tides.

LIRR Knocked Out

A South Shore branch of the Long Island Rail Road was knocked out for two hours when high tides flooded the third rail. The flooding Passaic River marooned 494 rush hour commuters aboard a Hudson River tube train for 3½ hours.

The 40-foot yacht Guinevere out of New York was missing in stormy seas off the South Carolina coast with three persons aboard. Off the New Jersey coast, a destroyer in tow with no one aboard broke loose and ran aground.

Crews of two Texas Towers, totaling 132 men, rode out the storm off Provincetown, Mass., and Nantucket. In a 1961 storm, 28 persons died in the collapse of a similar tower off the New Jersey coast. The towers are part of the nation's offshore radar warning system.

City Hall Roof Torn Away

At Providence, R.I., winds tore away part of the copper roof of city hall, leaving big sections of metal flapping in the gusts. Rhode Island got winds of hurricane force, with a peak of 84 m.p.h. at Block Island.

For residents of the storm area's southern fringe, this was a day of digging out of monstrous snow drifts and trying to keep ahead in areas where snow continued to fall.

Virginia's Shenandoah Valley reported its deepest accumulation in history, with up to two feet in Winchester and Harrisonburg. It was still snowing heavily early today in the Richmond, Va., area where 12 inches already was on the ground.

Scores of Virginia highways were blocked by snow drifts and jackknifed trucks, and some motorists were stranded for almost 24 hours. There was a 70-mile traffic jam on heavily traveled U.S. 1 Tuesday.

Central Part Warms Up

There was a general warming trend in the central part of the nation but unseasonable cold weather was reported in most of the Southeast. Light snow fell in sections of North Carolina and temperatures dropped into the 30s in northern Florida and freezing in some Southeast sections.

Coldest spots were in sections of the Dakotas with temperatures ranging from zero to 10 above.

Foggy and cloudy weather prevailed in the Great Lakes region and upper Mississippi Valley. In the West, rains hit most of California and rain mixed with snow slicked highways throughout the Plateau region from eastern Oregon and southern Idaho across Nevada and Utah.

Trustees to Keep NHRR Going to December of '62

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The trustees of the New Haven Railroad have given the bankrupt carrier a brief new lease on life.

They promised Tuesday to continue operations until the end of the year.

They warned, however, that further service would depend entirely on the aid program offered by the four states in which the line operates. If no concrete proposals are presented by the states, the railroad will be forced to close down, they said.

Garment Co.

ert Desmond, responded. Also summoned was the Malden-West Camp Fire Company under the direction of Fire Commissioner Val Carpenter and Centerville-Cedar Grove Fire Company under Chief Robert Thein. Each of the fire companies were directed by their own officers and the over-all coordination of the firefighters was under the direction of Chief Charles J. Cafaldo of the Glasco department.

There was no estimate available as to the extent of the loss. The business was operated by Charles Secreto of Glasco.

Tank Trucks Used

When firemen arrived they found the fire had gained headway in the main portion of the one-story cement block building. When it was impossible to secure water from the hydrant system when the firemen first hooked up, a call for aid was sent out and attempts to control the fire from water hauled in tank trucks was resorted to. The fire spread to the frame portion of the factory, that part formerly the Blackstone Inn.

Commissioner Mauro stated today that a second attempt to connect up to the hydrant system, some 40 to 45 minutes later, was successful and water was then obtained. This is not the first time that hydrant supply has been lacking, Commissioner Mauro said. He recalled that this condition existed some time ago at the time the Anderson home was damaged. He said an investigation would be made as to the cause.

Mauro Praises Firemen

Commissioner Mauro was high in his praise for the assistance given by the departments which responded and he publicly thanked the fire chiefs and men under them for their assistance.

The factory building was approximately 100 by 150 feet and stood not far from several bungalows. Efforts to contain the fire from spreading to other structures was successful, despite the high wind which was blowing at the time. After water became available at approximately 8:15, the fire was quickly brought under control and at 10:15 was "out."

oppose an independent Algeria which the Moslem majority will control.

Algerian spokesmen have complained that President Charles de Gaulle's government and the French army have not been as energetic as they could be in combating the European terrorists. They charge that many French officers sympathize with the secret army and some officers are actual accomplices.

100-Page Pact

One point still to be settled in the Evian talks is the future role of the French army in checking terrorism and preventing an uprising by the European population of Algeria.

The tentative accord reportedly runs to about 100 pages, to be issued as a joint statement of French and rebel intentions, once the cease-fire has been proclaimed.

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I'm 53 years of age and am on the verge of forced Army retirement at $165 a month. I know that I'll have to supplement this with a part-time job. However, as a sergeant, I've had little chance to learn about business. My assets are $18,000 in E bonds and $17,000 in savings, and I imagine that some of this ought to be invested in some stocks providing me with a better return. I have a one-month-old baby and can't afford to speculate. Please advise. H. C.

A) I'm sorry that you have to take an early retirement. However, your experience in handling men should qualify you for a pretty good job somewhere, and this, plus interest and dividend income, ought to let you maintain your present standard of living.

Since your "E" bonds don't provide you with current income, I suggest that these be turned in and the proceeds put into five high-grade dividend-paying stocks. This move would place about one-half of your assets in stocks, which, under the circumstances, is about as far as you should go.

Specifically, I recommend five issues: General Motors, Liggett & Myers, Duquesne Light, National Biscuit, and Commercial Credit. The average yield from this package is 4 per cent — somewhat more than the deferred interest on your bonds. Furthermore, I believe these stocks have moderate appreciation potentials together with a low risk factor and, over a period of years, should prove excellent holdings.

Q) "I've heard people say that a stock is selling for 15 times earnings or 20 times earnings. Could you tell me how these figures are arrived at?" T. J.

A) Of course. You simply take the market price of a stock and divide by what the company earns on a per-share basis. Sometimes the earnings for the most recently completed year are used. However, since the market looks to the future, a price earnings figure based on expected results for the current year is usually the most accurate guide.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Knew Where...

$1.5 million high school, just completed, will be named for him if, the board said last week, he approves the move.

In high school, he played trombone for four years with the band, and there is a picture of him in the band uniform, looking proud, and a little shy. He was out for the track team all four years, and played on the school's Future Farmers of America basketball team for three years.

Don, his brother Howard, his sisters Beverly and Verna, and Russ and Lloyd Harris made the five-mile trip to school daily in a Model T Ford the Harris boys bought for $26.

During track season, Don sometimes ran the five miles to improve his wind and legs.

It was with the Future Farmers that he raised the prize Oxford sheep, and after winning classes at the Monroe County Fair in Tomah went on to the state fair.

Graduated 16th in his class, he enlisted in the Air Force on his 18th birthday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration biography of his Air Force career takes up most of a page: 56 combat missions over Germany, seven over Japan, time out to win an aeronautical engineering degree at the University of Minnesota, a brief tour as a civilian engineer.

"He quit a good paying job at Boeing," his mother says, "because he was grounded."

He went back into service with the Minnesota Air National Guard and then to a berth as an experimental jet test pilot at Edwards Air Force Base.

While in Germany, Slayton married a civilian secretary, Marjorie Lunney, whose home is in California. They have a 4-year-old son, Kent. In a brief visit home after Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. made the first orbital flight, the Slaytons were busy with plans for building a home near NASA's new headquarters at Houston, Tex.

At home, his parents—now 74 and 67 years old—hear little of the Mercury project. Charles Slayton is town treasurer of Leon.

"We share Don's confidence in this program," his mother says. "We know that God willing, Don's flight will be as successful as Glenn's.

"No parents have a right to interfere with their children's futures. If Don is happy in what he is doing, we are happy.

"And Don would not be happy unless he was flying."

would have nothing to do with the profession that got him into his jam.

"It's back to the farm with me," the boy from the hills of southwestern Virginia said in effect.

Keeps Composure

But, judging from his testimony Tuesday, it's really back to the hills of northeastern Virginia where the CIA has its headquarters.

Powers never lost his self composure at the Moscow trial. He didn't lose it Tuesday, either. In the Soviet capital he came into the crystal chandelier-lit hall expecting the death sentence. He came into the Senate hearing room, also lit by crystal chandeliers, knowing his oft-criticized course of conduct had been vindicated by an official CIA review.

The crowds, the lights, the cameras, the tables of reporters recalled the Moscow trial.

Not Much Change

Both times he was soft spoken, shyly smiling, and with a nervous habit of twisting his hands together. He hadn't visibly lost weight during almost two years in Red prisons and his curly crew-cropped hair didn't seem any grayer.

Powers is the only Westerner who has been in solitary confinement in Moscow's dread Lubianka prison and lived to come out and tell about it. He didn't tell much—just a calmly told tale of a cell with one bench, bad meals, and interrogations lasting up to 12 hours a day.

Same Principle

At his Soviet trial Powers seemed a man bound by the principle "see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil." It was the same Tuesday.

For the first time he explained publicly what he meant to get across by his courtroom apology for his spy mission. However, he had already told his family in a tearful reunion and they had told the press. This explanation was, "My main sorrow was that the mission failed and I was causing unfavorable publicity for the States."

The handsome young pilot, a smile at the corner of his lips, left the old Senate Office Building with his two sisters as big an enigma as when led away to serve his Soviet jail term in 1960.

Could anyone ask any more of a secret agent — even one who plied the spy trade in the wild blue yonder?

Some hints for resetting your alarm clock, the question of whether an insect thinks, and sparks from the surface of the moon are subjects for Science at Work.

Six Long Enough for Some To Sleep, Too Long

Most folks can get along on only six hours sleep a night—and the same goes for spacemen, an Air Force study claims.

The study also finds some other interesting points about sleep.

It's hard fo anyone to perform critical jobs well when they have been working on a 24-hour-awake schedule.

When you do sleep, sleep for at least two hours. And then, for best results, don't perform monotonous jobs continually for longer than two hour periods.

Under conditions of stress, schedules should not be more severe than two hours on and two hours off.

Thinking Insects?

Ever wonder what a mosquito thinks as it sinks its feeding proboscis into your arm, and you raise your hand to retaliate?

Well, it's unlikely that insects have any individual consciousness, as we understand it, says Dr. R. E. Snodgrass of the Smithsonian Institution. 'They are apparently governed by some sort of incomprehensible and unconscious instinct—not like human or animal instinct either.

The queen or mother apparently governs insect societies through some sort of transmitted instincts, which do not leave the subjects of the colony individual freedom, Dr. Snodgrass suggests.

Science has yet to define what this insect instinct is, and how it operates, but many feel that it must exist. It is hard to imagine insects as mere machines when you scan their varied activities, Dr. Snodgrass adds. It would be like imagining automobiles driving themselves on crowded streets without ever colliding.

Moon Sparks

For 10 days each month, while the earth's shadow shields the moon from the brilliance of the sun, a telescope with an electronic eye is watching the moon for meteorite collisions.

The electronic eye—without the human frailty of becoming bored and unwatchful at a monotonous job—is expected by scientists at Martin Marietta Corp. to pick out meteor flashes or "flares" as the fragments of space matter strike the moon at some 54,000 miles an hour.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

NEW YORK (AP)—It is of but passing interest to television viewers when Perry Como wants to lighten his working schedule, when ABC debates whether to cancel a series like "Maverick," when CBS is moving its programs around its blueprint of next season's schedule like chessmen in a giant game.

But when you're a performer in a television series, you're going through the end-of-winter anxious days as next year's plans are being made. The decisions vitally affect many careers and bread-and-butter sources.

Comedian Paul Lynde, a popular member of the Perry Como Show cast for the past season, is —like so many others—in a typica' March situation. Como's next-season plans are still up in the air. Lynde is co-star of a projected comedy series which is under consideration for a possible network spot. He can't make any real decisions about his life.

"Television has been very good to me," Lynde said. "The exposure has been great. But it scares me to realize how fickle those audiences can be. I've seen what happened to comedians—Red Buttons, George Gobel, Martha Raye. One season they're right on top, and the next—nothing. What happened?"

Lynde, whose own specialty is comedy character roles, believes the secret f longevity is to "move along almost blandly—not demanding too much attention, not making too much of an impression."

He'd love to work in his own series. He enjoys working on the Como Show. What he'd really like is to know what he'll be doing next fall—it's the uncertainty that is so hard to take.

NBC picked up the highest rating of the season for its "White Paper" series with its recent report on Red China.

ABC's "The Untouchables" and Robert Stack have been renewed for another season.

Recommended tonight: "Checkmate," CBS, 8:30-9:30 (EST)—Mary Astor guest-stars; Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10—Joe E. Ross and Fred Gwynne of "Car 54, Where Are You?" are the guests.

4 Ulster Holsteins Complete High Production Marks

Four Ulster County Holstein cows are included in a list of area cows which have completed outstanding official production records, the Holstein-Friesian Association of America announces.

Included in the list is Jaway Alice Ann J, a two-year-old owned by Franklin S. Kelder, Jaway Farm, Accord, with a production record of 15,030 pounds of milk and 515 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

Three cows are on the Ridgely Farms, Stone Ridge, list. They are Ridgely M. Proud Queen, a nine year old, produced 23,674 pounds of milk and 869 pounds of butterfat in 321 days. Bennland Klaude Holly, a 11 year old, with 20,697 pounds of milk and 807 pounds of butterfat in 365 days and Ridgely Monogram Hope, a three year old, with 18,327 pounds of milk and 720 pounds of butterfat in 365 days.

In contrast the annual production of the average United States dairy cow is generally estimated at approximately 7,000 pounds of milk containing 265 pounds of butterfat.

Others on List

Other area Holsteins in the list are:

Ellbank Ormsby Topsy Bubbles, a three-year-old producing 14,753 pounds of milk and 629 pounds of butterfat in 345 days; Ellbank Ormsby Bess Eunice, a five-year-old with 16,176 pounds of milk and 621 pounds of butterfat in 363 days, both owned by Estate of Roy W. Wright, Pleasant Valley.

Sue Lady Imperial Dean, a nine-year old producing 13,498 pounds of milk and 500 pounds of butterfat in 365 days, owned by Mrs. Joseph Kumstar, Walden.

Weed Farms Piebe Bernice, a six-year old, produced 21,897 pounds of milk and 815 pounds of butterfat in 365 days. Sensation Highline Reo Fan, a four-year old, produced 17,815 pounds of milk and 682 pounds of butterfat in 330 days. Both owned by Wigsten's Highline Farm, Pleasant Valley.

Cornell University supervised the weighing and testing of the new Holstein records as a part of the breed's official herd testing program.

Delayed Bid Aids Opponents

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

East had two correct ways to bid his diamond bust. One would have been to jump to four diamonds at his first turn and force South to decide what to do at the four level.

The other would be to pass steadily and hope for the best.

With either campaign North and South might have reached seven spades or they might have stopped at six or even missed the slam entirely.

Of course, when you look at all the cards you can see that any two fair players should work their way up to seven with those nice North-South cards but my experience has been that any time a partnership holds only 27 points in high cards it is not likely to reach a grand slam.

Instead of adopting either proper campaign, East worked out a bid that helped North and South as much as possible.

He passed the first time because as he pointed out, "All I had was that long diamond suit." This gave South a chance to show his tremendous spade support and North to invite a slam by his quiet four-heart bid.

So far so good, but now East decided to act and he stuck in a five-diamond bid. This would have allowed South to double with a somewhat different hand, but in this case it gave South a real opportunity with his actual holding.

South simply bid six diamonds to show his void. This made it a real cinch for North to go to seven spades.

Delayed Bid Aids Opponents

By OSWALD JACOBY

East had two correct ways to bid his diamond bust. One would have been to jump to four diamonds at his first turn and force South to decide what to do at the four level.

The other would be to pass steadily and hope for the best.

With either campaign North and South might have reached seven spades or they might have stopped at six or even missed the slam entirely.

Of course, when you look at all the cards you can see that any two fair players should work their way up to seven with those nice North-South cards but my experience has been that any time a partnership holds only 27 points in high cards it is not likely to reach a grand slam.

Instead of adopting either proper campaign, East worked out a bid that helped North and South as much as possible.

He passed the first time because as he pointed out, "All I had was that long diamond suit." This gave South a chance to show his tremendous spade support and North to invite a slam by his quiet four-heart bid.

So far so good, but now East decided to act and he stuck in a five-diamond bid. This would have allowed South to double with a somewhat different hand, but in this case it gave South a real opportunity with his actual holding.

South simply bid six diamonds to show his void. This made it a real cinch for North to go to seven spades.

Geneva Director Of Urban Renewal Won't Be Pushed

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP) — "They can't scare me. I don't like to be shoved around. Let 'em arrest me. Let 'em get a court order. I didn't want the job in the first place. Why, it costs me more in time than the $6,000 they pay me."

That was the reply from Geneva urban renewal director and former Republican Mayor W. Erle Rogers Tuesday to a letter from Democratic Mayor Donald J. Eades firing him.

"I am ordering and directing you to remove yourself from the office," Eades said in the letter, "you have no authority to act..."

Rogers, who has held the urban renewal position for a year under a provisional appointment, has insisted that former GOP Mayor Harold Simpson appointed him permanently and that he has Civil Service tenure in the job.

"If their action were legal, there would be no argument," Rogers said. "But they have no right to lay hands on me in a civil action."

Eades, who wants to appoint a Democrat, says the question of whether the post of city urban renewal director comes under Civil Service has never been clarified by the State Civil Service Commission.

Action on the Eades - Rogers hassle has been postponed by the local Civil Service Commission.

Eades said he might have to use physical action, such as a change of the office door lock or bodily removal by policemen, to enforce his ouster of Rogers.

"I'd like to see him try it," the 220-pound Rogers replied.

Renamed by Rocky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today reappointed Frank A. Murray of Ogdensburg to the Ogdensburg Bridge and Port Authority.

Murray's new term expires Jan. 1, 1967.

Rockefeller reappointed Clare C. Rossell of Syracuse to the board of visitors of Syracuse State School for a six-year term.

Neither post carries a salary.

The appointments are subject to approval by the State Senate.

To Expand Refuge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Montezuma Wildlife Refuge in Cayuga and Seneca Counties, N. Y., will be expanded by 27 acres so that a 385-foot pool can be built for management purposes.

Stewart L. Udall, interior secretary, announced the enlargement Tuesday.

It is part of a $105-million emergency waterfowl and land-acquisition program authorized last year by Congress, he said.

ATTENDING CO. M REUNION — These officers of Company M Veterans Association greeted approximately 30 members at the annual dinner Saturday in Worf's Restaurant, Abeel Street, where the infantry reminisced about World War I and the days when they drilled at the armory on Broadway, now the Municipal Auditorium. Seated (l-r) are Harold Sanford, vice commander; Edward Luedtke, commander and James Howard, secretary-treasurer; standing, LeRoy Markle, Frank Sass and Fred Schwenk, members of the dinner committee. Ravena Man Is Carried to Give Plea on Wife

RAVENA, N.Y. (AP)—Albert J. Boughton, a retired railroad worker who has only one leg, was carried into a Justice of the Peace court to plead innocent to a charge of first-degree murder.

Boughton, 79, was charged in the fatal shooting of his 80-year-ld wife Monday night. After the shooting, Boughton attempted to commit suicide by slashing his throat and wrists.

As he was carried before Sylvester Albano, justice of the peace, Tuesday, Boughton said he had "muffed it," apparently referring to the suicide attempt. Boughton's artificial leg had been left behind at the hospital.

He was returned to Albany Medical Center Hospital after his lawyer entered a mandatory plea of innocent to the murder charge.

Boughton, in a note, said he was fearful he no longer could care for his ailing wife, and that they would have to return to a home for the aged.

State Police said he shot his wife with a .32-caliber revolver.

Pentagon Backs Increased Seaway Use for Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has approved recommendations that apparently would increase use of the St. Lawrence Seaway for military shipments overseas.

The recommendation was made by a departmental study group appointed last year to study transporation practices in use for Great Lakes, Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

The report said it appeared Defense Department use of the St. Lawrence Seaway - Great Lakes ports decreased rather than increased during the first full year of seaway operation.

One recommendation was that the Military Sea Transport Service again attempt to negotiate with American flag lines a shipping contract for the Great Lakes-Mediterranean route.

As an alternative, "more reasonable heavy lift charges should be secured and additional commodity rates obtained for military shipments, the group said.

The recommendations have the approval of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Senate Considers Trade Center and Helping Railroad

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A half-million-dollar plan for construction of a World Trade Center in Manhattan and rehabilitation of the bankrupt Hudson & Manhattan Railroad was on the Senate agenda today for final legislative approval.

The measure than will go to Gov. Rockefeller for his signature, which will allow the Port of New York Authority to begin implementing the massive, bi-state program.

New Jersey has approved the plan.

The Port Authority will purchase and rehabilitate the commuter railroad between Northern New Jersey and Manhattan and tie it into other commuter lines in that state.

The authority also will build and operate the World Trade Center on the west side of Manhattan, the side nearest New Jersey. The center will be constructed on a site that now includes the Hudson & Manhattan terminal.

The Assembly approved the plan Tuesday by a vote of 102-25. Most of the dissenters were Democrats who protested that 2,000 owners of small businesses would be displaced by the trade center construction.

The trade center will house, in addition to the railroad terminal, offices of private concerns dealing in international trade.

The Port Authority will sell bonds to finance the construction. The bonds will be redeemed with income from the Trade Center. The authority expects to subsidize at least part of the cost of operating the commuter railroad.

BRIDEGROOM'S MOTHER HAS ANOTHER NAME

Q: I became a widow many years ago and have since married. My son, by my first marriage, is going to be married shortly. He of course bears his father's name. Many of the people on my wedding list are friends that I have made since my remarriage and are not familiar with my former name. I'm very much afraid that they will be completely confused when they receive the invitations and will fail to recognize John Smith as my son. Would it be proper, under the circumstances, to have "son of Mrs. Henry Green" engraved underneath his name on the invitations

A: Correctly, the bridegroom's parents' names do not appear on the invitations, but under the circumstances you describe it would be permissible to ask the bride's parents if they will include "son of Mrs. Henry Green" underneath your son's name on the wedding invitations.

Q: I am planning to have some cards printed. These will be used chiefly for business purposes. In my work I am known as Helen Jones but some people know me by my husband's name. I also feel that some may use the card for replying to me and so should know my full name. Would it be permissible to have the cards printed:

Helen Jones
(Mrs. Robert Jones)

A: For business purposes you may have the cards printed as you suggest but you must not use them as visiting cards, upon which your only correct name is Mrs. Robert Jones.

Burlesque Is Back 'Broad and Sassy' In Gotham Play

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Burlesque crept back into the big town Tuesday night under a wispy veil of nostalgia, and the boys in the bald-headed row cried "more, more."

In the tutti-frutti cultural confines of Off-Broadway, where once only way-out dramas of social significance dared to tread, "this was burlesque" played it broad and sassy for an enthusiastic opening night audience at the downtown Casino East Theater. Most of the devotees hadn't seen a bona fide skin show since the late Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia lowered the boom on burlesque back in the '30s.

Their faith in the flesh formula of theatricals was rewarded with a bumping, grinding performance that left little to the imagination and a script that demanded even less of the intellect.

Viewed as old-fashioned, knee-slapping burlesque, which is what Ann Corio and a cast of over 40 (some younger) struggled to make it, the show was an eye-popping success particularly when stripper Dolores Du Vaughan strode on stage.

BRIDEGROOM'S MOTHER HAS ANOTHER NAME

Q: I became a widow many years ago and have since married. My son, by my first marriage, is going to be married shortly. He of course bears his father's name. Many of the people on my wedding list are friends that I have made since my remarriage and are not familiar with my former name. I'm very much afraid that they will be completely confused when they receive the invitations and will fail to recognize John Smith as my son. Would it be proper, under the circumstances, to have "son of Mrs. Henry Green" engraved underneath his name on the invitations

A: Correctly, the bridegroom's parents' names do not appear on the invitations, but under the circumstances you describe it would be permissible to ask the bride's parents if they will include "son of Mrs. Henry Green" underneath your son's name on the wedding invitations.

Q: I am planning to have some cards printed. These will be used chiefly for business purposes. In my work I am known as Helen Jones but some people know me by my husband's name. I also feel that some may use the card for replying to me and so should know my full name. Would it be permissible to have the cards printed:

Helen Jones
(Mrs. Robert Jones)

A: For business purposes you may have the cards printed as you suggest but you must not use them as visiting cards, upon which your only correct name is Mrs. Robert Jones.

Q: My son who is named for his paternal uncle and bears the name John Henry Brown, 2nd, just had a son and gave him this same name. Is he correctly John Henry Brown, 3rd or Junior?

A: He is correctly John Henry Brown, 3rd. When uncle dies, your son drop the 2nd and becomes John Henry Brown and his son will be Jr.

Junior League Hears Urban Renewal Plans And Elects Officers at Monthly Meeting

Mayor John J. Schwenk welcomed the Junior League of Kingston at its regular monthly meeting held Monday, in the Common Council Room.

Ward Tongue, urban renewal director of the City of Kingston spoke briefly on the plans for revitalizing certain areas in the city. The urban renewal program would benefit not only the neighborhoods where rebuilding would take place but the city as a whole and the surrounding area, he said. The urban renewal director would work with the city planners, Raymond & May, as well as with a volunteer executive committee consisting of leading businessmen and citizens to plan and execute the entire program.

Mr. Tongue first outlined the plans which are still in the formative stage for downtown east and said that two similar projects would also be carried out in two other sections of downtown. A plan to relieve the congestion in the uptown area is also being studied by Raymond & May. One very important need is additional parking space plus more modern and adequate commercial buildings, Mr. Tongue said.

A look at the financial picture shows that the city of Kingston would pay one-eighth, the state one-eighth and the federal government six-eighths of the total cost. However, it was pointed out that the city will receive credits for city improvements such as the new school in the Hasbrouck Park area, the Rondout Creek bridge and the new bridge at the Washington Avenue viaduct. All of these structures will give the city substantial financial credit toward their one-eighth obligation.

Mrs. Robert A. MacKinnon, president, presided at the regular business meeting which followed and announced that Mrs. Ronald G. Drowns and Mrs. Michael J. Larkin would represent the Junior League of Kingston at the annual Association of Junior Leagues of America Conference to be held in Frenchlick, Ind., in May.

Disturbing Drama Is Critic's Word On 'Black Monday'

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—School integration in the South is the cause of surging, noisy dramatics in "Black Monday," a play by Reginald Rose, an irate author.

Rose, who recently explained that a man writes best when aroused, has developed the three-acter which arrived Tuesday night at the VanDam Theater, from a briefer version which attracted considerable TV attention about a year ago.

A community is dissected in "Black Monday" on the morning that the white high school is being opened to Negro pupils. What happens in different parts of town at the same hour is the material of the separate episodes.

Nancy Coleman, as a displaced Northerner striving to understand and accept the attitudes of her neighbors, is sure and touching. Director William Hunt, who also produces, has staged the play with vehement drive.

"Black Monday" is polemic theater, crudely emphatic and disturbing.

The winter series of the Pre-Cana Conference were reported to have been very successful by the Rev. John Curry of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale. The conferences are sponsored by the Family Life Bureau of the Archdiocese of New York and in Ulster County are under the direction of Father Curry.

The conferences are aimed at educating engaged couples to the nature and responsibilities of marriage. There are four sets of Pre-Cana Conferences during the year, each set consisting of three informal classes on marriage. One class is given by a priest, one by two doctors and one by a panel of married couples.

Junior League Hears Urban Renewal Plans And Elects Officers at Monthly Meeting

Mayor John J. Schwenk welcomed the Junior League of Kingston at its regular monthly meeting held Monday, in the Common Council Room.

Ward Tongue, urban renewal director of the City of Kingston spoke briefly on the plans for revitalizing certain areas in the city. The urban renewal program would benefit not only the neighborhoods where rebuilding would take place but the city as a whole and the surrounding area, he said. The urban renewal director would work with the city planners, Raymond & May, as well as with a volunteer executive committee consisting of leading businessmen and citizens to plan and execute the entire program.

Mr. Tongue first outlined the plans which are still in the formative stage for downtown east and said that two similar projects would also be carried out in two other sections of downtown. A plan to relieve the congestion in the uptown area is also being studied by Raymond & May. One very important need is additional parking space plus more modern and adequate commercial buildings, Mr. Tongue said.

A look at the financial picture shows that the city of Kingston would pay one-eighth, the state one-eighth and the federal government six-eighths of the total cost. However, it was pointed out that the city will receive credits for city improvements such as the new school in the Hasbrouck Park area, the Rondout Creek bridge and the new bridge at the Washington Avenue viaduct. All of these structures will give the city substantial financial credit toward their one-eighth obligation.

Mrs. Robert A. MacKinnon, president, presided at the regular business meeting which followed and announced that Mrs. Ronald G. Drowns and Mrs. Michael J. Larkin would represent the Junior League of Kingston at the annual Association of Junior Leagues of America Conference to be held in Frenchlick, Ind., in May.

Dinah Is Brief In Divorce Move

LOS ANGELES (AP) Dinah Shore says she wants a divorce. That's about all she does say.

Her suit for divorce from actor George Montgomery was filed Tuesday. Her complaint was brief.

Settlement Reached

So was her press agent's announcement: "Miss Shore has filed for divorce. A property settlement has been reached, and an agreement has been made concerning custody of the children."

The brief complaint charged Montgomery with mental cruelty, but gave no details.

It requested that the children—Melissa Ann, 14, and John David, 7—be placed in Miss Shore's custody, with Montgomery granted visitation rights.

Miss Shore's attorney said, "The couple has agreed to keep all the details private." Newsmen couldn't locate Montgomery. Miss Shore was out of town.

The dearth of details from the principals didn't crimp speculation. Sample tidbits:

1. The property settlement will probably run into the millions. Miss Shore, 44, makes about $10,000 a week. Montgomery, 45, has been grinding out lucrative adventure films and has his own furniture factory. Their home near Beverly Hills is a half-million-dollar showplace.

Linked With Starlets

2. If the suit is as dull as the complaint, Superior Court will be missing a spectacular show. The fan magazines have splashed stories linking Montgomery with starlets half his age. He and Miss Shore have denied any romances.

A quiet suit is planned. It will be in a downtown court in about a month, and predictions are that Miss Shore will explain the end to 18 years' marriage this way: career conflicts kept them apart. Beyond that—no comment.

Jaycees Suggest More Members on Supervisor Board

A resolution calling for reapportionment of representation on the Ulster Board of Supervisors was unanimously adopted at a regular meeting of the Saugerties Jaycees. A report was presented by John B. Amrod, chairman of the reapportionment committee, outlining the present problems of representation and possible legislative solutions.

Under the present system, each town in the county has one representative on the Board regardless of the town's population. The City of Kingston has 13 representatives, one for each ward. The Jaycees contended that the present system is particularly prejudicial to the Town of Saugerties, the largest town in Ulster County.

The Jaycees are enlisting support of public officials and service organizations to cooperate in a plan to correct, what the group calls, inequities under the present apportionment.

A copy of the resolution has been sent to Governor Rockefeller, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and State Senator Ogden E. Bush, and other officials and organizations. Meanwhile, the Jaycee committee on reapportionment will continue its study of possible solutions to the problem.

The resolution urges that the present system of apportionment of representation on the Board of Supervisors be replaced by a democratic system of representation based on the population of the respective towns and the City of Kingston.

Dinah Is Brief In Divorce Move

LOS ANGELES (AP) Dinah Shore says she wants a divorce. That's about all she does say.

Her suit for divorce from actor George Montgomery was filed Tuesday. Her complaint was brief.

ComputerPredicts Family Needs

CHICAGO, Ill. — "Tron-A-Cast," a computer technique to predict the monthly income a family will need from life insurance and other assets, is being introduced by the Swanson Agency in Chicago.

"Tron-A-Cast" predicts the exact total amounts the family will need for such things as food, housing, education and entertainment. It also reveals how much is needed to retire in comfort and how far savings and investments will go in providing for the family.

Basic data about the family is fed into a computer by The Service Bureau Corporation, a subsidiary of IBM. The computer analyzes the information based on facts about thousands of human lives in every social and financial level.

"The result is an impartial prediction which takes into consideration the objectives and financial position of the individual family," says Robert H. Swanson, head of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. general agency.

Information for "Tron-A-Cast" is taken from a confidential form containing such data as the client's age, annual income, number and age of children, wife's age and current savings and investments.

The IBM 1401 computer technique was designed by The Service Bureau Corporation, which processes the data on a contractural basis.

"'Tron-A-Cast' is going to give the career life insurance agent more time to serve the needs of his clients," said Swanson. "In one minute the computer does the same work it would take an agent several hours to do. With this substantial saving in time the agent can be more creative in his approach to estate planning."

'Dialog' for Unity

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A group of Lutheran theologians here has launched a new journal of theology called "Dialog." Independent of any official denominational connection, the new publication says in its first issue it hopes to "help in the healing process leading toward the ultimate reunion of churches.

"'Dialog' is conscious not only of the cleavage in life between the church and the world, but also of the fractured body of Christ," the introductory statement says. "It regards the present denominational fragmentation of the church catholic as a malignant condition within the body of Christ."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The realized net income of the average New York farm last year was $3,325, or $2 above the national average.

The Agriculture Department reported Tuesday that the realized net income — the difference between gross income and farm spending—rose 11 per cent in the state and 12 per cent in the nation.

The net income figure includes government payments, which totaled $19,793,000 in New York last year, but does not include inventory changes.

The department said increased receipts from milk, cattle and calves in New York offset decreases in eggs, potatoes, and products of greenhouses and nurseries.

Total receipts rose slightly, the department said, but expenses also were higher for feed, livestock, fertilizer, taxes, interest, repairs and operation.

Expenses were lower for seed, hired labor and depreciation, the department said.

Cash receipts from farming — which include payments for farm products and government subsidies—totaled $890,198,000 in New York last year, compared with $867,350,000 in 1960.

Of the 1961 total, $620,893,000 came from livestock and livestock products and $249,512,000 from crops.

Both showed increases over 1960, when $608,698,000 was received from livestock and livestock-product sales and $245,999,000 from crops.

Powers' Case Gives Spying That Madison Avenue Look

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis Gary Powers' case takes romance out of spying — like knocking the air out of a parachute that hit ground — and gives it a big business look.

It's big business for the CIA, America's super-spy organization, which spends perhaps $1 billion a year although the exact amount is hidden from all but a few people in government.

Good Business for Pilot

And it was good business for the short, trim, 32-year-old Powers himself who was paid $30,000 a year by the CIA for becoming a specialist in flying U2 spy planes after quitting the Air Force.

He sounded far more like a technician than an espionage agent Tuesday in his first public appearance since he was brought down in his U2 plane over Russia in 1960.

Before the Senate's Armed Services Committee, in a jam-packed room, he talked matter-of-factly and without drama about his Moscow trial and how he got loose from a plane disintegrating 12 miles high over Russia.

Even the report the CIA issued, clearing Powers of any failure to carry out his job, sounded like a letter to the stockholders from a bank board after checking on one of its cashiers.

It said he had followed instructions and lived up to his contract and therefore was entitled to the money due him. It has been estimated he'll get $50,000 in salary which piled up for him while he was in a Soviet prison.

On May 1, 1960, Powers' plane spun out of control and fell apart —he couldn't say exactly why— 1,200 miles inside Sovietland.

The Russians quizzed him for weeks, tried him, sentenced him to 10 years and, after he had been jailed 21 months, exchanged him for Col. Rudolf Abel, a Soviet spy caught here and sentenced to 30 years.

From the moment of his release until he appeared before the committee, the CIA had kept Powers out of circulation and examined him on every detail of his disaster.

The committee hearing might have been colorful and exciting except for this:

1. The CIA made the hearing as unnecessary as two tails on a horse by releasing its clean-bill-of-health for Powers two hours before the hearing started. That left the senators with little to ask.

Powers Relaxed Type

2. Powers himself, a relaxed kind of man, is neither exciting nor excitable. From the way he talked he didn't even seem excited when his plane was falling to pieces.

Ever since his plane went down questions have been raised about his performance in the plane and at his trial. Some of the people who seemed to take a dim view of him probably expected more of him than they might be willing to do under similar circumstances.

Some of the questions: Why didn't he kill himself with the poison needle he had? Why didn't he blow up the plane to keep the Russians from getting it? Why did he admit his spying so frankly at his trial.

The CIA answered them. He was not under instructions to destroy either himself or his plane. He was instructed, if captured, to talk frankly to the Russians except for certain specifications about the plane.

As for the poison needle, that was for him to decide on if he was tortured. If the pain became too much, he could use it or not use. He was instructed to suit himself.

Trailway Scores 71-67 Win; Doran's, Hub Also on Top

ADVANCE LOOK—This is a first glimpse of the 73-foot yacht that will represent Australia in the America's Cup Race next fall. As yet unnamed, the challenger from Down Under cost a syndicate $675,000 and is conceded a good chance of taking the coveted trophy from the U. S. for the first time in more than 100 years in the five race series to be held off the east coast of the United States.

Trailway Cafeteria nipped Byrne Chevrolet, 71-67, last night in the feature game of a YMCA league tripleheader at the Broadway gym.

In other action, Doran's squeezed by Van's Esso, 47-45, and Hub Delicatessen walloped Jim's Atlantic, 58-42.

Joe Uhl, Al Brown, Marty Kaye and Gary Barnes were in double figures for the Trailway five. It was a well balanced attack. Walt Harder and Bruce Wiederspiel led the losers, who led at halftime but fell behind in the third period.

Doran's and Van's put on a real close one with each side taking turns moving ahead. The winners put it away in the final moments. Walt Colclough led with 15 points while Don Lenahan's 19 topped Van's Esso.

Leading by only three points starting the final period, the Hub outscored Jim's Atlantic, 22-9, to seal the decision. Big Don Komosa led with 22 points while Joe Tremper swished 19 for the losers.

The games marked the opening of the second half of the league. There are two divisions this time around.

Fred Lewis Signed; New Head Basketball Coach at Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fred Lewis, 41, steps into a basketball hotspot—as coach of the Syracuse University team, charged with returning the Orange "to its rightful place in major college basketball."

The Syracuse team ended its season this week with two straight victories. But it had lost 27 in a row before that, setting an NCAA major college record.

Lewis, basketball coach at the University of Southern Mississippi for the past five years, takes over at Syracuse April 30, replacing Marc Guley, who resigned.

Lewis will begin a recruiting drive immediately, the university said. Athletic Director Lew Andreas, in announcing the appointment Tuesday, said Lewis had "the qualifications to return Syracuse to its rightful place in major college basketball."

At Mississippi Southern, Lewis compiled an 89-39 record. His Golden Giants ranked third nationally in the small-college division a year ago.

In Hattiesburg, University President William D. McCain said:

"We regret very much to lose coach Lewis to Syracuse University. He has had a fine record with use and he and his wife have been fine assets to the University community. We wish him every success in his new position."

Is From New York

Lewis is a native New Yorker. He also has coached at the University of Hawaii, Southern Illinois and Amityville, L.I., high school.

Lewis played professional basketball with Sheboygen and the Baltimore Bullets before beginning his coaching career. With Sheboygen, he was named rookie of the year in the old National Basketball League in 1946-47.

In college, Lewis played for Long Island University before World War II and continued at Eastern Kentucky State after the war.

Guley, 49, had been head basketball coach at Syracuse for 12 years. He will remain on the athletic staff until June 30. He announced his resignation last month.

Utica Loses All But Soph Sets Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Utica College basketball team had one consolation today at the end of a winless basketball season — one of its players holds the individual career scoring record for the school.

Utica Tuesday night lost the 17th game of its 17-game season, bowing to Harpur, 78-60. But Larry Calabrese scored nine points for the losers and raised his career scoring to 1,191 points, a record for the school.

In the only other Upstate basketball game Tuesday night, Siena overwhelmed St. Peter's of New Jersey, 77-54. It was Siena's ninth straight victory.

Harpur's James Davis also set a scoring record in the game against Utica. He boosted his career output to 1,093 points, a standard for Harpur. Harpur ended its season with a 14-3 record.

Siena's victory over St. Peter's was the first in five years of competition between the two schools. The New Yorkers now have a 14-7 record and one more game to play—at Iona Saturday.

Rangers Capture Do-or-Die Contest

DETROIT (AP) — Refusing to die in what amounted to a do-or-die game, the New York Rangers were three points up on the Detroit Red Wings today for fourth place—and the last playoff spot — in the National Hockey League.

With only a one-point edge going into the game and apparently teetering on the brink of defeat with a 2-4 deficit midway in the final period, the Rangers tore the Red Wings apart and won 5-4 on a three-goal burst Tuesday night.

The rest of the NHL was idle.

Despite their loss, the Red Wings still have a chance to oust the Rangers from the playoffs, in which Montreal, Toronto and Chicago already have nailed down berths.

Detroit still has nine games left, three more than the Rangers.

Dodger Brass Will Leave Howard Alone

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Orders in the Los Angeles Dodger camp are to leave Frank Howard strictly alone. The feeling among the brass is that too much advice has done more to confuse than help the big fellow.

Duke Snider, the Dodgers' elder statesman and team captain, is among those who think Howard has been a victim of too much advice. That, Snider says, is one of the reasons for the failure of the $109,000-bonus collegian to capitalize on his tremendous potential.

"I've heard it said that Frank is a stubborn kid who won't listen," said Snider. "I don't believe it. He's a nice kid. His trouble is that he listens to too many people. Everybody in the organization has tried to help him."

This is Howard's fifth year with the Dodgers although he has put in only one full season. When the 6-7, 245-pounder joined L.A. in '58, he was hailed as the next Babe Ruth. He had the size, the strength and the swing. His best so far was 23 home runs in 1960. Last year he boosted his batting average 28 points to .296 but his home run production fell to 15.

Snider thinks Howard can't fail to reach stardom but adds, "He needs lots of help.

"Frank should concentrate on watching movies of his swing and then listen to just one guy instead of half a dozen," Snider said.

Lowlands Club Meets and Plans Memorial Show

Members of the Lowlands Ranch Club made plans for the Joe Lamphere Memorial Horse Show at the recent meeting. The show is scheduled Sunday, June 4, at the Lake Katrine club grounds. Izzy Epstein is the general chairman.

Assisting Epstein will be Edward Van Buren, events; Joe Fay, ring crew and grounds; Les Van Vlierden, prizes; Marie Carro, publicity, program book and tickets.

A meeting of the chairmen will take place March 12 and further plans will be discussed.

Plans to hold classes for beginners on the care and handling of horses were discussed. It is hoped the plans can be started early in the spring and Edward VanBuren will be in charge of the group.

Guests at the meeting were Arlene Kiersted and Bernie Klinger, who has been living in Montana. He answered questions regarding life in that state.

The next meeting is slated for April 1, at the club house, 2 p. m. Visitors are invited to attend.

Althea Gibson Sets Sights on Golf Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Althea Gibson, who retired as queen of all tennis, fixed her sights today on a new goal—she wants to become the "new Babe."

She aspired, she says, to be the best woman golfer in the world and match the feats of the late Babe Didrikson Zaharias. Furthermore, she has no doubts she can do it.

"It's no secret the Babe always has been an inspiration to me," the tall Harlem girl said.

"I have a God-given talent for being able to do things with a ball. I have gone as far as I can in tennis. Now I intend to do the same thing in golf."

Althea took up golf seriously two years ago.

ANCHOR ROPES VERSUS CHAINS

SOME USERS OF SMALL BOATS PREFER CHAIN INSTEAD OF ROPE BECAUSE CHAIN'S WEIGHT ADDS TO ANCHOR'S HOLDING POWER. THIS IS FINE IN WATER WITHOUT SNAGGY BOULDERS ON BOTTOM.

IF THE BOTTOM IS TANGLED WITH SNAGGY BOULDERS, AN ANCHOR ROPE IS BEST; IF AN ANCHOR IS HOPELESSLY FOULED ON THE BOTTOM, CUT THE ROPE TO BE FREE. WITHOUT TOOLS, A CHAIN FIXED TO BOAT COULD IMPRISON YOU AWHILE. FISHERMEN FIND A ROPE MAKES LESS NOISE THAN A CHAIN WHEN DROPPING ANCHOR.

Buffalo Owner Gives Testimony Against NFL

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ralph C. Wilson, president and owner of the American Football League's Buffalo Bills, testified Tuesday he was told by the president of the Detroit Lions that the National Football League was interested in expanding only to warmer climates.

Wilson said the Detroit Lions executive, Edwin Anderson, also told him if he would drop his Buffalo franchise, Anderson would help him get a substantial interest in an NFL franchise at Miami, Fla.

Wilson, who appeared as a witness for the AFL in its $10 million antitrust suit against the NFL, said he tried without success to implement an AFL franchise in Miami before going to Buffalo.

He failed, he said, because he was unable to lease the Orange Bowl there for home games.

Wilson said he met with Anderson in mid-November of 1959—about 2½ months after the NFL announced it would expand into Houston and Dallas. The NFL now has a Dallas entry but plans for a Houston NFL franchise were dropped.

"I told him my taking an NFL franchise in Miami was out of the question," Wilson said. "I had already told the people of Buffalo I was going to give them professional football."

Knicks Rally To Beat Celts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics, starting with tonight's game against the Philadelphia Warriors, need to win their last five games of the regular National Basketball Association season for a season record in victories.

The Celtics, aiming at their record of 59 triumphs set in the 1959-60 season, stayed stalled at 55 Tuesday night when they lost to the New York Knickerbockers at New York for the fourth straight time. The Knicks, in last place in the Eastern Division Boston dominates year after year, trailed by 10 points with 8½ minutes to play, then rallied for a 113-106 victory in the only NBA game of the night.

NCAA Berths at Stake In Cage Tilts Friday

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas Tech faces Southern Methodist, and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia goes against Temple in showdown battles to decide the Southwest and Middle Atlantic Conference champions Friday night.

Along with the title will go coveted spots in the NCAA tournament. Texas Tech, the defendin champion, and Southern Methodist both won their final Southwest Conference games Tuesday night to wind up the regular season with identical 11-3 leaue records.

Neither had it easy. Texas Tech barely got past Rice, 60-58, by virtue of converting 20 of 25 free throws. Southern Methodist beat Arkansas, 84-81, after the Razorbacks had pulled to within one point of a tie with a minute to go.

Rally Wins It

St. Joseph's had things even tougher. The Hawks had to overcome a 16-point half-time deficit to defeat Lafayette, 78-68, and pull into a tie with Temple, each with a 9-1 leaue record. Temple already had finished its season.

The Southwest playoff will be held in Fort Worth and the Mid-Atlantic in Philadelphia.

Texas Tech and Southern Methodist played each other twice during the regular season, and there was little to choose between them. Tech won the first game, 69-63, at Southern Methodist. SMU came right back and won the second, 68-63, at Tech.

St. Joseph's beat Temple, 53-49, in their only meeting during the regular season.

NIT for Runnerup

The loser of the Texas Tech-Southern Methodist playoff is finished for the year. But the Middle spot in the National Invitation Tournament in New York. That will be the 11th NIT team, The 12th will be the loser of the Missouri Valley Conference playoff between Cincinnati and Bradley Monday night. Victor of that one goes to the NCAA.

Texas edged Texas Christian 71-68, and Texas A&M coasted to an 84-61 victory over Baylor. It marked the Aggies' 24th straight home-court decision. Sienna ran its winning streak to nine with a 77-54 triumph over St. Peter's of Jersey City.

Need for Browse Cutting in Areas Of Winter Deer Yards in Preserve, Topic at Conservation Convention

Deputy Commissioner Vic Skiff spoke on the need for browse cutting in areas of winter deer yards in the forest preserve at the recent New York State Conservation Council Legislative Convention, held last week. He passed out copies of printed recommendations called "A Summary of the Game Management Problem in the Forest Preserve as of Feb. 16, 1962."

Delegates from practically every county attended the session, which is held each year mainly to discuss and vote on proposed changes or additions to the Conservation Laws. About 50 bills were covered this year and a united opinion will be expressed to the legislative hearing which follows the convention.

Those Attending

Department personnel at the convention, in addition to Skiff, included Assistant Commissioner for Game Mason Lawrence, Commissioner H. G. Wilhm; Dr. Green, Bureau of Fish; Dr. E. A. Cheatum, Head Bureau of Game; William Goodman, Head Division Law Enforcement and Department Counsel Armand Adams.

Chairman Paul Schaeffer of the Forest Preserve Committee, reported and gave high praise on "The status of the study of accessible forest preserve lands" which was presented to the group. It was prepared by Neil Stout as field service representative for the joint legislative committee on natural resources, of which Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy of Dutchess County is chairman. A resolution was adopted unanimously to call on the legislature to continue Assemblyman Pomeroy's committee.

Stanley Spesiack, chairman of the Water Resources Committee, presented his report. It referred primarily to the fact that the state has "Riparian Rights" in the name of all the people, to many miles of under water lands, and lake and river shores.

The lands are under the supervision and control of the state general services administration and when enroached upon or based by individuals or agencies, certain legal requirements must be met.

Another Cold Shoulder

Ulster County Federation's long-sought legislation, and long a Council demand as well, to prevent the unnecessary destruction of stream beds and banks by the various highway authorities again got a cold shoulder from Albany. Conservationists are urged to be on the lookout for these wasteful practices and to get picture proof if possible, together with dates and exact locations.

A proposed Constitutional Amendment to the State Constitution in the form of a present bill which would relax the guarantees of our priceless Forest Preserve was discussed and favored by Commissioner Wilhm, who asked the delegates to defer action on the bill.

Despite the commissioner's plea, the convention voted 45-1 to vigorously oppose this possible enroachment on resources.

The meeting was concluded with an earnest reminder from Larry Williams, council chairman of National Wildlife Week observation, that the week of March 18-24 is dedicated this year as National Waterfowl Week. He urged the preservation of all marsh areas which are so vitally important to waterfowl as a valuable resource.

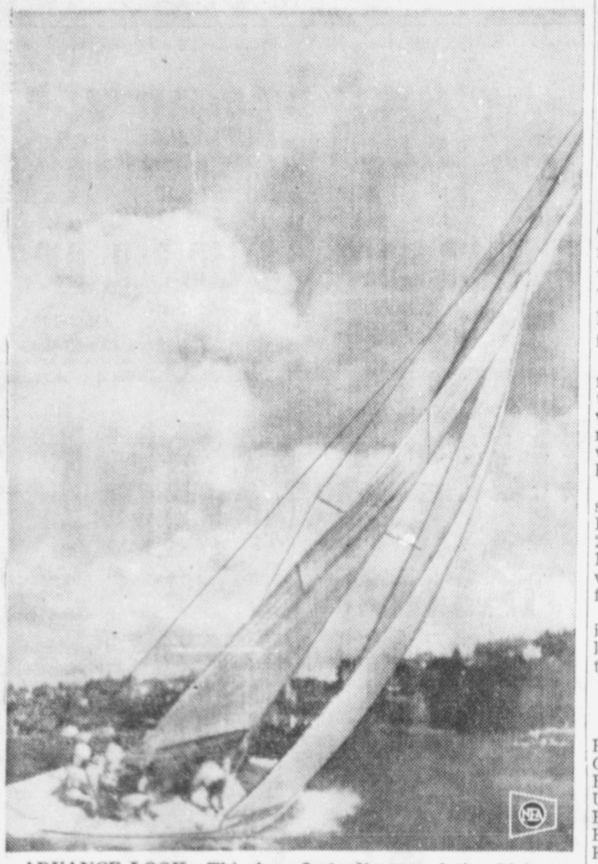

Many of the delegates then proceeded to the Legislative hearing at the State Assembly, where the united views of all clubs and federations are presented as a united effort.

Trailway Scores 71-67 Win; Doran's, Hub Also on Top

ADVANCE LOOK—This is a first glimpse of the 73-foot yacht that will represent Australia in the America's Cup Race next fall. As yet unnamed, the challenger from Down Under cost a syndicate $675,000 and is conceded a good chance of taking the coveted trophy from the U. S. for the first time in more than 100 years in the five race series to be held off the east coast of the United States.

Trailway Cafeteria nipped Byrne Chevrolet, 71-67, last night in the feature game of a YMCA league tripleheader at the Broadway gym.

In other action, Doran's squeezed by Van's Esso, 47-45, and Hub Delicatessen walloped Jim's Atlantic, 58-42.

Joe Uhl, Al Brown, Marty Kaye and Gary Barnes were in double figures for the Trailway five. It was a well balanced attack. Walt Harder and Bruce Wiederspiel led the losers, who led at halftime but fell behind in the third period.

Doran's and Van's put on a real close one with each side taking turns moving ahead. The winners put it away in the final moments. Walt Colclough led with 15 points while Don Lenahan's 19 topped Van's Esso.

Leading by only three points starting the final period, the Hub outscored Jim's Atlantic, 22-9, to seal the decision. Big Don Komosa led with 22 points while Joe Tremper swished 19 for the losers.

The games marked the opening of the second half of the league. There are two divisions this time around.

Fred Lewis Signed; New Head Basketball Coach at Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fred Lewis, 41, steps into a basketball hotspot—as coach of the Syracuse University team, charged with returning the Orange "to its rightful place in major college basketball."

The Syracuse team ended its season this week with two straight victories. But it had lost 27 in a row before that, setting an NCAA major college record.

Lewis, basketball coach at the University of Southern Mississippi for the past five years, takes over at Syracuse April 30, replacing Marc Guley, who resigned.

Lewis will begin a recruiting drive immediately, the university said. Athletic Director Lew Andreas, in announcing the appointment Tuesday, said Lewis had "the qualifications to return Syracuse to its rightful place in major college basketball."

At Mississippi Southern, Lewis compiled an 89-39 record. His Golden Giants ranked third nationally in the small-college division a year ago.

In Hattiesburg, University President William D. McCain said:

"We regret very much to lose coach Lewis to Syracuse University. He has had a fine record with use and he and his wife have been fine assets to the University community. We wish him every success in his new position."

Is From New York

Lewis is a native New Yorker. He also has coached at the University of Hawaii, Southern Illinois and Amityville, L.I., high school.

Lewis played professional basketball with Sheboygen and the Baltimore Bullets before beginning his coaching career. With Sheboygen, he was named rookie of the year in the old National Basketball League in 1946-47.

In college, Lewis played for Long Island University before World War II and continued at Eastern Kentucky State after the war.

Guley, 49, had been head basketball coach at Syracuse for 12 years. He will remain on the athletic staff until June 30. He announced his resignation last month.

Utica Loses All But Soph Sets Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Utica College basketball team had one consolation today at the end of a winless basketball season — one of its players holds the individual career scoring record for the school.

Utica Tuesday night lost the 17th game of its 17-game season, bowing to Harpur, 78-60. But Larry Calabrese scored nine points for the losers and raised his career scoring to 1,191 points, a record for the school.

In the only other Upstate basketball game Tuesday night, Siena overwhelmed St. Peter's of New Jersey, 77-54. It was Siena's ninth straight victory.

Harpur's James Davis also set a scoring record in the game against Utica. He boosted his career output to 1,093 points, a standard for Harpur. Harpur ended its season with a 14-3 record.

Siena's victory over St. Peter's was the first in five years of competition between the two schools. The New Yorkers now have a 14-7 record and one more game to play—at Iona Saturday.

Rangers Capture Do-or-Die Contest

DETROIT (AP) — Refusing to die in what amounted to a do-or-die game, the New York Rangers were three points up on the Detroit Red Wings today for fourth place—and the last playoff spot — in the National Hockey League.

With only a one-point edge going into the game and apparently teetering on the brink of defeat with a 2-4 deficit midway in the final period, the Rangers tore the Red Wings apart and won 5-4 on a three-goal burst Tuesday night.

The rest of the NHL was idle.

Despite their loss, the Red Wings still have a chance to oust the Rangers from the playoffs, in which Montreal, Toronto and Chicago already have nailed down berths.

Detroit still has nine games left, three more than the Rangers.

Section 9 Cage Games Postponed; Slated Tonight

Action in the Section Nine Basketball tournament was postponed last night because of the weather bureau's warning of a snow storm, which didn't arrive. All games scheduled for last night will take place tonight.

Pearl River will play Goshen at 8:30 p. m. at Newburgh Free Academy and Tappan Zee and Liberty meet at the same time at the Valley Central gym in Class B action.

In the C division, Rondout Valley will collide with Nanuet of Rockland County, 7 p. m., at the Valley Central gym.

Dodger Brass Will Leave Howard Alone

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Orders in the Los Angeles Dodger camp are to leave Frank Howard strictly alone. The feeling among the brass is that too much advice has done more to confuse than help the big fellow.

Duke Snider, the Dodgers' elder statesman and team captain, is among those who think Howard has been a victim of too much advice. That, Snider says, is one of the reasons for the failure of the $109,000-bonus collegian to capitalize on his tremendous potential.

"I've heard it said that Frank is a stubborn kid who won't listen," said Snider. "I don't believe it. He's a nice kid. His trouble is that he listens to too many people. Everybody in the organization has tried to help him."

This is Howard's fifth year with the Dodgers although he has put in only one full season. When the 6-7, 245-pounder joined L.A. in '58, he was hailed as the next Babe Ruth. He had the size, the strength and the swing. His best so far was 23 home runs in 1960. Last year he boosted his batting average 28 points to .296 but his home run production fell to 15.

Snider thinks Howard can't fail to reach stardom but adds, "He needs lots of help.

"Frank should concentrate on watching movies of his swing and then listen to just one guy instead of half a dozen," Snider said.

Lowlands Club Meets and Plans Memorial Show

Members of the Lowlands Ranch Club made plans for the Joe Lamphere Memorial Horse Show at the recent meeting. The show is scheduled Sunday, June 4, at the Lake Katrine club grounds. Izzy Epstein is the general chairman.

Assisting Epstein will be Edward Van Buren, events; Joe Fay, ring crew and grounds; Les Van Vlierden, prizes; Marie Carro, publicity, program book and tickets.

A meeting of the chairmen will take place March 12 and further plans will be discussed.

Plans to hold classes for beginners on the care and handling of horses were discussed. It is hoped the plans can be started early in the spring and Edward VanBuren will be in charge of the group.

Guests at the meeting were Arlene Kiersted and Bernie Klinger, who has been living in Montana. He answered questions regarding life in that state.

The next meeting is slated for April 1, at the club house, 2 p. m. Visitors are invited to attend.

Althea Gibson Sets Sights on Golf Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Althea Gibson, who retired as queen of all tennis, fixed her sights today on a new goal—she wants to become the "new Babe."

She aspired, she says, to be the best woman golfer in the world and match the feats of the late Babe Didrikson Zaharias. Furthermore, she has no doubts she can do it.

"It's no secret the Babe always has been an inspiration to me," the tall Harlem girl said.

"I have a God-given talent for being able to do things with a ball. I have gone as far as I can in tennis. Now I intend to do the same thing in golf."

Althea took up golf seriously two years ago.

Buffalo Owner Gives Testimony Against NFL

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ralph C. Wilson, president and owner of the American Football League's Buffalo Bills, testified Tuesday he was told by the president of the Detroit Lions that the National Football League was interested in expanding only to warmer climates.

Wilson said the Detroit Lions executive, Edwin Anderson, also told him if he would drop his Buffalo franchise, Anderson would help him get a substantial interest in an NFL franchise at Miami, Fla.

Wilson, who appeared as a witness for the AFL in its $10 million antitrust suit against the NFL, said he tried without success to implement an AFL franchise in Miami before going to Buffalo.

He failed, he said, because he was unable to lease the Orange Bowl there for home games.

Wilson said he met with Anderson in mid-November of 1959—about 2½ months after the NFL announced it would expand into Houston and Dallas. The NFL now has a Dallas entry but plans for a Houston NFL franchise were dropped.

"I told him my taking an NFL franchise in Miami was out of the question," Wilson said. "I had already told the people of Buffalo I was going to give them professional football."

Golden Gloves Has Final Bouts Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Champions in all eight divisions of the National Golden Gloves Tournament will be crowned tonight.

Also to be decided will be the team title. Toledo, with 16 points and five boxers in the semifinals, holds the lead. Lowell, Mass., is second with 13 points but has only three fighters in the running.

Chicago, Cincinnati and Fort Wayne have 12 team points each and a chance for the title.

Knicks Rally To Beat Celts

The Boston Celtics, starting with tonight's game against the Philadelphia Warriors, need to win their last five games of the regular National Basketball Association season for a season record in victories.

The Celtics, aiming at their record of 59 triumphs set in the 1959-60 season, stayed stalled at 55 Tuesday night when they lost to the New York Knickerbockers at New York for the fourth straight time. The Knicks, in last place in the Eastern Division Boston dominates year after year, trailed by 10 points with 8½ minutes to play, then rallied for a 113-106 victory in the only NBA game of the night.

NCAA Berths at Stake In Cage Tilts Friday

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas Tech faces Southern Methodist, and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia goes against Temple in showdown battles to decide the Southwest and Middle Atlantic Conference champions Friday night.

Along with the title will go coveted spots in the NCAA tournament. Texas Tech, the defending champion, and Southern Methodist both won their final Southwest Conference games Tuesday night to wind up the regular season with identical 11-3 leaue records.

Neither had it easy. Texas Tech barely got past Rice, 60-58, by virtue of converting 20 of 25 free throws. Southern Methodist beat Arkansas, 84-81, after the Razorbacks had pulled to within one point of a tie with a minute to go.

Rally Wins It

St. Joseph's had things even tougher. The Hawks had to overcome a 16-point half-time deficit to defeat Lafayette, 78-68, and pull into a tie with Temple, each with a 9-1 leaue record. Temple already had finished its season.

The Southwest playoff will be held in Fort Worth and the Mid-Atlantic in Philadelphia.

Texas Tech and Southern Methodist played each other twice during the regular season, and there was little to choose between them. Tech won the first game, 69-63, at Southern Methodist. SMU came right back and won the second, 68-63, at Tech.

St. Joseph's beat Temple, 53-49, in their only meeting during the regular season.

NIT for Runnerup

The loser of the Texas Tech-Southern Methodist playoff is finished for the year. But the Middle spot in the National Invitation Tournament in New York. That will be the 11th NIT team. The 12th will be the loser of the Missouri Valley Conference playoff between Cincinnati and Bradley Monday night. Victor of that one goes to the NCAA.

Texas edged Texas Christian, 71-68, and Texas A&M coasted to an 84-61 victory over Baylor. It marked the Aggies' 24th straight home-court decision. Sienna ran its winning streak to nine with a 77-54 triumph over St. Peter's of Jersey City.

Need for Browse Cutting in Areas Of Winter Deer Yards in Preserve, Topic at Conservation Convention

Deputy Commissioner Vic Skiff spoke on the need for browse cutting in areas of winter deer yards in the forest preserve at the recent New York State Conservation Council Legislative Convention, held last week. He passed out copies of printed recommendations called "A Summary of the Game Management Problem in the Forest Preserve as of Feb. 16, 1962."

Delegates from practically every county attended the session, which is held each year mainly to discuss and vote on proposed changes or additions to the Conservation Laws. About 50 bills were covered this year and a united opinion will be expressed to the legislative hearing which follows the convention.

Those Attending

Department personnel at the convention, in addition to Skiff, included Assistant Commissioner for Game Mason Lawrence, Commissioner H. G. Wilhm; Dr. Green, Bureau of Fish; Dr. E. A. Cheatum, Head Bureau of Game; William Goodman, Head Division Law Enforcement and Department Counsel Armand Adams.

Chairman Paul Schaeffer of the Forest Preserve Committee, reported and gave high praise on "The status of the study of accessible forest preserve lands" which was presented to the group. It was prepared by Neil Stout as field service representative for the joint legislative committee on natural resources, of which Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy of Dutchess County is chairman. A resolution was adopted unanimously to call on the legislature to continue Assemblyman Pomeroy's committee.

Stanley Spesiack, chairman of the Water Resources Committee, presented his report. It referred primarily to the fact that the state has "Riparian Rights" in the name of all the people, to many miles of under water lands, and lake and river shores.

The lands are under the supervision and control of the state general services administration and when enroached upon or based by individuals or agencies, certain legal requirements must be met.

Another Cold Shoulder

Ulster County Federation's long-sought legislation, and long a Council demand as well, to prevent the unnecessary destruction of stream beds and banks by the various highway authorities again got a cold shoulder from Albany. Conservationists are urged to be on the lookout for these wasteful practices and to get picture proof if possible, together with dates and exact locations.

A proposed Constitutional Amendment to the State Constitution in the form of a present bill which would relax the guarantees of our priceless Forest Preserve was discussed and favored by Commissioner Wilhm, who asked the delegates to defer action on the bill.

Despite the commissioner's plea, the convention voted 45-1 to vigorously oppose this possible enroachment on resources.

The meeting was concluded with an earnest reminder from Larry Williams, council chairman of National Wildlife Week observation, that the week of March 18-24 is dedicated this year as National Waterfowl Week. He urged the preservation of all marsh areas which are so vitally important to waterfowl as a valuable resource.

Many of the delegates then proceeded to the Legislative hearing at the State Assembly, where the united views of all clubs and federations are presented as a united effort.

FELLER IN CAMP

HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Sports Editor

MESA, Ariz. — (NEA) — My only comment on the Cubs' system of rotating coaches instead of having an out-and-out manager is that I am quite sure owner Philip K. Wrigley would not conduct his gum business that way.

The Chicago Nationals, however, added a coach this spring whom I'm certain you'll hear about. When Harry Craft left to pilot the new Houston Colt .45s, John Holland, who superintends the Cubs' front office, hired Charley Metro.

While watching the Cubs work at Rendezvous Park in Mesa, the sprawling Mormon town 15 miles from Phoenix, I got it from one very close to the high command that Metro was brought on as something more than an alternating coach.

"We have had an eye on Metro for three years," he confided. "Let me put it this way—I'll be surprised if he isn't named manager."

Metro, for some time generally recognized as a winning minor league manager who could teach, has sent a truly fantastic number of players to the majors in more recent years.

No fewer than 21 players now on big league rosters were drilled by him with Denver of the American Association the past two campaigns. He shipped Jake Wood, Steve Boros, Dick McAuliffe, Mike Roarke, Phil Regan and a dozen more to Detroit.

Bossing Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League the three previous seasons, Metro turned out Ronnie Hansen, Brooks Robinson, Marv Breeding, Chuck Estrada, Wes Stock and others for Baltimore.

Everybody who has played for Metro tells you he taught them the most while being a tough manager.

Metro, a dark-complexioned, sturdily built pepperpot in his early 40's, was a good enough outfielder and hitter to play three war years—1943-45—with the Tigers and Philadelphia Athletics. 'I had a year under Mr. Connie Mack," he recalled proudly. Perhaps that is where he got the idea that has carried him this far.

Not being richly endowed with natural playing talent, Metro studied the management of baseball personnel. In 15 years in the minors , starting at the lowest level and running through the highest, his clubs won four pennants and were out of the first division only once.

METRO'S REAL NAME is Moreskonich and he is from Nanto-Glo, Pa., which is near Johnstown. He is of Ukranian descent. His father's first name was Metro, so the kids in high school and on the sandlots called him Little Metro. "Probably thinking of those who would be keeping boxscores," he smiled.

Metro also has rehabilitated as well as developed. "I took 30 pounds off Harry Chiti, the big catcher, and he could help the Indians," he told me. "I got Jerry Casale in condition and straightened him out. If he stays that way, he'll win for Detroit."

Metro quite naturally was associated with the Baltimore and Detroit clubs while managing Vancouver and Denver. Both parent clubs changed managers, Bob Scheffing assuming command of the Tigers a year ago and Billy Hitchcock drawing the Oriole assignment this spring.

How come Metro wasn't considered?

"You'll have to ask them that," he said.

How did it feel to be passed up when he appeared so richly entitled to the jobs?

"It was like losing a tough ball game," he replied.

Charley Metro could be the man to light a fire where one hasn't burned for 15 years—under the Cubs.

Joey Jay Inks Reds Contract, Cepeda Heads Holdout List

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joey Jay, well-heeled oilman with a wealth of pitching talent as a cushion against inflation, ended his holdout siege and lifted the gloomy atmosphere pervading the training camp of Cincinnati's National League champion Reds.

Jay, 26, a right-hander who shared NL honors for most victories during the 1961 campaign with Milwaukee's Warren Spahn when he compiled a 21-10 record finally was signed for $28,000 — about $13,000 more than he received last season.

His signing gave a much-needed lift to spirits at the Reds' camp, stunned by the accident to Gene Freese that likely will sideline the hard-hitting third baseman for three months. Freese fractured an ankle during Monday's intrasquad game.

Not What He Wanted

Jay's salary boost did not equal the amount he demanded when he shocked the baseball world by offering to purchase his contract for first $150,000 and then $200,000 so he could become a free agent and peddle his talents elsewhere.

Joining the Reds last year after eight mediocre seasons with Milwaukee, Jay blossomed into the top hurler on the staff as Cincinnati won its first pennant in 20 years. He wanted to tap management for $32,000 as a just reward.

Jay said after signing that he was "satisfied with the contract and primed for another good season." Manager Fred Hutchinson was jubilant, saying, "I'm glad he's back. I feel like we've just picked up 21 more games."

Both Gave a Little

General Manager Bill DeWitt said "I gave a little, and he gave a little. Now I hope Joey has another good year so he can get another good raise next time."

Also ending his holdout was relief specialist Don McMahon of Milwaukee, who became the last member of the Braves to agree to terms. McMahon, 6-4 with a 2.84 earned run average in 1961, received a slight pay boost.

New York Mets infielder Elio Chacon also agreed to terms, reducing the majors' holdout list to four players — headed by San Francisco slugger Orlando Cepeda and Minnesota pitcher Camilo Pascual. Also on the outside are Los Angeles Dodgers catcher Doug Camilli and St. Louis receiver Bob Herrera.

KHS Wrestlers Close Season, Top Middies

Reversing an early season setback, Kingston High School's wrestling team finished its schedule in good fashion, nipping Middletown, 21-18, yesterday at the Kate Walton Field House. Coach Ken Brown's grapplers were 6-8 for the year but they showed much improvement over the second half of the schedule.

Tom Auringer clinched the hard fought match when he pinned Harry Bierling of the visitors in 1:11. They were in the 154 pound class.

The results:

103 pound class—John Smoot, M, decisioned Dennis Reilly, K, 4-0.

112 pound class — Richard Koyon, K, pinned Vince Stanbow, M, 55 seconds.

120 pound class—Harold Hill, K, decisioned Pete Wagner, M, 8-5.

127 pound class — George Davis, K, decisioned Bill Burreto, M, 9-1.

133 pound class—Earl Wright, K, drew with Bob Schwartz, M, 2-2.

138 pound class—Lee Thomas, M, pinned Mike Miggins, K, 1:35 of 3rd period.

145 pound class—Dave Reilly, K, decisioned Gus Myers, M, 3-2.

154 pound class—Tom Auringer, K, pinned Harry Bierling, M, 1:11.

165 pound class—Paul Myers, M, pinned Tony McCardle, K, 31 seconds of 2nd period.

Unlimited — Joe Radivoy, M, decisioned Dick Fertel, K, 5-0.

BATON ROUGE, La.—(NEA)—Down Louisiana way, where they know about fishing, the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission offers some advice to the angler. When a fussy bass refuses to take fly offerings, place a small piece of gum on a bare hook. Hold it over a match flame until it becomes sticky. Then, catch some of the flying type flies in the area. Lawrence Terms Scranton Weak As Pa. Candidate

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence says Republican Congressman William Scranton knows too little about state government to be a tough gubernatorial candidate this year.

"Basically, Scranton probably knows less about state government than any of the candidates mentioned," Lawrence said Tuesday at his weekly news conference.

The governor's remarks came just hours before state GOP county chairmen almost unanimously endorsed Scranton, R-Pa., for governor and Rep. James E. Van Zandt for U.S. senator.

Lawrence argued against the theory that all a good governor needs is common sense and a "wonderful cabinet" to do the job.

"I think it helps a little to know a little bit about the government, a little bit about the job he's taking over," Lawrence stated. "The Republican nominee elect, or designate, whatever you call him (Scranton), has had no experience in this line. If he got in here for a while, he'd change his mind."

Turning to the Democratic side of the fence, Lawrence assured newsmen Congressman William Green Jr. "will support the Democratic ticket as he always has in the past."

Lawrence's comment on Green was prompted by Green's recent opposition to former Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth as the party candidate for governor.

However, Dilworth was endorsed by the 72-member Democratic State Policy Committee last week.

Miller Backs Dilworth

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — State Sen. John Carl Miller of Beaver County withdrew from the gubernatorial race Tuesday and threw his support behind the Democratic ticket headed by Philadelphia's Richardson Dilworth.

Miller's supporters had already obtained 38,000 names on a petition to nominate him as Democratic candidate. He said, in announcing his withdrawal, that he will ask these people to support the organization slate.

"The members of the Democratic party should close ranks and work together to insure victory in November," he said.

$550,000 Granted For Hartwick Dorm

The $550,000 federal government loan has been approved for construction of a new women's dormitory at Hartwick College.

Dr. Frederick M. Binder, Hartwick College president, said that the loan from the Housing and Home Finance Agency will be used to construct a four-story brick building of modified colonial architecture. In addition to the rooms for 172 women the structure will house recreation, lounge, laundry, and storage and housemother facilities.

Bids for the new dormitory are expected to be out in early May, with construction starting in the latter part of that month.

The new dormiory will be located just below the present Holmes Hall for women facing toward the main campus buildings. The new building will form a quadrangle of women's dormitories in the lower right portion of the campus as viewed from the city of Oneonta.

Students to Hear Movie-Making Talk at Seminar

Senior students from the central schools of Ulster County participating in the Senior Seminar Program will have an opportunity on Saturday to meet Dickie Moore, actor and director whose achievements in the movie making field are well known.

The Seminar will take place at the State University College at New Paltz on 10 a. m. on Saturday.

Topic of the seminar will be "The American Theatre — Contemporary Views and Prospects for its Future." Durnig this session, the students will be given an authentic presentation of this subject by Mr. Moore, the guest-lecturer, who will be emphasizing the realistic concerns of the theatre, today and especially the subject of acting as an art and a profession.

Moore, as an actor, has made over 300 movies of which the titles of the Our Gang series are included, as well as Miss Annie Rooney, Sergeant York, Member of the Wedding, and Eight Iron Men. In the past he was also involved in radio work, and his abilities have been seen on television in programs such as Omnibus, the Lux Theatre, the Kraft Theatre, and others. When time permits, he is also involved in stock and little theatre work, as well as doing some free lance writing.

GOP Completes Ticket in Pa.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican leaders completed the organization's slate for statewide office today with the selection of State Sen. Raymond P. Shafer of Meadville for lieutenant governor and Mrs. Audrey R. Kelley of Montrose for secretary of internal affairs.

They will run along with U.S. Reps. William W. Scranton of Dalton for governor and James E. Van Zandt of Altoona for U.S. Senate.

The selection of Shafer and Mrs. Kelley was made by a 14-member committee which met in a downtow.. hotel room for several hours, winding up after midnight.

There remains now the choice of people to run the campaign.

Walter E. Alessandroni, Philadelphia attorney, reportedly was under consideration as campaign manager. He was serving in that role for U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott until Scott withdrew from the Republican gubernatorial race last week. Alessandroni also had been an earlier candidate for governor, withdrawing in favor of Scott.

The special committee—appointed Tuesday at a meeting of Republican county and state leaders —considered some 30 names before coming up with the final selections.

Seeded Colleges Get Victories In 1st Round of Hockey Test

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The opening round of the first annual ECAC hockey tournament went true to form—but high scoring Colby came within an ice sliver of being upset by Rensselaer Polytechnic.

The top four teams all survived quarter-final action on four fronts Tuesday night and now move to Boston for the semi-finals Friday night.

Top-seeded Clarkson broke open a close game in the third period for a 6-3 victory over Providence at Potsdam, N.Y.

Second-seeded Harvard won a thriller in overtime with Army, Dave Morse scoring at 2:18 for a 2-1 triumph at Cambridge, Mass.

St. Lawrence, third-ranked, had an easy time with Boston College, winning 9-4 at Canton, N.Y.

A Close Call

And fourth-seeded Colby, paced by national scoring leader Ron Ryan, hung on for a 7-6 victory over RPI at Waterville, Maine. The win came, however, only after RPI scored three times in the final 35 seconds against third string goalie Al Carville.

In the Friday night pairings at Boston Arena, Clarkson plays Colby and Harvard takes on St. Lawrence. The final will be played Saturday night, with the winner an automatic choice to be one of two eastern representatives at the NCAA championships at Utica, N. Y., March 15-17.

Hal Pettersen scored Clarkson's third and fifth goals after assisting on the first tally. Providence opened the lamp lighting but trailed 2-1 after the initial period and 3-1 after two frames.

Providence made it 3-2 before Paul LaPointe and Pettersen slammed goals within 100 seconds to nail down the decision for Clarkson, which was registering its 13th win against one loss and one tie in eastern competition.

Ryan scored a pair of goals and had two assists for Colby to boost his point total to 103 for the season—only five short of the all-time national collegiate record.

Colby looked like a shoo-in after grabbing leads of 5-2 and 7-3. But RPI's Jim Josephson netted his second and third goals of the night at 19:25 and 19:50. Al Brinkworth hit the strings with five seconds remaining and Colby fans were limp as the buzzer saved the game.

Army appeared to be the stronger team most of the way against Harvard. But Morse whipped a 10-footer past goalie Ron Chisholm after taking a pass from Bill Beckett for the overtime win.

St. Lawrence jumped to a 3-1 first period lead and widened it to 7-2 midway through the middle period against Boston College. Ron Mason scored twice and had two assists for the Larries.

Marciano Has Cure For Boxing Ills

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Rocky Marciano has a four-point program he thinks could help cure the ills of boxing in the United States.

The ex-heavyweight king says he'd like to be federal boxing czar so he could work for uniform rules in every state, a better withholding tax plan for boxers, government subsidy to help develop young fighters and insurance and pension protection for boxers.

Marciano, who retired undefeated, told a reporter he thinks the sport could be on the upgrade two years after a commissioner is named.

Aparicio Seeking 7th Base Stealing Title

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Luis Aparicio, Mr. Go Go of the Chicago White Sox, will be shooting for a seventh straight base-stealing title in the American League in 1962. It took Ty Cobb 23 years to win it six times.

"The competition will be good," said Aparicio at the Sox training camp today. "Dick Howser of Kansas City is good. So is Jake Wood of Detroit and Zorro Versalles of Minnesota.

"If they are going to beat me they are going to have to run plenty, because I am running. Al (Manager Al Lopez) gives me the sign to be ready when I think I have the jump.

"I never saw Ty Cobb. Everytime they talk about best ball player they always say Ty Cobb. I don't know if I can win seven times but I am going to try."

Aparicio listed the pitchers who gave him the most trouble, trying to steal a base.

Ford Is Toughest

"Whitey Ford he is the toughest one," said Luis. "He has a real good move to first base. So has Bud Daley of the Yankees. Most left-handers have a good move. Of the right-handers the best are Hoyt Wilhelm, Paul Foytack and that new Detroit boy, Terry Fox."

The best arm among the catchers?

"That is easy. Earl Battey. He has a real strong arm. Put Gus Triandos next."

With Tony Kubek of the Yankees in the Army, it appears a cinch that Aparicio will be the All-Star shortstop again in the American League. His manager is his best booster.

"I always said Luis was the best in everything except range," said Lopez. "I always figured Glenn Wright of Pittsburgh had the best range of any shortstop I ever saw. But Luis has learned to go deep in that hole and throw out a man, just like Wright. I would have to say Luis now is the best I ever saw."

Top-seeded Clarkson broke open a close game in the third period for a 6-3 victory over Providence at Potsdam, N.Y.

Second-seeded Harvard won a thriller in overtime with Army, Dave Morse scoring at 2:18 for a 2-1 triumph at Cambridge, Mass.

St. Lawrence, third-ranked, had an easy time with Boston College, winning 9-4 at Canton, N.Y.

A Close Call

And fourth-seeded Colby, paced by national scoring leader Ron Ryan, hung on for a 7-6 victory over RPI at Waterville, Maine. The win came, however, only after RPI scored three times in the final 35 seconds against third string goalie Al Carville.

In the Friday night pairings at Boston Arena, Clarkson plays Colby and Harvard takes on St. Lawrence. The final will be played Saturday night, with the winner an automatic choice to be one of two eastern representatives at the NCAA championships at Utica, N. Y., March 15-17.

Hal Pettersen scored Clarkson's third and fifth goals after assisting on the first tally. Providence opened the lamp lighting but trailed 2-1 after the initial period and 3-1 after two frames.

Providence made it 3-2 before Paul LaPointe and Pettersen slammed goals within 100 seconds to nail down the decision for Clarkson, which was registering its 13th win against one loss and one tie in eastern competition.

Ryan scored a pair of goals and had two assists for Colby to boost his point total to 103 for the season—only five short of the all-time national collegiate record.

Colby looked like a shoo-in after grabbing leads of 5-2 and 7-3. But RPI's Jim Josephson netted his second and third goals of the night at 19:25 and 19:50. Al Brinkworth hit the strings with five seconds remaining and Colby fans were limp as the buzzer saved the game.

Army appeared to be the stronger team most of the way against Harvard. But Morse whipped a 10-footer past goalie Ron Chisholm after taking a pass from Bill Beckett for the overtime win.

St. Lawrence jumped to a 3-1 first period lead and widened it to 7-2 midway through the middle period against Boston College. Ron Mason scored twice and had two assists for the Larries.

Marciano Has Cure For Boxing Ills

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Rocky Marciano has a four-point program he thinks could help cure the ills of boxing in the United States.

The ex-heavyweight king says he'd like to be federal boxing czar so he could work for uniform rules in every state, a better withholding tax plan for boxers, government subsidy to help develop young fighters and insurance and pension protection for boxers.

Marciano, who retired undefeated, told a reporter he thinks the sport could be on the upgrade two years after a commissioner is named.

Aparicio Seeking 7th Base Stealing Title

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Luis Aparicio, Mr. Go Go of the Chicago White Sox, will be shooting for a seventh straight base-stealing title in the American League in 1962. It took Ty Cobb 23 years to win it six times.

"The competition will be good," said Aparicio at the Sox training camp today. "Dick Howser of Kansas City is good. So is Jake Wood of Detroit and Zorro Versalles of Minnesota.

"If they are going to beat me they are going to have to run plenty, because I am running. Al (Manager Al Lopez) gives me the sign to be ready when I think I have the jump.

"I never saw Ty Cobb. Everytime they talk about best ball player they always say Ty Cobb. I don't know if I can win seven times but I am going to try."

Aparicio listed the pitchers who gave him the most trouble, trying to steal a base.

Ford Is Toughest

"Whitey Ford he is the toughest one," said Luis. "He has a real good move to first base. So has Bud Daley of the Yankees. Most left-handers have a good move. Of the right-handers the best are Hoyt Wilhelm, Paul Foytack and that new Detroit boy, Terry Fox."

The best arm among the catchers?

"That is easy. Earl Battey. He has a real strong arm. Put Gus Triandos next."

With Tony Kubek of the Yankees in the Army, it appears a cinch that Aparicio will be the All-Star shortstop again in the American League. His manager is his best booster.

"I always said Luis was the best in everything except range," said Lopez. "I always figured Glenn Wright of Pittsburgh had the best range of any shortstop I ever saw. But Luis has learned to go deep in that hole and throw out a man, just like Wright. I would have to say Luis now is the best I ever saw."

Lawrence Terms Scranton Weak As Pa. Candidate

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence says Republican Congressman William Scranton knows too little about state government to be a tough gubernatorial candidate this year.

"Basically, Scranton probably knows less about state government than any of the candidates mentioned," Lawrence said Tuesday at his weekly news conference.

The governor's remarks came just hours before state GOP county chairmen almost unanimously endorsed Scranton, R-Pa., for governor and Rep. James E. Van Zandt for U.S. senator.

Lawrence argued against the theory that all a good governor needs is common sense and a "wonderful cabinet" to do the job.

"I think it helps a little to know a little bit about the government, a little bit about the job he's taking over," Lawrence stated. "The Republican nominee elect, or designate, whatever you call him (Scranton), has had no experience in this line. If he got in here for a while, he'd change his mind."

Turning to the Democratic side of the fence, Lawrence assured newsmen Congressman William Green Jr. "will support the Democratic ticket as he always has in the past."

Lawrence's comment on Green was prompted by Green's recent opposition to former Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth as the party candidate for governor.

However, Dilworth was endorsed by the 72-member Democratic State Policy Committee last week.

Miller Backs Dilworth

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — State Sen. John Carl Miller of Beaver County withdrew from the gubernatorial race Tuesday and threw his support behind the Democratic ticket headed by Philadelphia's Richardson Dilworth.

Miller's supporters had already obtained 38,000 names on a petition to nominate him as Democratic candidate. He said, in announcing his withdrawal, that he will ask these people to support the organization slate.

"The members of the Democratic party should close ranks and work together to insure victory in November," he said.

$550,000 Granted For Hartwick Dorm

The $550,000 federal government loan has been approved for construction of a new women's dormitory at Hartwick College.

Dr. Frederick M. Binder, Hartwick College president, said that the loan from the Housing and Home Finance Agency will be used to construct a four-story brick building of modified colonial architecture. In addition to the rooms for 172 women the structure will house recreation, lounge, laundry, and storage and housemother facilities.

Bids for the new dormitory are expected to be out in early May, with construction starting in the latter part of that month.

The new dormiory will be located just below the present Holmes Hall for women facing toward the main campus buildings. The new building will form a quadrangle of women's dormitories in the lower right portion of the campus as viewed from the city of Oneonta.

Students to Hear Movie-Making Talk at Seminar

Senior students from the central schools of Ulster County participating in the Senior Seminar Program will have an opportunity on Saturday to meet Dickie Moore, actor and director whose achievements in the movie making field are well known.

The Seminar will take place at the State University College at New Paltz on 10 a. m. on Saturday.

Topic of the seminar will be "The American Theatre — Contemporary Views and Prospects for its Future." Durnig this session, the students will be given an authentic presentation of this subject by Mr. Moore, the guest-lecturer, who will be emphasizing the realistic concerns of the theatre, today and especially the subject of acting as an art and a profession.

Moore, as an actor, has made over 300 movies of which the titles of the Our Gang series are included, as well as Miss Annie Rooney, Sergeant York, Member of the Wedding, and Eight Iron Men. In the past he was also involved in radio work, and his abilities have been seen on television in programs such as Omnibus, the Lux Theatre, the Kraft Theatre, and others. When time permits, he is also involved in stock and little theatre work, as well as doing some free lance writing.

GOP Completes Ticket in Pa.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican leaders completed the organization's slate for statewide office today with the selection of State Sen. Raymond P. Shafer of Meadville for lieutenant governor and Mrs. Audrey R. Kelley of Montrose for secretary of internal affairs.

They will run along with U.S. Reps. William W. Scranton of Dalton for governor and James E. Van Zandt of Altoona for U.S. Senate.

The selection of Shafer and Mrs. Kelley was made by a 14-member committee which met in a downtow.. hotel room for several hours, winding up after midnight.

There remains now the choice of people to run the campaign.

Walter E. Alessandroni, Philadelphia attorney, reportedly was under consideration as campaign manager. He was serving in that role for U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott until Scott withdrew from the Republican gubernatorial race last week. Alessandroni also had been an earlier candidate for governor, withdrawing in favor of Scott.

The special committee—appointed Tuesday at a meeting of Republican county and state leaders—considered some 30 names before coming up with the final selections.

The county and state leaders acclaimed the 44-year-old Scranton and the 63-year-old Van Zandt Tuesday at a hastily called meeting here to head their ticket this year.

Exchange Resumes

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army today resumed exchange of two battle groups in the Berlin garrison after a day's delay caused by heavy snow. Today the sky was blue and the sun shone.

Two motorized companies rolled in opposite directions along the ice-crusted autobahn.

One company of the 2nd Battle Group, 47th Infantry, was bound for Berlin from West Germany. A company of the 1st Battle Group, 19th Infantry, headed west.

Schroeder, Rusk to Meet

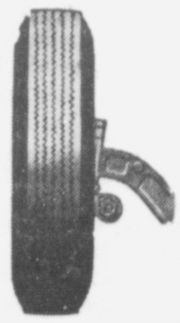

BONN, Germany (AP)—Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder will meet with U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk this weekend to seek assurances that any East-West agreement at Geneva will not put special restrictions on West German military power, informed sources said today.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Communist guerrillas reportedly ambushed an under-strength company of South Vietnamese rangers in the Mekong River delta Tuesday, killing 24 government troops, capturing five and leaving seven wounded.

It was the fourth considerable success for the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam's southern and delta provinces in two weeks. In the same period government forces have reported two victories in which more than 100 Viet Cong troops were killed and hundreds wounded.

Reunion Is Held By Former Post 150 Drum Corps

Former Legion Post 150 Drum Corps members held their reunion Feb. 24 at the Legion rooms, 18 West O'Reilly Street, where Legion chaplain and former Drum Corps member, the Rev. Clarence Brown gave the invocation, after which 67 dinners were served by Dick Matthews and his helpers. Many of the corps members wives attended.

Roy Jacob, the originator of this reunion, was master of ceremonies. He introduced those at the speakers' table and a few words of greeting were given by Legion Commander George Heppner, also by Clarence Hyde a member of the reunion committee. Morton Finch a past Corps captain, related how pleasing it was to again reunite with all his former members.

Jacob read a letter from former Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman who is vacationing in Florida and unable to attend. "Connie was the financial wizard in contacting his many friends in securing funds in the first few years of the corps organization," Jacob added.

In the extemporaneous remarks by the former captains of the Corps, Frank Sass related his year of achievements at which time it was the year of the organization of the famous "Doodledoffers" and how they traveled to Florida playing in all the important cities en route and to the many cities of New York State. Former Captain Ed Leudtke, who was the drill master of the Corps, related his years of enjoyment with working under both Drum Majors Burton Castle and Ed Geschwinder also John Weber with his story telling of his year as captain. John Emmitt told of his experience on his many marches with the corps. It was also noted that Tom Murray and Jerry Martin are still "feuding" over their association with the cops and entertaining in the show "What Price Charmane."

Chaplain Brown read a list of those who were unable to attend. Former Drum Major Burton Castle who is in the Albany Veterans Hospital, Kenneth Lantry and Alden Hunt in the Kingston Hospitals, Robert Hudler ill at home, Leroy Goodgion in the Ulster County Infirmary, Elmer Tremper in the Kingsbridge Hospital in New York City.

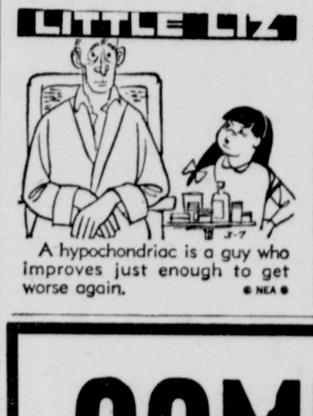

The Rev. Mr. Brown also listed the following names of those who have departed since the last roll call:

After the names were read those in attendance stood for a minute of silent reverence for their departed comrades.

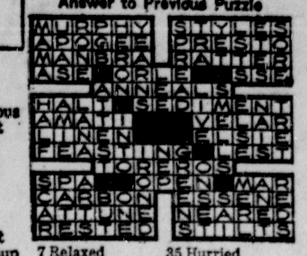

Music by Rodney Dubois at the piano, assisted by John Emmitt on the drums, with Charles Thorne with the "bones" was enjoyed by all. Songs of World War I were sung, even the famous Legion song "There Are No Wives With Us," were lustily echoed out by all.

Dancing was enjoyed and many requested more of these reunions be held.

WW 1 Vets Are Guests at MJM

A very interesting assembly was held at Myron J. Michael School, Feb. 26, at which time five veterans of World War I spoke to the 8th grade students about their experiences in the first world war. Tom Guerriero, grade supervisor, introduced each speaker.

The first speaker, ex-mayor Eugene B. Carey, served in the Adjutant-General's Office and at General John J. Pershing's headquarters in France. He helped organize the message center for the Second American Army. Carey displayed a Kingston Daily Freeman dated July 13, 1917 which contained a list of 2020 draftees from this area. He also had a registration card dated June 5, 1917 and an acceptance card.

Morton Finch, the father of MJM social studies teacher John Finch, recalled that World War I began for the United States in April of 1917 and ended on Nov. 11, 1918. He informed the audience that the armed forces were increased from 50,000 to 4,500,000 and that 2,000,000 of these men went overseas. The 2,500,000 who remained at home aided in building and operating training camps. Finch was a member of the 147th Engineers who constructed roads, railroads and bridges to assist in troop transportation.

Retired Deputy Fire Chief Harold Sanford served with the famous Co. M, New York State Infantry from June 1917 until July 1919. He spoke of Co. M as the oldest military outfit in the United States whose plaque contains a complete roster of 153 men, 67 of whom are still living. They marched through the Moselle Valley in France to Cobleny, Germany.

Peter Keresman, retired Secretary of the New York Police Conference, marched with the Pioneer Infantry. He entered this group on May 26, 1918. Keresman spoke about the German U-boat interference with United States commerce. He said the work of the Pioneer Infantry was to keep roads and wood open for troop travel until 11 a. m. on November 11, 1918 when the bombardment ceased with a silence which could be heard. The food which the armed forces consumed was adequate but not overly interesting.

The last speaker of the day was MJM's own Chief of Maintainance, Joseph Sills, whose captain in Co. M was Frank Meagher, the first principal of the Myron J. Michael School. Sills was thoroughly trained for the infantry but became a "pill roller" or first aid man in the front line trenches. He was severely wounded Sept. 29, 1918 during the capture of the Hindenburg line and was hospitalized first at Rouen, France, then in England and finally at Fort McHenry in the United States for a year before he was discharged.

Every year, more than two million visitors view Niagara Falls.

145 Attend Pack Dinner; Badges Presented Cubs

Approximately 145 Cub Scouts and their families attended the annual Blue and Gold banquet of Pack 10 at Chambers School on Feb. 26. Decorations of blue and gold depicting a parade of presidents were arranged by the cubs in their dens.

George Castrone, cubmaster, introduced guests after dinner.

Den 4 conducted the flag ceremony and acknowledged the theme of the month. The Rev. Scott Vining, pastor of Grace Community Church, gave the invocation. Other guests were Mr. Vining's children, Carl Deyo, cubmaster of Troop 10, and Neighborhood commissioner Dick Waltman and family.

Scoutmaster Deyo complimented Pack 10 members and said they have been well trained. He noted there is a very low percentage of boys who drop out of scouting.

Eric Heyden was inducted as a Bob Cat.

Wolf badges were earned during the month by Roy Felipe, Randy Felipe, Paul Fowler and Randy Marz. Roy and Paul also received their bear book, having reached the age of nine. Roy received one gold arrow and one silver arrow under the wolf badge. Paul received one gold and three silver arrows. Donald Beaumont earned one silver arrow under the lion badge.

Attendance pins were presented to Mario Marola and Jimmy Castrone for the first year. John Benjamin received a pin for the second year. Mario Marola received a bear book, and Gary Short was presented with a denner stripe. Peter Stole received an assistant denner stripe.

A feature of the evening was the presentation of Webelo badges and third year pins to: David Scheffel, Kevin Fischang, Richard Skala, Mark Stevens, Steve Fowler and Frank Richardson. Robert Ohlson, Webelo leader, presented each boy with a compass, and Scoutmaster Carl Deyo welcomed the boys into his troop and expressed the hope they would all become Eagle Scouts.

Roger Ohlson was called forward as the scoutmaster explained his rank of Star Scout and his 10 merit badges. Roger had been a member of Pack 10.

Den Mothers Pat Dauchenhausen, Helen Ohlson, Betty Collodi, Mabel Snell, Muriel Short, Karen Beaumont and Evelyn Henion, secretary, received certificates for their leadership and assistance to Pack 10.

A movie showing the 4th annual Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge was presented through the Efforts of John Benjamin.

Reunion Is Held By Former Post 150 Drum Corps

Former Legion Post 150 Drum Corps members held their reunion Feb. 24 at the Legion rooms, 18 West O'Reilly Street, where Legion chaplain and former Drum Corps member, the Rev. Clarance Brown gave the invocation, after which 67 dinners were served by Dick Matthews and his helpers. Many of the corps members wives attended.

Roy Jacob, the originator of this reunion, was master of ceremonies. He introduced those at the speakers' table and a few words of greeting were given by Legion Commander George Heppner, also by Clarence Hyde a member of the reunion committee. Morton Finch a past Corps captain, related how pleasing it was to again reunite with all his former members.

Jacob read a letter from former Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman who is vacationing in Florida and unable to attend. "Connie was the financial wizard in contacting his many friends in securing funds in the first few years of the corps organization," Jacob added.

In the extemporaneous remarks by the former captains of the Corps, Frank Sass related his year of achievements at which time it was the year of the organization of the famous "Doodledoffers" and how they traveled to Florida playing in all the important cities en route and to the many cities of New York State. Former Captain Ed Leudtke, who was the drill master of the Corps, related his years of enjoyment with working under both Drum Majors Burton Castle and Ed Geschwinder also John Weber with his story telling of his year as captain. John Emmitt told of his experience on his many marches with the corps. It was also noted that Tom Murray and Jerry Martin are still "feuding" over their association with the cops and entertaining in the show "What Price Charmane."

Chaplain Brown read a list of those who were unable to attend. Former Drum Major Burton Castle who is in the Albany Veterans Hospital, Kenneth Lantry and Alden Hunt in the Kingston Hospitals, Robert Hudler ill at home, Leroy Goodgion in the Ulster County Infirmary, Elmer Tremper in the Kingsbridge Hospital in New York City.

The Rev. Mr. Brown also listed the following names of those who have departed since the last roll call:

After the names were read those in attendance stood for a minute of silent reverence for their departed comrades.

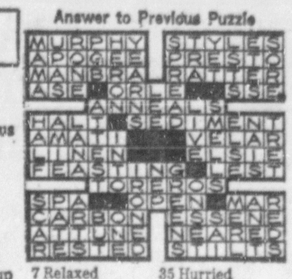

Music by Rodney Dubois at the piano, assisted by John Emmitt on the drums, with Charles Thorne with the "bones" was enjoyed by all. Songs of World War I were sung, even the famous Legion song "There Are No Wives With Us," were lustily echoed out by all.

Dancing was enjoyed and many requested more of these reunions be held.

WW I Vets Are Guests at MJM

A very interesting assembly was held at Myron J. Michael School, Feb. 26, at which time five veterans of World War I spoke to the 8th grade students about their experiences in the first world war. Tom Guerriero, grade supervisor, introduced each speaker.

The first speaker, ex-mayor Eugene B. Carey, served in the Adjutant-General's Office and at General John J. Pershing's headquarters in France. He helped organize the message center for the Second American Army. Carey displayed a Kingston Daily Freeman dated July 13, 1917 which contained a list of 2020 draftees from this area. He also had a registration card dated June 5, 1917 and an acceptance card.

Morton Finch, the father of MJM social studies teacher John Finch, recalled that World War I began for the United States in April of 1917 and ended on Nov. 11, 1918. He informed the audience that the armed forces were increased from 50,000 to 4,500,000 and that 2,000,000 of these men went overseas. The 2,500,000 who remained at home aided in building and operating training camps. Finch was a member of the 147th Engineers who constructed roads, railroads and bridges to assist in troop transportation.

Retired Deputy Fire Chief Harold Sanford served with the famous Co. M, New York State Infantry from June 1917 until July 1919. He spoke of Co. M as the oldest military outfit in the United States whose plaque contains a complete roster of 153 men, 67 of whom are still living. They marched through the Moselle Valley in France to Cobleny, Germany.

Peter Keresman, retired Secretary of the New York Police Conference, marched with the Pioneer Infantry. He entered this group on May 26, 1918. Keresman spoke about the German U-boat interference with United States commerce. He said the work of the Pioneer Infantry was to keep roads and wood open for troop travel until 11 a. m. on November 11, 1918 when the bombardment ceased with a silence which could be heard. The food which the armed forces consumed was adequate but not overly interesting.

The last speaker of the day was MJM's own Chief of Maintainance, Joseph Sills, whose captain in Co. M was Frank Meagher, the first principal of the Myron J. Michael School. Sills was thoroughly trained for the infantry but became a "pill roller" or first aid man in the front line trenches. He was severely wounded Sept. 29, 1918 during the capture of the Hindenburg line and was hospitalized first at Rouen, France, then in England and finally at Fort McHenry in the United States for a year before he was discharged.

Every year, more than two million visitors view Niagara Falls.

Abolition Film To Be Shown by Hurley GOP Club

Peter Weider, president of the Republican Club of Town of Hurley, today announced that the controversial film, "Operation Abolition," will be shown at the regular meeting of the Club on Tuesday, March 13, at 8 p. m. in the Old Hurley fire hall.

The movie, which was produced by the House Committee on Un-American Activities and directed by Fulton Lewis, 3rd, shows the Communist directed student mobs in California and their efforts to break up the hearings on the Un-American Activities Committee which were being held to look into Communist infiltration of West Coast labor unions and other groups in that area.

Since the film has been produced it has been shown to veteran, civic and political groups all over the nation as well as in hundreds of American schools including Kingston High School. Whenever shown many left wing groups and individuals have protested the film and in some cases mobs of pickets, similar to the ones shown in the film staged mass demonstrationss.

Despite condemnation by Communists, fellow travelers, various left wing groups and strangly enough, by many church groups, the movie has drawn large crowds and in the opinion of most of those who have seen the picture it has opened their eyes to just how far Communist influence has gone in this nation and how completely the Communists have taken over at least a segment of American's students.

President Weider pointed out that many of America's leading citizens have praised the film, and added that the Republican Club of the Town of Hurley is urging everyone in the area, members and non-members alike to attend this free showing of "Operation Abolition."

Late Start Due For Lakes Travel

DETROIT (AP) — The U.S. Weather Bureau said today the most extensive ice coverage of the northern Great Lakes in recent years indicates a late opening for northern lake shipping ports this year.

In a pre-season shipping condition forecast, the Weather Bureau said the coldest weather of the season occurred last week. Temperatures ranged down to 30 degrees below zero over Lake Superior and northern parts of Lakes Michigan and Huron.

A Canadian aerial survey indicates that the current ice field is the most extensive in recent years.

Augmenting an ice threat to an early opening of northern ports was the Weather Bureau's 30-day forecast calling for temperatures much below normal over Lake Superior and below-normal temperatures over the other Great Lakes.

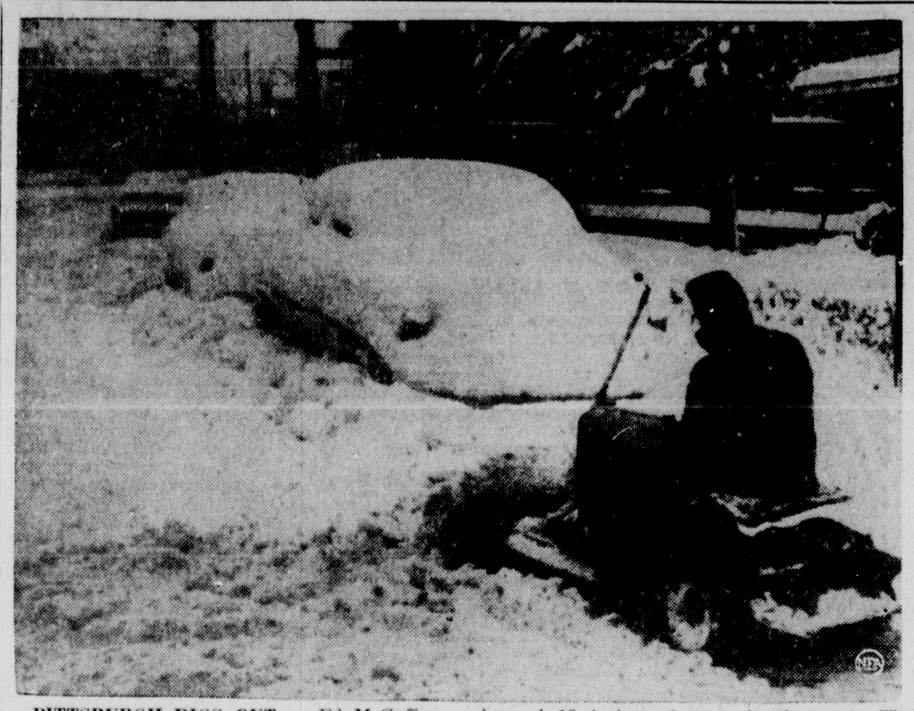

Probability charts, based on February mean temperatures, indicate April 17-20 as probable opening dates for Green Bay, Duluth and Sault Ste. Marie ports; April 20-25 for Marquette; April 15 for Buffalo and March 25-29 for Cleveland and Detroit.

In its forecast, the Weather Bureau issued the following report on ice conditions on the various lakes:

Lake Ontario—Extensive coverage from north and west shores. Youngstown, lower Niagara one-third full, moving freely with floes to beyond vision in lake; Oswego, 10-12 inches; field to one mile out.

St. Lawrence Waterway—Alexandria Bay, 24 inches, little open water; Iroquois Lock, 23 inches; upper end Lake St. Francis, blue, fast except for small open area in current.

Fire Company 1 Monthly Meeting

Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 held its monthly meeting in the Fire Hall Monday evening, March 5. Chief George Haythorne reported four alarms during February. There were two chimney fires and two defective oil burners.

The chief also stated that the fire telephone was being used to get the location of the fire whenever the fire siren was sounded. As previously stated this ties up the telephone and prevents any further alarms being received. The chief also is unable to get in touch with the fire house should he need more help at the fire. The chief once again appeals to the public to use the fire telephone only for alarms.

Chairman William Harder reported that all plans have been completed for the annual dinner to be held at Deanie's Saturday evening, March 24 at 7 o'clock. Ladies are invited to attend this social event. Dancing will be held following the dinner.

The dinner this year will be for all the companies in the department and invitations have been sent to them. All are asked to make reservations as soon as pssible so that adequate accommodations can be made.

Robert Smith reported that the two new trucks are expected to be delivered in April or May.

Delegations from the Wittenberg and Lake Hill Companies were present at the meeting.

Rocky Proclaims Girl Scout Week

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The week of March 11 will be Girl Scout Week in New York State, by proclamation of Gov. Rockefeller.

The governor said Tuesday the organization, which celebrates its 50th anniversary Monday, offers a "spirit of helpfulness and a guarantee of better citizenship for tomorrow."

Girl, 4, Ready For Amputation Of Second Leg

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Susie Stuck, recovering quickly from her first operation, is getting ready for the second in a series of operations to amputate both legs at the knees so that she may walk with artificial limbs.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stuck, of suburban Battle Creek Township, were in Chicago last weekend to see her. They report she is doing fine and is as cheerful as ever. They plan to go back next weekend for another visit.

It was a week ago today that surgeons at Chicago's Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children amputated Susie's right leg at the knee. Previous surgery had indicated that the amputations were necessary to help overcome a congenital condition which prevented the muscles in the lower extremities from developing.

Susie is now embarked on perhaps a year of surgery, therapy, being fitted with artificial limbs and learning how to use them.

Relatively few people knew Susie Stuck before last week.

Now the story about the bright-eyed, 4-year-old brunette who participated in the decision to have her legs amputated has gone far and wide.

Susie has friends throughout the nation. She is getting a lot of mail from people she has never known. There are cards and letters from children and adults wishing Susie well.

Mobilizaton Spurs Red Cross Campaign

The American Red Cross, geared to meet mounting demands resulting from the nation's military build-up, is conducting its 1962 campaign for members and funds.

In announcing the March campaign kick-off, Wakeman R. Gardner, fund chairman of the Ulster County Red Cross Chapter, said expansion of U.S. armed forces has underlined the urgency for a successful campaign in Ulster County and throughout the country.

Staff Expanded

The Ulster County Chapter is one of over 3,000 across the nation beginning a month-long fund effort with a "When You Give . . . We Can Help" appeal. The balance of the 3,000 American Red Cross chapters obtain their entire financial support in united fund drives.

"The increase in the size of the U. S. Armed Forces has meant that the Red Cross has had to expand its staff serving with the military around the world," Gardner said. "It also has brought about greater demands for Red Cross services.

"These services to the armed forces, delegated to the Red Cross by Congress, include help in solving family problems, an emergency message service, financial aid and a variety of other forms of help.

He said the Red Cross is on the job 24 hours a day in nearly every American community.

"It is on the job with relief whenever and wherever disaster strikes, provides our families with training that may mean the difference between life and death in the event of enemy attack, saves lives every day by providing blood to hospitals and by research for new medical uses for blood and, at the same time, the Red Cross acts as a training ground for over 20 million young people learning to handle the responsibilities that will be theirs as adults."

$38,000 Ulster Goal

Gardner said the Ulster County Chapter's goal for the 1962 campaign is $38,000.

"This money is used here in Ulster County to carry on the chapter's local service programs and by the national organization for nationwide and world-wide humanitarian activities," Gardner said.

Gardner said that the county chapter has assisted in past years in disaster relief, including outright gifts to families with burnt-out homes, food supplied to rescue operation workers, and in 1955 when almost a quarter of a million dollars was spent by the National Chapter to relieve disaster during the floods.

Nationally, the Red Cross provided relief in over 300 different disaster relief operations. Emergency mass care was given 310,700 persons while 28,250 families received rehabilitation assistance ranging from repair and rebuilding of homes to paying for medical expenses arising from disaster-caused injury or illness. Red Cross spent $9.7 million for disaster services last year.

As for Red Cross services to the armed forces, veterans and their families, some 77,000 servicemen received help from the Red Cross each month at military installations and hospitals.

At the same time, Red Cross chapters aided 81,500 servicemen's families each month and 36,500 veterans' families.

Other Red Cross achievements included the collection of over 2,507,700 pints of blood, issuing over 1,000,000 certificates to persons completing Red Cross first aid courses and 1,877,000 certificates in water safety.

In addition, 209,000 certificates went to those trained in home nursing while 60,300 registered nurses enrolled with Red Cross for community service.

Abolition Film To Be Shown by Hurley GOP Club

Peter Weider, president of the Republican Club of Town of Hurley, today announced that the controversial film, "Operation Abolition," will be shown at the regular meeting of the Club on Tuesday, March 13, at 8 p. m. in the Old Hurley fire hall.

The movie, which was produced by the House Committee on Un-American Activities and directed by Fulton Lewis, 3rd, shows the Communist directed student mobs in California and their efforts to break up the hearings on the Un-American Activities Committee which were being held to look into Communist infiltration of West Coast labor unions and other groups in that area.

Since the film has been produced it has been shown to veteran, civic and political groups all over the nation as well as in hundreds of American schools including Kingston High School. Whenever shown many left wing groups and individuals have protested the film and in some cases mobs of pickets, similar to the ones shown in the film staged mass demonstrationss.

Despite condemnation by Communists, fellow travelers, various left wing groups and strangly enough, by many church groups, the movie has drawn large crowds and in the opinion of most of those who have seen the picture it has opened their eyes to just how far Communist influence has gone in this nation and how completely the Communists have taken over at least a segment of American's students.

President Weider pointed out that many of America's leading citizens have praised the film, and added that the Republican Club of the Town of Hurley is urging everyone in the area, members and non-members alike to attend this free showing of "Operation Abolition."

Late Start Due For Lakes Travel

DETROIT (AP) — The U.S. Weather Bureau said today the most extensive ice coverage of the northern Great Lakes in recent years indicates a late opening for northern lake shipping ports this year.

In a pre-season shipping condition forecast, the Weather Bureau said the coldest weather of the season occurred last week. Temperatures ranged down to 30 degrees below zero over Lake Superior and northern parts of Lakes Michigan and Huron.

A Canadian aerial survey indicates that the current ice field is the most extensive in recent years.

Augmenting an ice threat to an early opening of northern ports was the Weather Bureau's 30-day forecast calling for temperatures much below normal over Lake Superior and below-normal temperatures over the other Great Lakes.

Probability charts, based on February mean temperatures, indicate April 17-20 as probable opening dates for Green Bay, Duluth and Sault Ste. Marie ports; April 20-25 for Marquette; April 15 for Buffalo and March 25-29 for Cleveland and Detroit.

In its forecast, the Weather Bureau issued the following report on ice conditions on the various lakes:

Lake Ontario—Extensive coverage from north and west shores. Youngstown, lower Niagara one-third full, moving freely with floes to beyond vision in lake; Oswego, 10-12 inches; field to one mile out.

St. Lawrence Waterway—Alexandria Bay, 24 inches, little open water; Iroquois Lock, 23 inches; upper end Lake St. Francis, blue, fast except for small open area in current.

Fire Company 1 Monthly Meeting

Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 held its monthly meeting in the Fire Hall Monday evening, March 5. Chief George Haythorne reported four alarms during February. There were two chimney fires and two defective oil burners.

The chief also stated that the fire telephone was being used to get the location of the fire whenever the fire siren was sounded. As previously stated this ties up the telephone and prevents any further alarms being received. The chief also is unable to get in touch with the fire house should he need more help at the fire. The chief once again appeals to the public to use the fire telephone only for alarms.

Chairman William Harder reported that all plans have been completed for the annual dinner to be held at Deanie's Saturday evening, March 24 at 7 o'clock. Ladies are invited to attend this social event. Dancing will be held following the dinner.

The dinner this year will be for all the companies in the department and invitations have been sent to them. All are asked to make reservations as soon as possible so that adequate accommodations can be made.

Robert Smith reported that the two new trucks are expected to be delivered in April or May.

Delegations from the Wittenberg and Lake Hill Companies were present at the meeting.

Rocky Proclaims Girl Scout Week

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The week of March 11 will be Girl Scout Week in New York State, by proclamation of Gov. Rockefeller.

The governor said Tuesday the organization, which celebrates its 50th anniversary Monday, offers a "spirit of helpfulness and a guarantee of better citizenship for tomorrow."

Girl, 4, Ready For Amputation Of Second Leg

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Susie Stuck, recovering quickly from her first operation, is getting ready for the second in a series of operations to amputate both legs at the knees so that she may walk with artificial limbs.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stuck, of suburban Battle Creek Township, were in Chicago last weekend to see her. They report she is doing fine and is as cheerful as ever. Thev plan to go back next weekend for another visit.

It was a week ago today that surgeons at Chicago's Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children amputated Susie's right leg at the knee. Previous surgery had indicated that the amputations were necessary to help overcome a congenital condition which prevented the muscles in the lower extremities from developing.

Susie is now embarked on perhaps a year of surgery, therapy, being fitted with artificial limbs and learning how to use them.

Relatively few people knew Susie Stuck before last week.

Now the story about the bright-eyed, 4-year-old brunette who participated in the decision to have her legs amputated has gone far and wide.

Susie has friends throughout the nation. She is getting a lot of mail from people she has never known. There are cards and letters from children and adults wishing Susie well.

Mobilizaton Spurs Red Cross Campaign

The American Red Cross, geared to meet mounting demands resulting from the nation's military build-up, is conducting its 1962 campaign for members and funds.

In announcing the March campaign kick-off, Wakeman R. Gardner, fund chairman of the Ulster County Red Cross Chapter, said expansion of U.S. armed forces has underlined the urgency for a successful campaign in Ulster County and throughout the country.

Staff Expanded

The Ulster County Chapter is one of over 3,000 across the nation beginning a month-long fund effort with a "When You Give . . . We Can Help" appeal. The balance of the 3,000 American Red Cross chapters obtain their entire financial support in united fund drives.

"The increase in the size of the U. S. Armed Forces has meant that the Red Cross has had to expand its staff serving with the military around the world," Gardner said. "It also has brought about greater demands for Red Cross services.

"These services to the armed forces, delegated to the Red Cross by Congress, include help in solving family problems, an emergency message service, financial aid and a variety of other forms of help.

He said the Red Cross is on the job 24 hours a day in nearly every American community.

"It is on the job with relief whenever and wherever disaster strikes, provides our families with training that may mean the difference between life and death in the event of enemy attack, saves lives every day by providing blood to hospitals and by research for new medical uses for blood and, at the same time, the Red Cross acts as a training ground for over 20 million young people learning to handle the responsibilities that will be theirs as adults."

$38,000 Ulster Goal

Gardner said the Ulster County Chapter's goal for the 1962 campaign is $38,000.

"This money is used here in Ulster County to carry on the chapter's local service programs and by the national organization for nationwide and world-wide humanitarian activities," Gardner said.

Gardner said that the county chapter has assisted in past years in disaster relief, including outright gifts to families with burnt-out homes, food supplied to rescue operation workers, and in 1955 when almost a quarter of a million dollars was spent by the National Chapter to relieve disaster during the floods.

Nationally, the Red Cross provided relief in over 300 different disaster relief operations. Emergency mass care was given 310,700 persons while 28,250 families received rehabilitation assistance ranging from repair and rebuilding of homes to paying for medical expenses arising from disaster-caused injury or illness. Red Cross spent $9.7 million for disaster services last year.

As for Red Cross services to the armed forces, veterans and their families, some 77,000 servicemen received help from the Red Cross each month at military installations and hospitals.

At the same time, Red Cross chapters aided 81,500 servicemen's families each month and 36,500 veterans' families.

Other Red Cross achievements included the collection of over 2,507,700 pints of blood, issuing over 1,000,000 certificates to persons completing Red Cross first aid courses and 1,877,000 certificates in water safety.

In addition, 209,000 certificates went to those trained in home nursing while 60,300 registered nurses enrolled with Red Cross for community service.
